

Sherief Meleis '88

Sherief Meleis '88 is an Executive Vice President of Curinos, a global analytics, technology solutions, and data provider to financial institutions. Sherief has expertise in bank strategy, channel management, and pricing and has supported banks in the U.S., Canada, Australia, Asia Pacific, and the Middle East. Before Curinos, Sherief was also a co-founder of Novantas and was a senior consultant at First Manhattan Consulting group, advising large financial institutions on strategy. Sherief received his MBA from MIT's Sloan School of Management in 1997 and his A.B. in Economics from Harvard College in 1992. Having grown up in the Bay Area (Greenbrae, in Marin County), Sherief attended UHS ('88) and Marin Country Day School. Sherief has been actively involved in immigrant issues for years. He was a long-time Board Chair and helped found the Arab American Family Support Center in Brooklyn, which has grown to be the largest social services agency serving Arab Americans in the Northeast. Sherief is married to a fellow Marinite, Deena Emera (an evolutionary biologist), and they have four children. Sherief lives with his family in Mill Valley.
