

The Elementary School & Middle School

Waldorf educators have always recognized a child learns best when his or her whole being - body, emotions, and intellect - is actively involved in the learning process. Waldorf teachers stay with their class for many years. In the grades, each day begins with a two-hour main lesson, which is an in-depth exploration of a core academic subject designed to engage the full range of the child's capacities.

