What is the Community Resources for Families Program?

Goals of CRFF

- Help children succeed in school
- Strengthen families
- Promote self-sufficiency
- Build stronger communities

To help a student be more successful in school, CRFF services are offered to the entire family!

Other Services

- Strength-based family needs assessments
- Recommendations and treatment referrals
- Linkage to community resources
- Development of self-sufficiency goals
- Support in achieving goals

Strong families equal strong students!

Community Resources for Families (CRFF), as its name suggests, connects families with appropriate resources available in the community. It is a voluntary prevention-based program developed to provide assistance and support for families whose children attend participating schools.

A wide range of service is available through CRFF but is specifically designed to assist a family facing crisis or in an emergency situation.

There are various ways in which a family can participate, depending upon their individual need and desire. The level of involvement can range from a one-time visit to obtain needed information to an assessment and planning process of up to 90 days. Since CRFF is a partnership between the School District and Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, financial assistance may be made available for those who qualify.
