

Dear Finalsite Clients,

We're continuing to work to restore admin access as quickly as possible, and many more sites can now log in. We are continuing to restore styling, calendar events, and constituents for directories and will update you on our progress along the way.

This incident is starting to appear on news outlets both large and small. We've been informed that CNN is starting to contact school clients requesting comment. Morgan Delack, our Director of Communications, has been in touch with CNN's reporter among other media outlets. We are here to help you with these potential inquiries, too.

Please forward media requests to Morgan, and she will take care of them for you 24/7. If you'd like to respond to inquiries from a school or district perspective, as a former Chief Communications Officer for multiple school districts, Morgan is also here to help you with messaging. You can reach Morgan by email at morgan.delack@finalsite.com or by cell phone at (814) 880-9999.

We'll be in touch with another update this evening. You can expect updates over the weekend in the morning and evening hours (Eastern Standard Time) with additional information provided as needed on status.finalsite.com.

Sincerely,

Tim McDonough
Chief Client Officer

Finalsite, 655 Winding Brook Drive, Glastonbury, CT 06033, USA

Manage preferences

