Got Inflation?

The temporary versus permanent nature of price growth and the resulting inflation remains the focal point for markets this quarter as Chair Powell acknowledged the potential of persistent inflation pressure. Production costs have moved up sharply due to supply chain disruptions but that will likely ease. Wage pressures have largely resulted from artificial policy measures disrupting the balance in labor markets which may be more permanent.

As some prices temporarily increase others will persist or emerge but all create short and long imbalances. An example would be oil which causes a jump in gas. It's a temporary rise (55% in WTI in 2021) but eventually this slows car sales, airline tickets and production costs. Another example is semi-conductors which has limited car productions. Vehicle prices rose 38% in the last year reflecting that move. Even non-processed food prices jumped but may settle in and pass on processed food later.

Inflation has been growing without a doubt but the question of its staying power affects markets and the Fed directly. Inflation definitely signals a growing economy. Manufacturing continues to slowly increase despite supply chain woes. Manufacturers have seen the biggest jump in 42 years raising their end product prices. Housing continues to amaze. The number and price of homes is at a record high largely due to migration – from urban to suburban. This appears to be a perfect storm of the imbalance of supply and demand making it a seller's market. But if the seller is moving for a job they will have difficulty in a new area thereby affecting employment.

The Fed Grows Talons

The balance on the Fed FOMC opinions emerging from this month's meeting showed a definite hawkish tone indicating a move away from the massively accommodative stance of the last 15 months. The comments from the June FOMC meeting indicates that the Fed may be on the slow train to tapering (reducing the monthly security purchases supporting the long end of the curve). It won't come quickly though.

Even on the Committee consensus building needs time. The two sides see a move away from peak growth in GDP and inflation so there is no rush to start the process and potentially incur the wrath of another taper tantrum as seen in 2013 as the punch bowl support was removed. The dot plot, which indicates the members' rate forecasts, shows a move to much more rapid change than last month. The market expects the first hike in about 18 mos.

It is likely that the July meeting will have a robust discussion with some forward guidance coming in September. The biggest question and rate of hikes will hinge on whether inflation is seen as transitory or permanent.

The first step will be the tapering of longer-term security purchases. These purchases create a scarcity in the longer securities, raising prices and keeping long term rates low. Reducing that severely affects the long end of the yield curve. The Fed is not alone, globally central banks are retaining the security purchases to keep rates low.

One major change at the Fed was the increased rate on the Fed's Reverse Repo. The appetite for any increased short rates has made that 0.05% market surging (to about $700 billion a week). Short term and cash alternatives are limited with cash continuing to increase creating this need.

Finally, banks, though awash in cash, are turning depositors away. But they passed their latest Dodd-Frank Stress Tests with flying colors. Not a surprise after all the Fed assistance last year.

FNMA and FHLMC are not so lucky. The Court set the stage for both agencies to stay in conservatorship as full faith and credit of the US., as they have become major profit centers for the US Treasury.

Why is the Curve Moving and Flattening?

- The curve has been flattening from 2 years to 10 years which seems to be from longer end rallies and short end selling. We have moved from the bear flattening seen previously. The effect seems the same however with rates so very low and little wiggle room.
- Short end investors remain liquid or short until some way forward is clearer and as definitive signs appear.
- The inflation narrative is being driven by the Fed speak giving recognition to higher prices bubbling into the conversation.
- At some point the Fed will begin to taper raining on the long end's long bull run.

Portfolio Overview

As of June 30, 2021

- P&A reviews your portfolio for optimal asset allocation and a controlled average maturity because a diversified portfolio can better adjust to volatile market conditions. Where extensions can be made in the portfolio, it is important to make them to find available safe value in the markets.
- The graphs below show asset allocations by market sector and by maturity in your portfolio. Inside of 1 year, we continue to see value in commercial paper. Our expectation is of continuing low rates, but we look for value in your authorized sectors to extend and capture the yield available as markets change.
