What if you or one of your family members were hurt or became sick? Your health insurance pays the doctor & hospital, but who pays your other bills?

Even though you have health insurance that covers the majority of medical expenses, there are many non-medical expenses that fall through the cracks when faced with an injury or sickness. Examples include: loss of income, co-pays, deductibles, travel and lodging to treatment centers, child care, mortgage payments or rent, utilities, cell phone bills, etc.

Would you like the peace of mind that comes from knowing that should something unexpected happen...
