

Student Wellness Tips

Many students feel they can't find the time to keep up on their personal health and wellness until an illness or mental health crisis stops them in their tracks. Here are some tips to keep in mind as you journey through your college education. Feel free to learn more by Googling to read and watch information to improve wellness in your life!

SLEEP - Students aren't exactly known for their "early to bed, early to rise" attitudes, but getting sleep is an integral part of staying healthy. Check out these tips to help you make sure you're resting enough.

1. Take a nap. If you have the time during the day, a short nap can do wonders for your energy levels. Just make sure not to nap too close to bedtime or for too long, and a nap will do your body good.
2. Don't do work in bed. Working in bed can make getting to sleep harder. Keep your work space separate from your sleep space to keep insomnia at bay.
3. Get a full night's rest whenever possible. While the amount of sleep each person needs varies, most people need 8-9 hours to feel fully rested. While this may not be possible every night, try to sleep a full night whenever you get the chance.
4. Stick to a schedule. It can be hard to stick to a schedule, but keeping sleep times similar from day to day can greatly improve your chances of getting a good night's sleep.
5. Understand that lack of sleep can have a big impact. Lack of sleep doesn't just make you cranky. It can also reduce your ability to concentrate and to excel in class, so try to get as much sleep as you need.
6. Discuss bedtimes with roommates. When sharing a room with someone it can be hard to go to bed when you need to and not get woken up when you don't want to. Try to work with your roommates to make sure each of you get the sleep you need.
7. Avoid late nights - even on the weekends. While you may feel like you need to study all night to do well you might be doing yourself a disservice. Not getting enough sleep can impair your ability to do well, regardless of how much you've studied, so make sure you get at least a little sleep before your big test.
8. Create a bedtime routine. If you have trouble falling asleep at night you can help yourself by creating a routine that will let your mind and body know that bedtime is approaching and that it should get into sleep mode. After a few weeks of practice this should help you fall asleep when you need to.
9. Avoid caffeine, eating and drinking right before bed. All of these activities can throw off your body's internal clock, so try to limit meals and caffeine consumption to a few hours before bed.

Student Wellness Tips

10. Keep your room dark and quiet. Try to keep your room as dark, quiet and cool as possible. This will help tell your body that it's time for bed and help you get and stay asleep.

STRESS - Students can get run down with so much going on. These tips can help you beat the stress.

11. Create a routine. If you get yourself in the habit of studying, working out, and sleeping at certain hours, it will be easier to fit in all the things you need to do in a day without feeling too stressed out.

12. Give yourself a break. If you've been working steadily for hours, give your eyes and mind a chance for a rest by taking a break. You can come back feeling more refreshed and ready to go.

13. Be realistic. Sometimes there's just no way you're going to get everything done in one day. Be realistic about your goals and understand that you can only do so much.

14. Understand you can't do everything. While you might want to go to class, work, play a sport, and participate in clubs and social activities, the reality is that sooner or later you're going to get run down by trying to do so much. Focus on doing the things you truly love and forget about the rest.

15. Get help. If you're feeling overwhelmed, reach out and ask for help from professors and friends. They may be able to give you more time or help you to complete projects and studying more quickly.

16. Relaxing with hobbies. Whether you like to paint or play video games with your friends, making time for the things you love is an important part of keeping yourself from getting too stressed out.

17. Give yourself plenty of time. It's easy to put off starting on a big project or studying for a test until the last minute. You'll be much less stressed out, however, and will likely do better if you give yourself more time to work on it.

18. Spend time with friends. There are few things that can cheer you up like being around the people you like most. Eat dinner with friends or just hang out and watch TV or take a walk to get away from the stress of homework.

19. Don't let yourself get run down. With so much to do, it's easy to get run down. If you feel yourself getting stretched too thin, take a step back and evaluate your schedule and workload to determine what's really important.

20. Learn time management skills. Time management skills will make everything from getting assignments done to managing work a lot easier. You deserve to get all you can out of every hour of the day.

Student Wellness Tips

MENTAL HEALTH - Teenagers are in a high risk group for depression, so make sure you keep yourself happy and healthy with these simple tips.

21. Don't be afraid to ask for help. Many people feel embarrassed or ashamed to ask for help with their depression or other mental health concerns. But many of these experiences are normal and treatable. View this link for contacts to get in touch with regarding mental health.

22. Keep in touch with family and friends. You can help beat homesickness and loneliness by keeping in touch with friends and family members.

23. Build new friendships. A big part of the high school experience is meeting new people and forming new friendships. So get out there and meet new people whenever possible.

24. Expect things to change. Things will change both at home and in your school life, so expect things to change over time. You will grow and so will the people around you.

25. Understand that it may take time to fit in. Most people don't make best friends on the first day of school. It takes time to build friendships, so don't get discouraged if you don't fit in right away.

26. Don't let stress get the best of you. Stress can be a major factor in many students' depression. If you are feeling stressed out make sure to take a break and set aside time to relax. See the tips in the section above!

27. Realize you don't have to please everyone. There is no way that you can make everyone happy all the time. Concentrate on making yourself happy first and you'll cut out lots of stress and hassle from your life.

28. Know the signs of depression. It can be hard to differentiate a simple slump from serious depression so learn the signs of depression not only for your own benefit, but for the benefit of your friends as well.

29. Build on your confidence. If you know you're good at certain things, build on the confidence you take from these activities rather than concentrating on your faults.

30. Find strength in numbers. You may have an easier time feeling good and fitting in if you find a group of students who share similar interests and values.

31. Volunteer. Sometimes volunteering can give you a sense of satisfaction you can't get from work or class work, so get out there and help others in your community. Joining clubs and social groups on campus can help you to meet new friends and keep you from feeling lonely or isolated.

Student Wellness Tips

32. Set goals. You'll be more motivated and positive if you give yourself goals to work towards throughout the school year.

EXERCISE - Fitting exercise into a busy schedule isn't always the easiest thing, but take stock of some of these tips to help you get on track to fitness.

33. Stretch first. Help yourself avoid injuries by stretching each time you exercise. Simple stretches before and after you work out or engage in physical activity can help keep you active and painfree.

34. Ride your bike. It will give you a few minutes of exercise that you normally wouldn't get. There are several places you can rent a bike if you do not want to purchase one.

35. Play a sport. One way to get yourself motivated to exercise is to make it a game by playing a sport. Join a team or play a club sport. You'll get active and have fun at the same time.

36. Use safety equipment. No matter what sport you're playing, make sure you always use the proper safety equipment. It will keep you from getting hurt, which will allow you to stay active more consistently.

37. Head to the gym. Talk to Mr. Frey about weight room days and hours.

38. Incorporate different kinds of exercise in your routine. When you work out, don't just stick to one kind of workout. Incorporate strength training, cardio, and stretching exercises into your routine to make it well-rounded.

39. Make it fun. You're probably not going to work out if you are bored with your routine or find going to the gym torture. Find a way to make it fun for yourself and you'll be much more likely to keep it up.

40. Bring a friend. With someone else relying on you to show up, you'll be much more likely to make the effort to work out. Plus, working out with a friend can be a great way to make working out more fun.

41. Take advantage of open spaces like the dormitory backyard or Thompson Park. Walk around or play Frisbee. Being active in these spaces is also a great way to meet new people.

DIET AND NUTRITION - Follow these tips to help keep your body fueled and ready to meet the demands of your student experience.

42. Learn proper portion size. To avoid eating too much of even the healthiest foods, keep track of how much you're eating. For most people, meat servings should be about the size of a deck of cards and other servings vary by the type of food.

Student Wellness Tips

43. Vary your meals. When the Commons has your favorite foods daily it can be easy to return to those old favorites every day. Changing up your diet from day to day is an important part of good nutrition so take advantage of the variety of selections available to you.

44. Eat breakfast. Start your day off right with a good meal when you get up. Whether you're rolling out of bed at noon or up at the crack of dawn, make sure you start your day with a balanced, healthy meal.

45. Keep healthy snacks around. It's easy to eat healthy if you keep the Cheetos at bay and stock up your room with fruits and other healthy snacks. You'll be more likely to reach for these than junk food if you keep them nearby or in your backpack.

46. Don't fight stress by eating. It can be tempting to reach for a bag of chips or some cookies when you're stressed out about an impending exam. Eating won't help your stress go away, so avoid filling up on snacks. Try working out or taking a break instead.

47. Drink water. Drinking enough water can help boost your concentration as well as keep you from overeating. Make sure to keep hydrated as you go through your day by bringing water with you.

48. Limit sugary and caffeinated beverages. Beverages may not fill you up, but they sure can add calories and have a detrimental effect on your overall health. You don't have to completely give up soda and coffee, but you should scale back in order to keep yourself in tip top shape.

49. Try to eat fruits and veggies. Even if fruits and vegetables don't comprise some of your favorite foods, try to incorporate at least a few of them into your diet each day.

50. Limit junk food. Junk food is fast and easy and many students end up eating a lot of it while they're on the run to class or to work. While a little fast food now and then won't really hurt you, make sure it doesn't become a habit. And if you have to stop for something quick, make healthier choices such as grilled chicken or salads.

51. Make it convenient to eat right. Don't make it hard for yourself to eat right. Buy healthy foods and stock your mini-fridge and room with them to ensure they're the first things at hand when you get hungry.

52. Don't skip meals. With so much to do, it's easy to forgo eating to run off to class or the library. Don't skip meals. Set up foods you can eat on the run so you'll have the energy to keep going.

53. Indulge every once in a while. A little treat now and then is a great way to reward yourself for eating a healthy diet. Give yourself a break and indulge in a food you love but can't eat all the time.

Student Wellness Tips

54. Take vitamins. If you feel like you aren't getting the nutrition you need from your diet, don't hesitate to supplement it with some multi-vitamins to stay healthy and illness-free.

55. Get help for eating disorders. Many students struggle with negative body image and eating disorders. If you are worried you have an eating disorder and want help, don't be afraid to reach out to someone you trust.

ILLNESS - With communal living and over one hundred other students sharing classroom space, spreading colds and viruses is easy if you're not careful. These tips can help keep you from getting sick.

56. Wash your hands. Studies have shown that simple hand washing can help prevent a large number of illnesses. So wash your hands, especially any time you'll be touching your nose, mouth, or eyes or if you've been around others who are sick.

57. Avoid sharing beverages. Germs are easily spread through the sharing of drinks, so get your own and avoid sharing with friends.

58. Drink lots of fluids. Colds and flu can wreak havoc on your body, often depriving it of much needed fluids. Replenish these by drinking plenty of water when you're ill.

59. Wear shoes in the shower. Residence Hall bathrooms are generally cleaned pretty often, but can become dirty quickly with so many students sharing them. Always make sure to wear some sort of shoes in the shower to avoid getting viruses and bacteria that can cause warts and athlete's foot.

60. Avoid ill friends. If your friend is sick, try to avoid spending too much time around them. While bringing soup or medications won't hurt, touching ill friends and their stuff can increase your chances of getting sick yourself.

61. Don't touch your eyes, nose, or mouth. If your hands aren't totally clean, try to avoid touching these areas. The membranes in these areas make it easy for bacteria and viruses to enter your body.

62. Try simple over-the-counter remedies. Most viruses leave you feeling miserable but with no recourse in medications that can make them go away. Try out over the counter remedies to help ease your symptoms. You can get these from the on duty supervisor.