ABOUT OUR WORKSHOPS

This workshop focuses on the use of personal stories, one of the most effective tools for children's behavioral health advocates. Personal stories are especially powerful when communicating with system partners, provider agencies, media and other families and youth.

3-part series ! This training provides families with the tools necessary to feel confident reading and working with data. The focus of this data series is understanding why data is important, helping participants understand how to read and collect data using different data points. The mean, median, mode, and frequency are discussed and taught through examples. Applying data to your role in the Network of care and using data for advocacy. Most importantly, this workshop provides participants with knowledge of how to use data to make informed decisions.

A workshop that introduce youth to the Children's Behavioral Health System and to mental health as an important part of your overall health. CONNECTing Youth focuses on three pillars — Physical, Mental and Social Health and allows the participants to see how they can all be interconnected. The presentation also dedicates time to discuss the difference between Mental Health and Mental Illness as it relates to the culture of their school and community.
