Population & Location

From the WVU Visitor's Bureau:

"The Morgantown Metro Area is home to about 195,000 people, 30,000 of which live in Morgantown proper, the home of West Virginia University. Morgantown has big-city amenities like Broadway theater, a $20+ million ballpark that houses a minor-league team and Big 12 ball games, a diverse food scene and an abundance of outdoor recreation opportunities. But we're also proud of our small-town charm and warm, welcoming atmosphere."

Monongalia County

People from around the world work, study and raise families in Monongalia County. The area's largest employers are West Virginia University— the state's flagship public university, and J.W. Ruby Memorial Hospital, a Regional Level 1 Trauma Center serving the tri-state area and home to WVU Medicine and WVU Children's.

If your impression is that our county is somewhat health-centric based on our largest employers, you're right! Residents enjoy plenty of outdoor activities, dining options, opportunities to become involved and engage minds of all ages. Our higher-ed based population demands a quality public academic system with leaders who focus on empowering educational excellence.

We keep our school system student-centered by equipping educators AND students with the tools and resources necessary for their growth inside and beyond the classroom.

The MCS' system affords teachers unique opportunities to nurture and stretch students' learning potential with measures in place to support each child's intellectual, physical and social-emotional health.
