- It may take her little bit longer to get things done but she puts all she has into it.
- Edgenuity or any virtual software is not working for my child. She needs teachers that teach like they use to prior to the pandemic
- We appreciate everything you are doing this year.
- Unsure
- The teachers need to communicate with the students more. Check in with them weekly.
- We just want the best for our children
- Very happy with the schools precautions with Covid-19 this school year.
- I want teachers and staff to know that my child is having more trouble in school this year than any other year and that Edgenuity, in my opinion, is not a very great program to have my child learn. But overall my child is doing good and the teachers are very good in making my child understand things she is not understanding.
- My child learns well through traditional instruction versus virtual learning.
- As far as communication goes I do not like Facebook being used at times as the sole source of communication. If I see anything the school posts I have to look for it because it does not come up on my feed but regardless of that I do not feel the school should rely on Facebook because not everyone uses it or stays on it all the time. Wheeler sends out emails and texts to parents and that seems to work well.
- We're just thankful to be here this year.
- school is very important to us
- Every child learns differently!!! Respect and patience are needed for each child!!
- Kids are so very different. Please get to know them individually and help them find their strengths.
- The 7th grade teachers are awesome!
- Stop putting my child in iss just let them say in for break for some days or silent lunch or wat ever
- Teachers who use fun and engaging activities are easier to learn from and make the student want to learn from them.
- Comunicación con los alumnos y nosotros cómo padres apoyar alas maestras también (Translation=Communication with the students and us as parent support the teacher too)
