Everything is Included

All materials come in a suitcase-style box with additional organization within the box, including a flashcard box and small materials pouch.

Driving Consequences Game

Who can get to the end with the most money and the fewest points?

The cost of the program is $599.00, with a discount for multiple sets purchased by the same organization. This is a one time cost; there are no subscriptions or additional materials needed except printing out tests and handouts.

Shipping is determined by the shipping address, and you will only be charged actual costs.

We are always available by e-mail for questions and can provide virtual or in-person support about the program upon request.

The course was initially designed for students with various disabilities but it is appropriate for ALL students who learn best with hands-on materials.

Let's face it, that driver's manual is not really engaging reading material!
Why not make it fun?
