A Message from the Principal's Desk

"So, what is this homeroom thing that has been put in place this year and why do we have it?" I've had several parents ask me this question as the 2019 school year started up with a homeroom in every student's schedule. Obviously, homeroom is a time that we can take attendance and disseminate information to our students, however, it is a time that is used for much more.

Each week homeroom teachers are asked to focus on one or two key aspects of what makes a student successful. By focusing and periodically refocusing on these areas critical to success, we reinforce their importance. Our hope is to help guide, encourage, and educate students in a small group setting.

Below are the different topics that we have shared and discussed with students and my hope is that parents will reinforce these key components and work in partnership with us to help each child reach their full potential.

So far this year we have covered:

- Progressbook - Know how to sign on and keep track of academic progress
- Behavioral Expectations - What behaviors are expected throughout LHS
- Safety - Reinforced the key components of ALICE training and practiced scenarios to be better prepared in case of an emergency
- Attendance - Reviewed each student's attendance and the importance of being in school daily
- Punctuality - Reviewed each student's tardiness to school and the impact caused by being late
- Extracurricular Opportunities - Reviewed what's available and encouraged students to be a part of our school community. "There's something for everyone!"
- Grade Check - Students examined their progress midway through the quarter. Reinforced those on track and served as an alert for those falling behind

I would ask that parents take a look at this list and review each of these areas on a routine basis. I firmly believe that when school and homework together, our students do better and know that the work they are doing is important.

Sincerely,

Mr. Walter

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

School has only been in session less than two months but so much has been accomplished already! I want to congratulate the 76 Lakewood High students and 2019 graduates who were recently recognized as AP Scholars. I would also like to congratulate our two National Merit Semifinalists: seniors Evan Bell and Aidan Bohac, along with our Commended Students, Emma Carson, Emma Hirsch and Alexander Weber. Our Semifinalists were among the top 1% of PSAT scorers their junior year and our Commended Students the top 5%. Congratulations to all!

While we announced our new Vision of a Lakewood Graduate initiative in August, we are now ready to share the foundational focus areas that will help us accomplish our Vision of graduating young men and women who possess six critical competencies: critical and creative thinking, communication, collaboration, growth mindset, global awareness, and empathy. The focus areas were determined through the many channels of community conversation we conducted last school year. Stay tuned for more information on this coming your way very soon.

Go Rangers!

These 150 students have less than 5 tardies for the year and no office referrals.

Each quarter, different students will be chosen to participate in an incentive lunch for doing the right things at school.
