THE MERIT SYSTEM – Classified Personnel

What is a “Merit System”

A system of personnel management designed to promote the efficiency of the classified workforce by providing for the selection and retention of employees, promotional opportunities, training, and other related matters, on the basis of merit and fitness demonstrated by competitive examinations and performance.

THE MERIT SYSTEM – Classified Personnel

History of the Merit System

January 16, 1883 – Congress passed the Civil Service Act of 1883 (Pendleton Act), which set up the first civil service system for federal employees to guard against patronage appointments.

September 15, 1935 – California Assembly Bill 999, known as the Merit System, was established and enacted into law. Its purpose was to provide statutory protection to classified employees, through the Education Code, against politically or personally motivated employment, promotion, discipline, or dismissal actions.

Principles of the Merit System

–Five Principles–

#1. Recruit from all segments of society and select and advance on the basis of relative ability, knowledge and skill through a fair and open competition.

#2. Fair and equitable treatment of applicants and employees without regard to political affiliation, race, color, religion, national origin, sex, marital status, age, disabling condition or sexual orientation.

Principles of the Merit System

#3. Employees are protected from arbitrary employment actions and afforded due process rights consistent with applicable law.

#4. Employees are retained and promoted on the basis of merit, as measured by the adequacy of their performance and professional achievement.

#5. Employees are compensated with the idea of “similar pay for similar work.”

ADVANTAGES OF THE MERIT SYSTEM

–Ten Advantages–

1. The Merit System assures selection of qualified job candidates on the basis of merit and fitness through competitive examination.
2. The Merit System assures neutrality in decisions related to hiring, retaining, promoting and discipline matters.
3. The Merit System assures clear personnel practices and procedures are in place thus eliminating guesswork.

4. The Merit System provides for consistency and assurances that changes in administrative personnel do not result in drastic changes in personnel procedures and policies.
5. The Merit System provides defensible arguments for employment practices and decisions.
6. The Merit System provides for an open and neutral forum for classified employees' concerns.
7. The Merit System provides centralized control of the salary structure, relieving the Board of constant pressure for reclassifications or individual negotiations of salary relationships.

8. The Merit System provides training opportunities in order for employees to continue to develop and improve themselves personally and professionally.
9. The Merit System protects employees from arbitrary disciplinary actions through the right of appeal and a formal hearing before a neutral party, the Personnel Commission, relieving the Board from conducting appeal hearings on its own disciplinary actions.
10. The Merit System reduces litigation costs associated with employee discipline because the adopted discipline procedures must be followed.
