

The Elementary School & Middle School

This leads to the calculation of areas and perimeters, and the drawing of the forms, first free-hand, and later with instruments, but always striving for both beauty and accuracy.

By the eighth grade, the children have the knowledge and skills necessary to design and build complex three-dimensional geometric models.

