

Paul Wythes P '23, '25

Paul Wythes began his career working for a series of technology companies in San Francisco and Seattle, including Andersen Consulting (Accenture) and Oracle. He has been investing in early-stage start-up companies creating innovative technical solutions to mitigate climate change for the past several years. Paul has served on several volunteer boards, most recently the Presidio / Pt. Bonita YMCA board, where he served as board chair. While on the Y board, he chaired the Pt. Bonita YMCA capital campaign. Before his time on the YMCA board, he served on the San Francisco Zoological Society board and the Bucknell University Alumni Association board. Paul received a B.A. from Bucknell and an MBA from Northwestern's Kellogg School of Management. He lives in San Francisco with his wife Mai Mai and their two children – daughter Alexandra and Thomas. Paul was born and raised on the peninsula and enjoys cooking, playing golf, and spending time in the Lake Tahoe area.
