Brownsville Early College High School (BECHS) follows the stand alone ECHS model. For admissions, students are chosen through a weighted lottery that favors students who are at-risk or represent the targeted subpopulations for the ECHS model. Specifically, students who complete all required paperwork to be part of the ECHS 9th grade cohort are then given an Early College High School Commitment/Application where all relevant PEIMS data is pre-slugged based on the district's data base. Once the Commitment Form is returned to the home ECHS campus, all students who returned the form will go into the lottery one time. A student will be entered into the lottery an additional time for each of the following identified PEIMS measures: at-risk, Hispanic, and economically disadvantaged. Therefore, a student's name can be entered into the lottery anywhere from one to four times depending on their PEIMS indicators.
