Nicole Strathman	How is LBUSD determining "reduced capacity" with our school buses? I was told that sibilings would not be permitted to sit together, and would count towards the one student per row in a zig-zag fashion. The state websites (both Dept. of Ed and Public Health) say that sibilings could sit together on school buses. So why is LBUSD prohibiting it? And if other forms of public transportation including planes, shuttles, and trolleys allow for more than one person per row, and often for much longer trips than across town, then how is LBUSD justifying the reduced capacity?
