Dear Legacy Families,

State Superintendent of Education, Molly Spearman, issued an order that face coverings must be used by students and staff on state-owned school buses, beginning no later than Monday, August 30, 2021. Although Legacy's buses are not state-owned, we are choosing to follow this guidance.

Based on the increasing levels of the highly transmissible Delta variant in South Carolina, we feel that more protective measures will help reduce the likelihood of virus transmission.

In addition, we would like to strongly encourage our scholars and staff to wear face coverings while at school each day.

We are so thankful for our scholars and families. We believe that these protective measures will ensure that more of our staff and scholars are at school every day. Our mission that every scholar at Legacy Early College will get to and through college will not waiver as we face challenging circumstances.

We are here for you. Please don't hesitate to reach out to us if you have questions.

Sincerely,
