Subject: O'Nan Investigation...Things you need to know. FACTS , PHOTOS &
PROOF exists!

Dear Board Members,

There was obviously NO real investigation conducted by the Superintendent's offices of Amanda O'Nan, but rather an attempt to sweep it under the rug by Jeff Moss (known and proven to be not quite the honest or ethical person), and by Jim Foster his lacky mouthpiece.

1.) What was not totally revealed, but alluded to in the Beaufort County Sheriff's office Internal Affairs Investigation report, was the fact that there was a Private Investigator involved in this matter who uncovered, documented and photographed the nighttime transgressions of Amanda Holmes and Sargeant DeJuan Holmes at the school late at night on numerous occasions. Sgt. Holmes was "on duty" at the times caught using his undercover Beaufort County pickup truck with untraceable license plates. He was later finally identified by that PI, who is nationally known and well respected in the Beaufort County area by numerous law firms apparently. That will certainly be all presented in Family Court, possibly resulting in her loss of custody of her children.

2.) When Sgt. Holmes was confronted by internal affairs officer Lt. Brian Baird and Sheriff PJ Tanner that he was going to be asked questions about Amanda O'Nan and their relationship, where he was on certain nights, including the County High School in Hilton Head, he was "On Duty" and using a county vehicle and that he would have to take a polygraph....Sgt. Holmes immediately resigned so he did not incriminate himself with lies to Investigators, leaving his 14 year career, benefits and $60,000+ salary. That single act alone should speak volumes to you.

3.) It was also learned that Sgt. Holme's wife, Deanna Holmes is a teacher in the school on the same complex as the High School. The morality factor involved by these individuals is disgusting, and far from the example that needs to be set for our children attending the Beaufort County Schools, let alone the the very High School where she is the "leader".

4.) Amanda Holmes was not aware of the PI apparently (or the evidence) as she continued her lies of not only not being involved with Officer Holmes, but of even being at the school with him. (Apparently many times as late as midnight.) She parked her vehicle out in front of the school, and Sgt. Holmes would "hide" his undercover vehicle in the back of the school and be let in by Ms. O'Nan by the rear entrance. (All documented with photos, etc.) They also used various hotels in the area at other times.

5.) Amanda O'Nan was easily able to leave her 3 young children at home as her mother lives with her.

6.) Amanda Holmes has set a culture of "fear" into the current teachers and administrative staff at the school with threats if they talk about the issue with anyone. Including walking into a staff meeting last week and held up a cell phone in each hand and said.. "This phone is my work phone, and this phone is for my booty calls". Most of the individuals in that meeting were disgusted.

7.) Hopefully you will recall the "firing" of head football coach Tim Singleton led by Amanda O'Nan. [redacted] "persuaded" Amanda O'Nan to get rid of Tim Singleton . Thus the fear factor in other employees.

Hopefully, the Board will do its job and it's duty this time around, and get rid of the cancer in their High School. You missed the boat with Jeff Moss, and a community is outraged....but to do it twice is just a bad signal and example to send to the students in the whole county, but even more so in Hilton Head High school. Let's step up to the plate and show morals do matter, and lies lead to consequences. Show our children that it does matter.

Respectfully,

A very concerned parent.

Thank you for sharing this background information JoAnn. I attended that meeting and forgot about the vote to promote the employee.

That meeting made a deeper and more negative impression on me. The meeting, held in the Bluffton Library, had a celebration announced by Dr. Moss. The celebration was to recognize all the employees who were retiring from the district or leaving due to new opportunities. As I recall Dr. Moss read off about 80 names, some of whom served the district for over 30 years. In my notes on the meeting, I counted only 23 people, some with family members, who showed up to receive the Superintendent's not so personal thanks, receive a gift, and have their picture taken. I felt very strongly that this "celebration" was held at the wrong place at the wrong time and indicated to me that the District placed little value in the act of rewarding employees for dedicated service. It also was a indication of employee morale in that they were not willing to come and be recognized for that service.

I am commenting on this now in the hope that we can do better in the future (hopefully this year). I would suggest a dinner held before the school year ends perhaps in one of the high school cafeterias and the departing employees and their spouses be invited. I would further suggest that they be introduced by their principal or senior staff member with a kind word and/or remembrance.

I know we value our employees and we should take every opportunity to demonstrate that to them .

David,

The firm the Board is currently entertaining is Halligan Mahoney and Williams.

In 2016 (when the O'Nan case first appeared) the district supposedly used the Childs and Halligan firm. Both Mahoney and Williams were working for Ken Childs at that time, and may have worked to some extent on that investigation. (If there was one.)

The invoices will determine if this is true or not, thus the "exploration".

You've gotta pass a lot of good law firms on your way to Halligan Mahoney and Williams. If there is even the slightest question of conflict, then what would be the harm in selecting another firm? Why the insistence on Halligan Mahoney and Williams?

I hope this helps clarify the reason for my invoices request. Please let me know if you have any additional questions.

So, I agree that an Attorney is supposed to reveal any potential conflicts of interest before they do business with us. In this case, we have done that for them. I view Child's involvement with both the District and the firm in the time frames we are looking at to be a disqualification. It is not just problematic, it is a disqualification. However, like each of us, I am only one of eleven, and this must be determined by the full Board.

In order to help all eleven reached an informed decision, I support having all the invoices mentioned in JoAnn Orischak's email delivered to us ASAP, for thoughtful review before we meet on Tuesday night.

Incidentally, since Mr. Duff is not currently in our employ, can you share with us the conversation you had with him in which he emphasized that Childs is no longer listed as a Partner?

Herb, can you make the invoice distribution happen? It seems like a rather simple request and should be very easy to accommodate us in a very short period of time.

So.....Ken Childs has represented the district in the O'Nan matter in 2015-16 and 2019 despite changing law firms in the interim. The BOE is now considering a third firm (Halligan Mahoney Williams) to represent their interests but the firm has one or more attorneys who have been partner(s) with Childs in the past. Do not see on the surface how this is problematic. The attorney must disclose any potential conflicts of interest to the client before engaging in business with them.

BTW Dave Duff told me Ken Childs is now classified "of counsel" in their firm.

If you don't mind, I'd prefer to discuss this matter on Tuesday with the full Board.

In preparation for Tuesday night's Board meeting, I'd like the Board to review:

- 1) Any/all attorney invoices per the 2015/2016 O'Nan investigation.
- 2) Any/all attorney invoices per the 2018/2019 O'Nan investigation.

BTW, the fact that Dave Duff now classifies Ken Childs as "of counsel" (as opposed to partner?) is not a game changer for me.

Berkeley County Schools finance director fired after allegations of misappropriating funds

By Brenda Rindge brindge@postandcourier.com
<<https://www.postandcourier.com/users/profile/BrendaRindge>> Feb 8, 2017

The chief financial officer of Berkeley County School District has been fired in the wake of allegations of misappropriating funds, and school officials had little to say Wednesday about the amount of money involved or the potential impact on schools there.

Brantley D. Thomas III, who has worked for the district since 1993, oversaw all of the district's monies, including its nearly $260 million general fund.

Superintendent Brenda Blackburn, Board Chairwoman Sally Wofford, Vice Chairman Mac McQuillin and district lawyers learned of an investigation into the district's finances during a Monday meeting with investigators from Wells Fargo and the FBI.

"We appreciate Wells Fargo and the FBI for promptly bringing this to our attention," Wofford said in a statement released Wednesday. "We ask the public's patience as we thoroughly investigate this matter and promise to take all appropriate actions."

Blackburn fired Thomas, 60, on Tuesday, according to a district press release. Thomas has not yet been charged because the investigation is ongoing.

Calls to Thomas' home went unanswered Wednesday afternoon, and his lawyer, Matt Hubbell, said he could not comment other than to say that Thomas is fully cooperating with authorities.

The release did not specify how much money was at issue. It said a review of all financial accounts and monetary transactions is underway.

The school board held an emergency meeting Monday to receive advice from district lawyer Josh Whitley on a criminal investigation. It voted immediately to go into closed session, which lasted about an hour, and then adjourned without comment.

Board members reached Wednesday refused to comment, citing the ongoing investigation. They would not say how much money is missing or how it might impact district operations.

The district also declined to comment. An acting CFO has not yet been appointed, officials said.

The district has come under fire in the last couple of years for some financial decisions, including large property tax increases in 2015 and 2016.

In addition, after a State Law Enforcement Division investigation into the district's $198 million Yes for Schools building campaign, the district spent more than $500,000 on salaries for indicted employees Rodney Thompson and Amy Kovach and lawyer's fees for the pair and Deputy Superintendent Archie Franchini, who was not indicted. Thompson and Kovach both pleaded guilty to ethics violations in connection with the 2012 referendum campaign.

In November, voters expressed their dissatisfaction with the board by electing four new members associated with the county's conservative Republicans. Three board members chose not to seek re-election and two incumbents, Chairman Jim Hayes and Julius Barnes, were defeated.

At its Jan. 10 meeting, the board received the results of an audit for its fiscal year ending June 30, during which Larry Finney of Greenville-based accounting firm Greene, Finney & Horton gave the district an "unmodified opinion," the best result possible.

The audit did not look at every transaction, but instead used a sampling technique, Finney said at the time.

"Those are the kinds of things that let me sleep at night," Superintendent Brenda Blackburn said upon hearing the favorable report.

Thomas, a Hanahan resident, is a 1975 graduate of Porter-Gaud and earned an accounting degree from Wofford College in 1979.

Until Tuesday, he was listed as chairman of the S.C. Association of Governmental Organizations, a nonprofit program created in 2002 to fund the building of school facilities through municipal bonds, according to its website. On Wednesday, Thomas' name was removed from the site, and Horry County accounting officer William Saunders was listed as acting chairman.

Thomas' brother-in-law, Mike Gallagher, director of Compass Municipal Advisors in Columbia, serves as the organization's financial adviser and program administrator.

Tourism and travel generated a record economic impact of $22.6 billion in South Carolina last year. That's an increase of $1.4 billion since 2016 and a 50 percent increase since 2010. The positive news was announced by South Carolina Parks, Recreation & Tourism Director Duane Parish at last week's Governor's Conference on Tourism and Travel. It marks the sixth consecutive year of impressive tourism growth and Hilton Head Island is a strong contributor to South Carolina's tourism success.

On Hilton Head Island, in Bluffton and beyond, we know that the success of tourism comes from telling the world about our unique cultural events and offerings, and Lowcountry cuisine is a big part of what makes our area so special. It's the reason we launched Foodie February last year—to shine the spotlight on the wide array of culinary experiences that happen in the month of February.

The 12th annual Hilton Head Island Seafood Festival is a big part of Foodie February. Kudos to the Carmine's family and their David M. Carmines Memorial Foundation for bringing together top chefs from around the country as well as mixologists, sommeliers, and seafood artisans to demonstrate the best-of-the-best in Lowcountry cuisine. From the James Beard Foundation Dinner to yesterday's brunch, it was an outstanding series of events and proceeds raised support local charities.

The Gullah Celebration is another signature event that happens during Foodie February. Attendees not only get to enjoy Gullah cuisine, they have the chance to learn about our area's rich Gullah heritage. It's an important part of our history and one that's being discovered by visitors and locals alike. It's wonderful to see our community come together to promote Gullah culture.

Foodie February also plays host to our Chamber Restaurant Week. Over fourteen thousand of you visited our Chamber Restaurant Week website to find your favorite menus and support our local eateries. (Use if the number is a good one)

Thanks for being part of Foodie February. Your support means these events will continue to grow and the world will continue to discover all the Lowcountry has to offer. That's good news for all of us.

Have a great week!
