HELP STUDENTS IN OUR COMMUNITY ACHIEVE THEIR PERSONAL BEST.

Join the SMSD Team!

The SMSD is currently seeking applicants in operations and maintenance, food service, and special education (paraeducators and aides).

These positions offer benefits such as:

- PAID HOLIDAYS
- HEALTH INSURANCE
- FREE FITNESS CENTER
- RETIREMENT PLAN
- ON-SITE HEALTH FACILITY
- PAID SICK LEAVE

Visit www.smsd.org to learn more and apply!

Features INSIDE

4  >  The Hub—Updates from Superintendent Dr. Michelle Hubbard
6  >  Reading Across SMSD
8  >  SMSD Strong: Bond Project Update
9  >  Portrait of a Graduate
10 >  Seniors earn $2.1 Billion in Scholarship Offers
12 >  A Sense of Belonging for Every Student

ON THE COVER: David Stubblefield, associate superintendent of leadership and learning, interviews Olivia Bloomfield, Corinth fourth-grader, about how to create change.

JCCC: A RESOURCE OPEN ALL YEAR

We're here for every step of your educational journey.

We offer flexible online and on-campus classes—all at competitive tuition rates. Enroll today. jccc.edu/enroll

High school students can earn JCCC credit through College Now—our concurrent enrollment program. Visit jccc.edu/collegenow

#KeepingSMSDStrong
Help us share great news from our district on social media.
The Hub
Updates from Superintendent Dr. Michelle Hubbard

It’s hard to believe winter is just around the corner. With so much going on in our district, the days fly by quickly! It is important to take time to celebrate and cheer the many achievements that occur daily in the Shawnee Mission School District (SMSD).

Welcome to “The Hub,” a place where I hope to share information and shine the spotlight on some of the many inspiring and exciting things happening in our schools.

There is so much that we are proud of in the district, as we continually work and innovate to fulfill the Strategic Plan’s objective that each student will have a personalized learning plan that will prepare them for college and careers, with the interpersonal skills they need for life success.

In The Hub, I hope you learn something new about our incredible students and staff.

Teacher of the Year

We are thrilled to recognize the SMSD Elementary Teacher of the Year, Amy Sachse, and the Secondary Teacher of the Year, Wraye Royle.

A proud graduate of the Shawnee Mission School District, Sachse teaches fourth grade at Corinth Elementary school. Sachse received a Bachelor of Arts Cum Laude in English with a Minor in Educational Studies from Davidson College in North Carolina, and a Master of Arts in Teaching from brown University in Rhode Island. Her goal is to cultivate a sense of belonging and inspire a love of learning for all children.

Royle teaches seventh grade math at Indian Hills Middle School. She earned a Bachelor of Science in Education from the University of Kansas in 2014 and a Master of Science in Education Administration from Fort Hays State University in 2018. Royle is passionate about education and models the value of being a lifelong learner for her students.

Sachse and Royle will now represent the district in the regional competition for the annual Kansas Teacher of the Year (KTOY) award, sponsored by the Kansas State Department of Education. The mission of the KTOY program is to build and utilize a network of exemplary teachers who are leaders in the improvement of schools, student performance, and the teaching profession. We are so proud to have Sachse and Royle represent the Shawnee Mission School District in the next steps of the competition. Congratulations and good luck to them both!

National Merit Finalists

We are proud of the Shawnee Mission seniors named semifinalists in the 2022 National Merit Scholarship Program. They took the 2020 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT), the initial screen for this honor. These semifinalists represent less than 1 percent of all U.S. high school seniors.

It was so great to see these national champions of academics joined by their family members and principals to celebrate at a fall reception. We congratulate them and are grateful to everyone who helped them achieve this accomplishment.

COVID-19 Mitigation Update

The Shawnee Mission School District continues to monitor new cases of COVID-19 in our schools. We’re pleased that mitigation efforts have supported our top priority to keep schools open and safe.

We continue to work closely with the Johnson County Department of Health and Environment (JCDHE) to monitor the spread of the virus and follow the recommendations of our public health department with respect to addressing positive cases, presumed positive cases, and exposures.

As more students have the opportunity to be vaccinated for COVID-19, we hope to re-evaluate mitigation protocols in the future. For more information and to review the COVID-19 Data Dashboard visit: https://bit.ly/CovidInfoSMSD.

Oak Park Mall Featuring Student Owned Businesses

I’m delighted to share that SM West student entrepreneurs are ready to meet your holiday shopping needs. This year, students in Tiffany Dixon’s digital design and entrepreneur class have been creating their own online businesses. They’ve designed and created shops that offer clothing, accessories, home décor, and more. Others are working on raising money through crowdfunding platforms to cover expenses for starting their business.

Through an innovative partnership with Oak Park Mall, the student-owned businesses will be on display in a virtual storefront. The storefront will feature student owned brands and student entrepreneurs seeking startup funding. Shoppers at Oak Park Mall can use QR codes to link to the classroom website.

We are very excited about the experience and potential as the student stores will be live for Black Friday and Cyber Monday. The district is pleased to support these students and this unprecedented Real World Learning partnership. To join us in supporting these student owned businesses, visit https://www.smwvikingdesigns.com/seed-funding or scan the QR code. We hope you will also support our students by shopping in the Oak Park Mall virtual store!

Updates from Superintendent Dr. Michelle Hubbard

The mission of the KTOY program is to build and utilize a network of exemplary teachers who are leaders in the improvement of schools, student performance, and the teaching profession. We are so proud to have Sachse and Royle represent the Shawnee Mission School District in the next steps of the competition. Congratulations and good luck to them both!
A new page-turning opportunity has launched in the Shawnee Mission School District. Read Across SMSD, led in partnership with NEA-Shawnee Mission, is engaging every school in a district-wide celebration of reading.

Each month brings a new theme featuring a new set of books. By encouraging reading for all ages, Read Across SMSD supports the district’s academic goals and the district’s Strategic Plan belief that our community’s strength is derived from its diversity. It provides an opportunity to cultivate a culture of belonging for every student.

“Reading is one of the most powerful ways we can support student success,” Superintendent Dr. Michelle Hubbard shared. “It has been so exciting to see students across the district engaging with Read Across SMSD and hearing about the amazing conversations these books are inspiring.”

Here are some highlights from Read Across SMSD in the 2021-2022 school year:

August: Read Across SMSD Launches

Readers from Overland Park Elementary School joined Dr. Michelle Hubbard, Linda Sieck, NEA-Shawnee Mission President, and librarians Emily Mihelic, Brookwood, and Gary Strout, Prairie, to kick it all off.

Since the launch, Read Across SMSD has inspired many students in the Brookwood library to share their stories, and connections to the books and listen to one another, Mihelic shared. “It is building a community of readers that can interact with the text and each other through this reading experience,” she added. “I hope it continues to be a way for students to see themselves reflected in the stories and a way to build a community of readers that respect and appreciate what each other brings to the table.”

September: Embrace New Beginnings

This theme focused on the topic that even though new beginnings can be scary, they can be faced. Dr. Michelle Hubbard, in her first months as superintendent, engaged new teachers and students transitioning to new schools about their experiences. New SM Northwest Special Education teacher Bryson Dunbar spoke of facing his fears about a new job by asking questions.

“You never know everything,” Dunbar shared. “When you have someone who can guide you, it can make the experience a lot easier.”

October: Create Change

Olivia Bloomfield, a fourth-grader at Corinth Elementary, helped introduce the theme by talking about how she has advocated for inclusive playgrounds in the district and across the metro. The monthly theme encouraged readers to pick up titles helping students recognize their power to change the world. Bloomfield told David Stubblefield, associate superintendent of leadership and learning, that any student who wants to make a change should go for it.

“Everyone can make the world a better place,” Olivia added. “They just need to speak up.”

November: Explore Ancestry and Identity

Books featured this month highlighted characters who make connections with their ancestors and learn more about who they are. SMSD Biotechnology students joined Board of Education member Jamie Bergman for a discussion about how stories and DNA can tell us about our ancestors and who we are.

“DNA can tell us what color eyes your grandma has. But, it can’t tell us what her favorite color is,” Elaine Gast, SM Northwest sophomore and Biotechnology student added. “One way to learn more about ourselves is through stories people tell us and books.”

Read Across SMSD

Join Read Across SMSD

- Find a monthly theme and list of books at https://bit.ly/ReadAcrossSMSD.
- Post your participation on social media using #ReadAcrossSMSD.
- Follow the district @thesmsd on Facebook and Twitter.
- Share upcoming events and activities in SMSD schools with the Communications Team: sdcommun@smsd.org.
The Shawnee Mission School District (SMSD) has a vision for what every student will know and be able to do on their graduation day called the “Portrait of a Graduate.” It highlights key skills and attributes critical to life success. The Portrait was developed in the 2019-20 school year by students, parents, educators, counselors, and partners from business and industry. They represented all district feeder campuses and included individuals whose native language is not English. They rooted their work in the district’s Strategic Plan objective: Each student will have a personalized learning plan that will prepare them for college and careers, with the interpersonal skills they need for life success.

A strength of the Portrait is that it focuses on skills beyond core academic subjects that are needed for life success, shared Dr. Ryan Flurry, principal of career education campuses and coordinator of career and technical education. “Those academic skills are one piece of a larger puzzle when it comes to preparing students for their future,” Flurry noted. The Portrait of a Graduate is designed to support students from Pre-K through graduation, and educators will use this resource as a guide in every school.

Personalized Learning (Broad Values)

All components of the Portrait are achieved through personalized learning. In the Shawnee Mission School District, personalized learning is defined as “learning which places the whole child at the center of instruction and is informed by strong educator/student/family/community relationships to provide equity and choice in time, place, path, pace, and demonstration of learning.”

In August, three SMSD students who helped develop the Portrait and definition of personalized learning helped present the concepts to the Shawnee Mission Board of Education. Tobi Oyetunji, Indian Hills eighth-grader, Lida Padgett, SM East sophomore, and Jocelyn Tovar, Hocker Grove eighth-grader, provided details about what personalized learning will mean for students.

“[A] key part is giving students choice and voice in how they demonstrate their learning,” Tovar added.

Shawnee Mission’s definition of personalized learning means students, families, and educators will collaborate to support student learning. It is supported by targeted instruction which uses a variety of ways to provide feedback and inform instruction. Personalized learning is also supported by student ownership and reflection – giving the students themselves opportunities to set, track, and evaluate their own goals.

The Portrait of a Graduate bolsters district efforts to work in partnership, to serve for students as the bridge to unlimited possibilities yet to be discovered.
Seniors earn $2.1 Billion in Scholarship Offers

Feelings of shock, amazement, and gratitude were shared by many Shawnee Mission students and families as the Shawnee Mission Education Foundation kicked off their annual Scholarship Shawnee Mission program. This year, the program surprised more than 1900 seniors in the SMSD with scholarship offers totaling over $2.1 billion.

“When I tell you I’m so overjoyed I’ve been crying for hours, I mean it! Words cannot express my emotions,” said Shawnee Mission parent Myisha Weatherspoon after learning her son, SM West senior Jayden Ford, earned more than $400,000 in scholarship offers. “This will literally change my son’s life.”

SM South senior Graciela Albarran-Bautista expressed her gratitude to the district and the Foundation for expanding possibilities after high school. “I’ll be the first in my family to go to college,” she shared. “This is a big deal.”

Currently in its third year, the Scholarship Shawnee Mission program connects Shawnee Mission students to scholarship opportunities, explained Ed Márquez, program officer of the Shawnee Mission Education Foundation.

As part of the program, parents opt in to share their student’s data with participating colleges and universities. The schools make scholarship offers to students who match their admissions and scholarship criteria. This year, 45 colleges and universities participated in the program, offering a total of 45,765 scholarships to Shawnee Mission seniors.

“We want students to become aware of opportunities they may not have known about or considered. If they look at these options and see them as a potential avenue for furthering their education, it may improve their ability to make a better decision on the front end of enrollment,” shared Márquez.

Foundation Board member Angelique Rodriguez-Gunion expressed, “I personally know kids that only want to be local, but when they see the scholarship offers, they start to think, ‘oh! I could go to Texas, or Arkansas, or Iowa.’”

The scholarship announcements were made at assemblies in the gymnasium at each Shawnee Mission high school. After receiving their offers, students were encouraged to visit with college representatives who were set up at stations lining the gymnasiums.

“I think this is a great opportunity for students to see what’s out there,” expressed SM South Principal Dr. Todd Dain. “A lot of students, even at this stage as seniors, are undecided on where they’re going. It’s also a great opportunity for the colleges to reach students they may not see otherwise. It’s really a win-win.”

Watching students be surprised with their scholarship offers was a special moment, shared SM South college advisor Lucy Coopman.

“Especially for those kids who do have financial need, it’s heartwarming to see them realize ‘yes, college probably is possible for me,’” Coopman added.

Breaking down barriers and opening opportunities is the purpose of the program, according to Shawnee Mission Education Foundation executive director Kim Hinkle. “We believe that all students should be recruited by colleges and universities without the financial and psychological barriers that are often an implicit part of the college application process,” she shared.

Long-term, the Foundation’s goal is to expand the diversity of the geography, size, and types of postsecondary schools participating in the program.

“We would like colleges in all 50 states to be competing for our Shawnee Mission students. By having more options and opportunities we’ll better help students find a personalized path that will lead them to success after graduation,” shared Hinkle.

Still weighing his college options, SM West senior Jayden Ford hopes to play college football and baseball while studying to be a mental health counselor.

In the meantime, his mother said she sees another benefit as a result of the Scholarship Shawnee Mission program.

“Since he received the scholarship offers, he has been walking around with an extra boost of, ‘I can do anything!’” shared Weatherspoon. “He is so happy, grateful, proud, and appreciative.”
A Sense of Belonging for Every Student

How Equity Practices Are Improving to Help Students Realize Their Full Potential

Strategy 2 is impacting students, two students were asked to reflect on their experience for the Board of Education. They were asked “What are adults doing to make you feel like you belong at your school?”

Charles Gray shared that at Indian Hills Middle School, he appreciates the clubs and programs available. The eighth-grader notices students helping each other out and feels the same support from teachers.

“When I walk down the halls of my school I feel like I can go up to any of my teachers for help and they’ll be right on it and help me,” Gray added.

For Naudia Thurman, that sense of belonging has been reinforced by her ability to participate in a variety of student organizations at Shawnee Mission Northwest. The senior thanked her principal for encouraging her involvement in clubs like the Black Student Union, and for the opportunity to host assemblies, like one focused on Black History Month. This experience has led to further involvement and recognition, including a Princeton Prize in Race Relations.

“I feel like they helped me as an individual to grow,” Thurman shared.

Shawnee Mission high school teachers and student leaders often encourage students to join activities and clubs to strengthen the school environment. That is the case at Shawnee Mission Northwest, principal Dr. Lisa Gruman shared.

“Our purpose as educators and school leaders is to create the best school culture and environments for our students to thrive and develop their potential, learn more about who they want to be, as they transition to their next step,” Gruman expressed.

These opportunities are integral to that purpose.”

It gave Montanez, SM North junior, an added sense of purpose, he said, to be nominated by a teacher to be a part of the Shawnee Mission Education Foundation’s Leadership Shawnee Mission program. Using the skills he has learned in this program and as a LINK leader (a mentor for freshmen of the Shawnee Mission Education Foundation’s Leadership Shawnee Mission program. Using the skills he has learned in this program and as a LINK leader (a mentor for freshmen), Montanez is an example of the support and encouragement available to students.

For Naudia Thurman, that sense of belonging has been reinforced by her ability to participate in a variety of student organizations at Shawnee Mission Northwest. The senior thanked her principal for encouraging her involvement in clubs like the Black Student Union, and for the opportunity to host assemblies, like one focused on Black History Month. This experience has led to further involvement and recognition, including a Princeton Prize in Race Relations.

“I feel like they helped me as an individual to grow,” Thurman shared.

Shawnee Mission high school teachers and student leaders often encourage students to join activities and clubs to strengthen the school environment. That is the case at Shawnee Mission Northwest, principal Dr. Lisa Gruman shared.

“Our purpose as educators and school leaders is to create the best school culture and environments for our students to thrive and discover their potential, learn more about who they want to be, as they transition to their next step,” Gruman expressed.

“These opportunities are integral to that purpose.”

It gave Montanez, SM North junior, an added sense of purpose, he said, to be nominated by a teacher to be a part of the Shawnee Mission Education Foundation’s Leadership Shawnee Mission program. Using the skills he has learned in this program and as a LINK leader (a mentor for freshmen of the Shawnee Mission Education Foundation’s Leadership Shawnee Mission program. Using the skills he has learned in this program and as a LINK leader (a mentor for freshmen), Montanez is an example of the support and encouragement available to students.

Fostering belonging in our classrooms means that teachers and administrators take a step back and let students teach us about themselves,” Thurman added. “Through morning meetings, students start out as classmates and become deeply connected to one another."

At Shawano Elementary, the school also hosts vertical group meetings. These bring together students of all grade levels and an adult other than the classroom teacher. These groups at Shawano help students build relationships with their peers and get to know another trusted adult they can rely upon, according to special education teacher LaKrysta McKnight.

“Everyone deserves to feel safe at school,” she added.

“Every student deserves to be included, seen, valued, and heard. When students feel that they belong, they don’t have to spend energy hiding who they are, having to defend or protect who they are. They can instead focus on learning.”

When Students Feel A Sense of Belonging

This fall, to provide a sense of how work in support of building a culture of belonging be met before academic accomplishment and achieving full potential can be realized.

Every adult in the school building plays a significant role in creating that environment, Bates shared. This professional development has encouraged staff to ask if our schools truly are places where students and staff feel connected, and to continue to ask how they can be improved.

Building Connections at School

In classrooms across the district there are numerous ways educators are working to foster a culture of belonging for students. In Mill Creek, fourth-grade teacher Kacy Thurman’s classroom she provides books that represent the student population. Thurman works with students to use people-first language, which places the name of a person before stating their disability. Many elementary schools hold morning meetings, a practice the she said is “crucial” to the start of every day. In morning meetings, a student is greeted, gets to share something about themselves, engages in team building games, and discusses the daily agenda. It often provides ways for teachers and classmates to learn about each other’s diverse backgrounds and incorporate everyone’s needs into the classroom.

“Fostering belonging in our classrooms means that teachers and administrators take a step back and let students teach us about themselves,” Thurman added. “Through morning meetings, students start out as classmates and become deeply connected to one another.”

At Shawano Elementary, the school also hosts vertical group meetings. These bring together students of all grade levels and an adult other than the classroom teacher. These groups at Shawano help students build relationships with their peers and get to know another trusted adult they can rely upon, according to special education teacher LaKrysta McKnight.

“Everyone deserves to feel safe at school,” she added.

“Every student deserves to be included, seen, valued, and heard. When students feel that they belong, they don’t have to spend energy hiding who they are, having to defend or protect who they are. They can instead focus on learning.”

Improving Practice Supports District Objective

Strategy 2 supports the district’s strategic objective that each student will have a personalized learning plan which will prepare them for college and careers with the interpersonal skills they need for life success.

Over the past two years, in support of this objective, the district has engaged in Corwin’s Deep Equity work to improve its practices. It has been specifically designed and customized in order to strengthen the district’s ability to give every student the best chance for success.

This professional development invites individuals to challenge past assumptions about who students are, and to develop ways to identify and understand their needs.

These steps are helping educators and staff develop stronger classroom and school cultures, in order to help students feel connected to teachers and other students and build pride in their school. As Maslow’s hierarchy of needs outlines, basic needs like feelings of safety and belonging must be met before academic accomplishment and achieving full potential can be realized.

Every adult in the school building plays a significant role in creating that environment, Bates shared. This professional development has encouraged staff to ask if our schools truly are places where students and staff feel connected, and to continue to ask how they can be improved.

Building Connections at School

In classrooms across the district there are numerous ways educators are working to foster a culture of belonging for students. In Mill Creek, fourth-grade teacher Kacy Thurman’s classroom she provides books that represent the student population. Thurman works with students to use people-first language, which places the name of a person before stating their disability. Many elementary schools hold morning meetings, a practice the she said is “crucial” to the start of every day. In morning meetings, a student is greeted, gets to share something about themselves, engages in team building games, and discusses the daily agenda. It often provides ways for teachers and classmates to learn about each other’s diverse backgrounds and incorporate everyone’s needs into the classroom.

“Fostering belonging in our classrooms means that teachers and administrators take a step back and let students teach us about themselves,” Thurman added. “Through morning meetings, students start out as classmates and become deeply connected to one another.”

At Shawano Elementary, the school also hosts vertical group meetings. These bring together students of all grade levels and an adult other than the classroom teacher. These groups at Shawano help students build relationships with their peers and get to know another trusted adult they can rely upon, according to special education teacher LaKrysta McKnight.

“Everyone deserves to feel safe at school,” she added.

“Every student deserves to be included, seen, valued, and heard. When students feel that they belong, they don’t have to spend energy hiding who they are, having to defend or protect who they are. They can instead focus on learning.”

When Students Feel A Sense of Belonging

This fall, to provide a sense of how work in support of
Career advancement is within reach with one of USM's flexible graduate education programs.

+ Doctor of Education
+ Master's in School Counseling
+ Master's in Education

Learn more during a monthly virtual info session.

stmary.edu/SHAWNEEMISSION

8788 Metcalf Ave, Overland Park, KS
JCPRD.org/Museum • 913-826-2787

MEMBERS RECEIVE 10% OFF PURCHASES!

Check out the New Store!

FOLLOW THE SMSD
@thesmsd #KeepingSMSDStrong

Help us share great news from our district on social media.

Sporting KC
Recreation League

Introduce your child to soccer with Sporting Rec. League!

We're the only youth recreation soccer league in the Shawnee/Lenexa/Olathe area that plays games on turf!

Benefits
• Affordable pricing
• Players receive an adidas jersey
• All games played on turf
• Play with friends & classmates
• Head coaches receive registration discount

Official Rec. Soccer League of Sporting Kansas City | Learn More at SKCRecSoccer.com

WHAT'S NEXT

10% TUITION DISCOUNT
• For Shawnee Mission Schools Employees & Family
• Select Business, Counseling, Education & Nursing Programs

FOR TEACHERS
• M.S. - Educational Technology
• M.Ed. - Reading Specialist
• M.A.C. - School Counseling
• Reading Specialist Certificate

FOR PARAS & CAREER CHANGERS
• B.S. Elementary Ed Unified (with licensure)
• M.S. Elementary Ed Unified (with licensure)

ASK ABOUT 50% OFF YOUR FIRST CLASS

mnu.edu/next • 913.971.3800

STMARY.EDU/SHAWNEEMISSION

Career advancement is within reach with one of USM's flexible graduate education programs.

+ Doctor of Education
+ Master's in School Counseling
+ Master's in Education

Learn more during a monthly virtual info session.
Someone is accidentally injured every second

Schedule online at GetInQuickERKC.com.
In case of a life-threatening emergency, call 911

That’s why our ER experts stand ready 24/7 to care for you.

Unexpected moments happen. When they do, you can trust that AdventHealth’s ER experts are ready to safely care for you at four locations throughout Johnson County. And, we’ve made it easy to schedule a non-life-threatening emergency room visit online so you can wait in the comfort of home and arrive at a time convenient for you.