

Dear Finalsite Clients,

We continue to restore more websites and core functionality every hour. We remain committed to restoration, as quickly and safely as possible. Our team is actively monitoring performance and security across our infrastructure, and we will continue to work through the night and weekend until every site is back online.

You can expect updates twice daily from us over the weekend, in the morning and evening (EST), as we make progress towards full restoration with additional information provided as needed on status.finalsite.com.

Thank you again for your patience and understanding.

Sincerely,

Tim McDonough
Chief Client Officer
