SMCHS STEEL DRUMS PROGRAM

FAQs

Do I have to have musical experience to join Steel Drums?

Nope! If you've never played music before, don't worry - Ms. Duncan will teach you everything you need to know. Sign up for the academic-level class before you leave tonight.

Do I have to know how to read music to join Steel Drums?

Nope! If you've only ever played music "by ear" or by watching, that's fine! Ms. Duncan will teach you how to read musical notation. Sign up for the academic-level class before you leave tonight.

What kind of music do we play in Steel Drums? Is it just "island music"?

We play all kinds of music! From pop to rock, from reggae to calypso, from jazz to even classical (yes, even classical!) all Steel Drums students gain experience learning a wide range of musical styles. Variety is the spice of life!

Will I be learning about scales and chords?

Most definitely! Just like orchestra, band, and choir, we learn about major/minor/chromatic scales, chords and harmony, dynamics, ensemble blend and balance, and sightreading.

The importance of playing by rote (by ear or by watching, without written music) is emphasized in Steel Drums. All students will gain experience in memorization, improvisation, and composing/arranging both by ear and with sheet music.

How many times will we perform?

The academic classes perform 4-6 times per year. The honors classes perform 6-8 times per year, on average.

We have four major concerts, where all Steel Drums classes perform.

Our program is often asked to perform for various events on campus (“gigs”), for which only the honors classes perform.

We might have the opportunity to participate in an off-campus festival in 2023 - stay tuned!

I heard from my older siblings/friends/cousins/etc. that Steel Drums is just an “easy A”...is that true?

If a student comes to class every day and gives their best effort and focus, regardless of skill level, they will be successful!

Can I join Steel Drums if percussion isn't my primary instrument?

YES! Of the students who come to Steel Drums with prior musical experience, around 75% play piano or guitar, and around 25% play a woodwind or brass instrument.

Can I play electric guitar, electric bass, or piano in Steel Drums?

Yes, definitely! Depending on your skill level and the needs of the ensemble, you may be able to specialize in it.

All first year-Steel Drums students will learn the basics of playing the steel drum, but advanced guitar/bass/piano players may be given the chance to play their primary instrument around 50-75% of the time. Bass players especially are encouraged to join the class!

Can I just play drum set in Steel Drums? Do I have to learn how to read pitches and stuff?

Depending on your skill level and the needs of the ensemble, you may be able to play drums in class during the school year! All students will learn the basics of playing the steel drum, even if they specialize on another instrument like drum set.

Note: only students who have extensive experience playing drum set and working with a private teacher will be allowed to play as the “full time” drummer in their class. The drum set “chair” holds a great level of responsibility, both from a musical and a maturity standpoint - similar to the concertmaster in a symphony orchestra.

Will we only be playing steel drums? Or will we learn any other instruments?

Students will play steel drums around 90% of the time, and will have the opportunity to learn the basics of drum set and the “engine room” section: congas, brake drum, and scratchers/shakers/other small percussion. Indeed, the academic-level class has a Drum Set Unit in the spring semester!

After students spend a year in the program, they can choose to specialize in the engine room instruments if there is availability (juniors and seniors have priority).

Do I have to take a Steel Drum home to practice every day?

Nope! Indeed - we don't own enough steel drums for every single student to keep at home all the time. Students will be given specific “exploration time” to get to know their instrument in the first few weeks of school, and some set practice time during each class meeting, especially at the academic level.

What if I have a question that's not listed here?
