

The Pocatello/Chubbuck School District cares deeply about students and offer them rich opportunities to prepare for college, careers and life. We are a high achieving school district led by a well-trained and committed Board of Trustees. In 2016 they were awarded the Boardsmanship Award by the Idaho School Boards Association for their commitment to professional development and becoming a high functioning Board.

Student success was demonstrated by exceeding state averages and strong growth on their Idaho Standard Achievement and Idaho Reading Indicator assessments and growth in high school student's composite score on the SAT which ranked them 2nd in the State.

More than 57 percent of 10th and 11th grade students take AP or dual enrollment courses. This year we are participating in a pilot with ISU where our students attend classes on campus; adding another level of opportunity for students. Our students also have the opportunity to participate in 27 career pathways for career exploration and preparation through the District's robust Career Technical Education Program.

Last year we were thrilled that our District Teacher of the Year, Mary Spiker, was also named the 2017 Idaho Teacher of the Year. Mrs. Spiker teaches Kindergarten at Wilcox Elementary School. She represents the high quality teachers who work with our students every day.

Also last year our students excelled in many extracurricular and co-curricular events; the Century High School Choir earned an invitation to participate with Dr. Christian Grases at the Stern Auditorium in Carnegie Hall in New York City; the Highland High School debate team excelled in competitions throughout the year both on the state and national level; students from all high school auditioned and were selected to sing in the Idaho Music Educators Association All-State Honor Mixed Choir; a Pocatello High School student earned a national art award and several athletic teams earned Academic State Championships for their dedication to academic success.

In addition, Ellis Elementary School was named a 2016-17 National Title I Distinguished School – Just to name a few.
