8th Grade Awesomeness!

The 8th graders at Urbana Junior High School took part in a propaganda creation competition during their American History classes this fall. After learning about propaganda and how it is used to further a cause or change an opinion, the 8th grade students were able to create their own real world examples. With the highly contested election that occurred this year and the friction occurring between political parties, students were asked to create propaganda that would convince Americans to put aside their differences and focus on unity. Students studied famous historical examples to gain their inspiration including prints created by Benjamin Franklin during the French and Indian War and Revolutionary War to inspire the American colonists to unify. The students submitted amazing slogans and pieces of artwork, and the student body and staff voted for their favorites. The winner was Paige Deere with close runner-ups including Harmony Stewart, Katherine Brazille, Austyn Bunn, Gatlin Ridgwell, and Hailey McCain.
