

Social Media Posts and Rumors

Good morning DCS family,

Social media posts and rumors are circulating locally and across the country, alleging violence today, December 17, on school campuses. These posts are generic and are not directly related to any of the schools in our district or our state according to state officials.

Law enforcement is aware and tells us there is no evidence that there is any credibility to these generic posts. Regardless, we will continue to be cautious and attentive, as we do daily to ensure the safety of students.

We expect today to be a normal school day, aside from our already scheduled early release. As a reminder, please discuss with your student the dangers of reposting social media posts that threaten schools or individuals, and please model this behavior for them. That being said, if you see a post on social media that appears to be a threat, we ask you to notify the school and local law enforcement, so that we can work together to investigate.

Thank you for your continued support and have a great day!
