THE LAIR

1972

Foreword

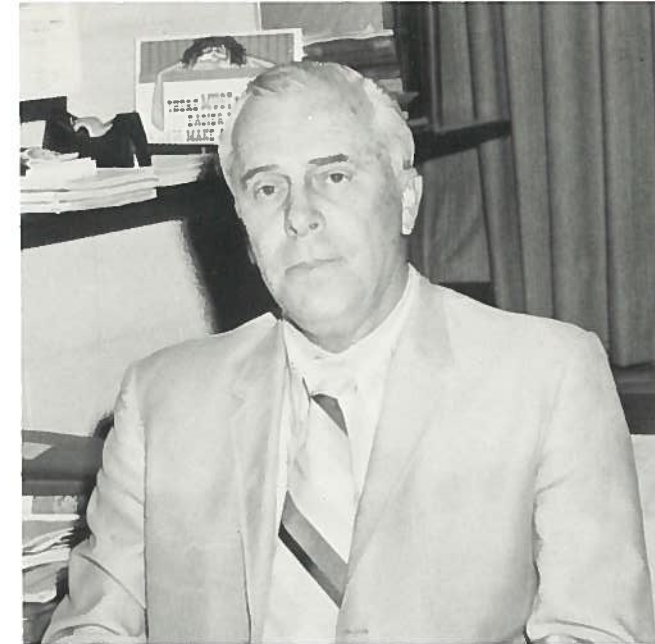

The poet Gertrude Stein once wrote the following: "A rose is a rose is a rose is a rose." By the same token a yearbook is a yearbook is a yearbook is a yearbook.

It is easy to say that all things are the same in annual order, and, in truth, most things and events are the same. However, it is my hope that his 1972 edition of the Lair will have just a bit of difference in it among the same usual pictures and tired old layouts.

After all, you are in this Lair. There you are as a junior or a sophomore; here you are as a class favorite, and over there you are running with that Tiger ball; and back there you are in Mr. Patranella's room writing a theme or racking your brains in Mr. Martin's chemistry lab.

Maybe, just maybe, if you look closely enough you might find that not all yearbooks, nor all roses, are exactly the same.

Judy Throckmorton

1972 LAIR Dedication

To dedicate one single yearbook to Superintendent J. M. Moorman cannot do complete justice to the man who for the past seventeen years has been the mainstay within the Rockdale Independent School system. To perform as this man does (and has done in years past) should require several consecutive Lairs to have been compiled in his honor.

Always the untiring worker, always the understanding teacher at heart, always the educational reformer and always a fine and religious gentleman, Mr. Moorman has done his ultimate to assist his employees and, most especially, the students of the Rockdale schools to attain the highest goals possible for each individual.

When a man has done well in his chosen profession most people call it desire, ambition, success. Mr. Moorman has done an exemplary job in education from his beginning years as a classroom teacher until his years as an educational superintendent.

Therefore, thank you, Mr. Moorman, for a number of jobs well done and please accept this small tribute from us for all you have done for us, one and all.

Mrs. Ida Jo Marshall

The last week of the 1972 school year brought a surprise to RHS. It was then that Mrs. Marshall, the long time school librarian, announced her impending retirement from the school system.

Words cannot express the time and service and endless good deeds this fine lady has performed for students and faculty, alike, here at RHS.

A flowery tribute, also, would not suffice; so let us all say a big "thank you" to this dear lady and wish her well in her coming retirement.

A 19th Century Flower Garden

The Junior Class Worked Diligently to Make the 1972 Jr.-Sr. Prom a Smashing Success.

Well, where do we start?

Fresh flowers, 5¢.

I don't like it.

Wow, what a nice pool.

Nobody will know if I take one.

Connie helped very much.

Get busy, or I'll hit you with this stick!!!

Sherry, tape won't hold up the wall.

Well, Deborah can work.

Getting these flowers will be cheaper than buying Patsy a corsage.

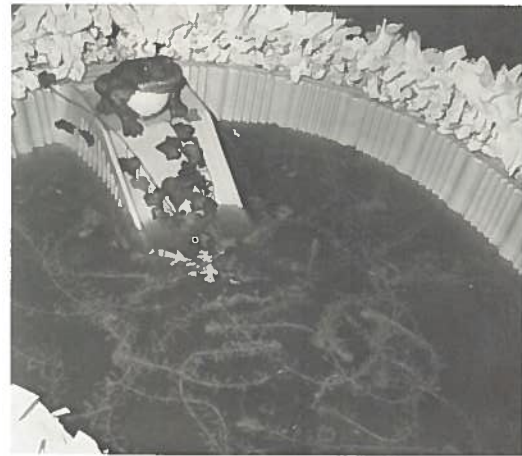

Hungry Juniors take a lunch break.

And We Had a Little Help From Our . . . Friends??

Paul Johnson, a veteran worker for 4 RHS JR-SR Proms.

The guest of honor.

And Here They Come . . .

Whew! I finally lost her!!!

Arnold, wait for Becky.

Debbie, I'm afraid your perfume stinks.

Karen, what was in that cup???

Kenny fell off the bridge and left me all alone.

Don't look at her like that, she's married!!!

I'm kind, obedient and faithful.

No Johnny! You stepped on my foot first!!!

Mr. and Miss RHS of 1972.

Keith, must you do your neck-ing in public???

She left me!!!

And then she told me ...

Oh, I see you found Kenny.

I wish John would dance with me.

Aha Debbie!! We caught you in the act!

And the band played on ...

Dancing is so tiring ...

Even though you're my steady boyfriend Jimmy, I simply must go flirt with that precious little photographer!!!

Uh-oh!!! She found me!!!

Louis, please stop flirting with her! David might get mad.

Smile, Joannie!!!

Show us your sexy smile, Linda.

I want to go home!

Oh no! Not you again!

Go away, please!!

Look at that pretty flower.

Where's Linda?
