

SARALY

EHS 2014, DANA HALL SCHOOL 2018,
BARNARD COLLEGE 2022

Saraly grew up in East Harlem with her two older sisters and her parents who emigrated to New York from Puebla, Mexico. When she joined EHS in the 6th grade, Saraly was a brilliant but reserved student, and over the course of her three years with us she blossomed into a star athlete, gifted poet, and strong student leader. After graduation, Saraly attended Dana Hall, a boarding school in Massachusetts, where she excelled academically and pursued many extra-curricular opportunities. She studied abroad in Spain, spoke at a diversity leadership conference in California, interned for Senator Elizabeth Warren, and traveled to South Africa for a community service project. Saraly chose to return to New York for college, where she is now a senior at Barnard College. At Barnard, Saraly is the co-president of Mujeres (the Latinx affinity club on Barnard's campus) and, in September of 2021, she helped curate an exhibition called Undesign the Redline at the Barnard Library! Saraly has also returned to EHS as a Saturday School tutor, Poetry Slam judge, alumni speaker, and Summer Semester teacher.
