TIMOTHY CHRISTIAN HIGH SCHOOL
ELMHURST, ILLINOIS

*At first glance Timothy Christian High School, situated in the midst of a grassy field, appears to be just a long one-story structure to which a massive addition of steel and cement has recently been built. But between the hours of 8:00 and 3:00 it is unmistakably recognized as a school actively alive with 325 spirited students.
To those who are more closely acquainted with Timothy, this high school has a deeper and more significant meaning. It is the answer to many prayers; for Timothy stands for the truth that is revealed in God's Word during an age when teaching is almost entirely unrelated to God.
This instruction of the truth has an influence on every aspect of the student's life.
Through study, work, participation, and fun Timothy takes on a variety of meanings.
The SAGA '66 is not only the recorded history of the school year, but it is also an attempt to show that Timothy meant many things to many people*

Timothy meant a year of beginnings marked by the return of school bells and yellow buses and a constant flow of trucks and materials to and from the construction site.

Devotion to God, allegiance to country, and the quest for knowledge were all part of what it meant to bear the name Trojan.

Life at Timothy was made up of completing everyday tasks, reaching for new heights in understanding and achievement, and sharing fun at parties and basketball games.

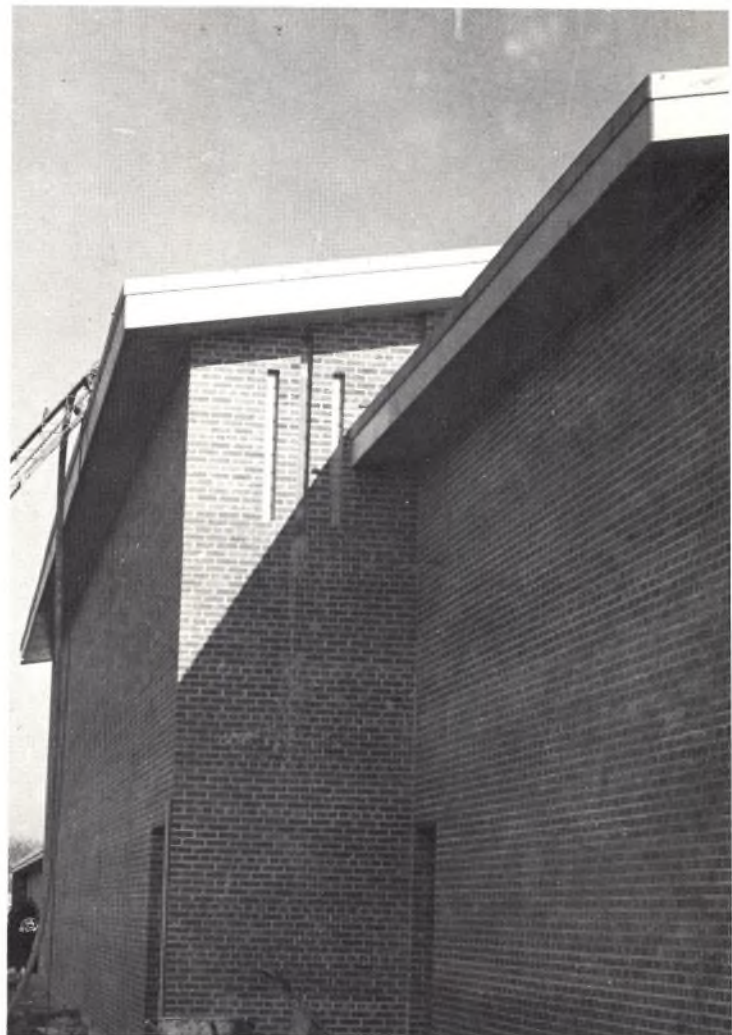

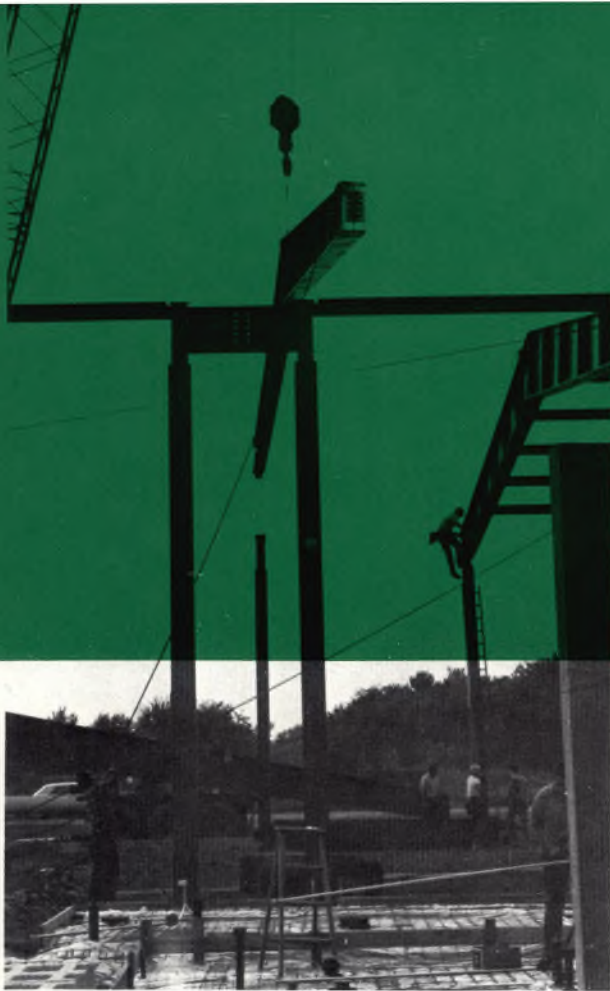

Participation in the Trojan sports world meant the joy of a hard-earned victory, the resignation after losing, and the satisfaction of supporting enthusiastic teams.

The progress of the new addition from the foundations to the heights of the arched ceiling symbolized for us another step toward becoming complete persons in Christ.

First Year for Our New Principal

The class of 1966 has come through a time of many significant changes in its four years at Timothy Christian High. It was appropriate, then, that in this class' last year, one of the most striking changes in Timothy's history took place—the change of administration with both a new principal and an assistant principal. In addition to all their tedious scheduling and planning, there was their friendly assistance that was often overlooked and the selfless guidance that helped students and faculty alike.

The new addition to the building brought extra work for the administration. Besides the thrill of seeing plans fulfilled, there was the work of equipping and regulating the use of this addition. The resumption of a regular gym program and new rooms for classes meant many changes in the second-semester schedule. Thus, to the administration Timothy in 1966 meant a challenge. Their effort has not been only with and for the students, but they have worked with the community to improve and strengthen the Christian tradition of Timothy.

Mr. Hoving, assistant principal, writes out an admittance slip.

A Faculty with a Purpose

To many members of our faculty, summer meant a time to extend their interests through study and travel. Last summer three faculty members went to Europe, four toured in the United States, and three attended summer school, two through scholarships. Coming from these many experiences, both new and returning faculty members united to challenge the students to work to attain new levels of learning. Along with regular classwork, extra time was spent sponsoring clubs, sports, and other extra-curricular activities. Most of the teachers were also assigned a homeroom. This involved schedule planning and conferences with each student in the homeroom and ironing out any problems a student encountered at school. The faculty was always willing to give extra help to students outside of class and each member of the faculty was a Christian example for his students and fellow teachers.

School Board Guides Projects

As the new addition was completed, the school board felt the satisfaction of a job well done. The school board and the expansion committee had been looking forward to the completion of Phase II since 1958. When the decision was finally made to continue construction, they had to choose fixtures, color schemes, and bleachers, and check and recheck the plans for the building.

Aside from the work the new addition entailed, the board was kept busy with the routine tasks of managing a school. They hired the teachers, paid the bills, made the bus routes, and hired bus drivers. The curriculum of the school was reviewed by a special committee of the board, the Educational Council. This group, made up of members of the school society, examined the many courses offered by the school and consulted with the faculty members. After proper evaluation, they made recommendations to the board on curriculum improvements.

The board spent countless hours maintaining the school and the education the school provided. These men worked to fulfill their covenant obligation to provide their children with a good education that is God-centered.

Efficiency Maintained by School Staff

Blowing horns, screeching brakes, singing, talking, and laughing are all part of the noise and confusion that makes up each day for our bus drivers. They manage to have the big yellow buses arrive at school in spite of wind, rain, and snow. Our bus drivers tried to be cheerful and patient although there were always a few latecomers. When we arrived at school, our janitors had the doors open, and in wintry weather they had a path shoveled through the snow. They kept the school clean in spite of the construction going on.

In the midst of all this activity, Mrs. Kieft was busy in the office; she answered the telephone and typed the daily bulletin and tended to important school business. She also was in charge of the book store and was chief message carrier and operator of the inter-com.

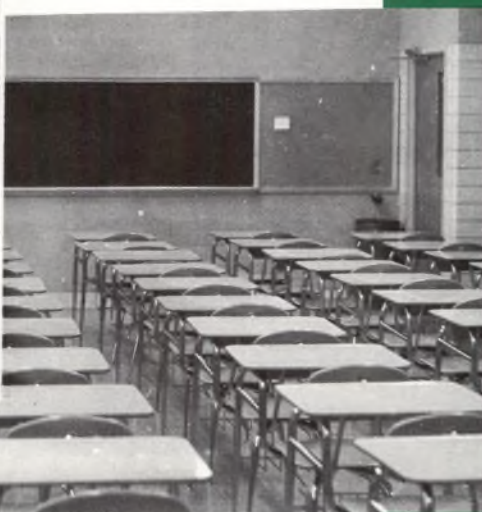

After the last bell rang and the bus drivers left with their boisterous charges, the janitors did the final sweeping, turned off the lights, and locked the doors on another school day.

ACADEMICS

Laughing, listening, concentrating are all a part of the classroom.
They are new experiences in learning.

Rev. Shell stresses a major point in his outline.

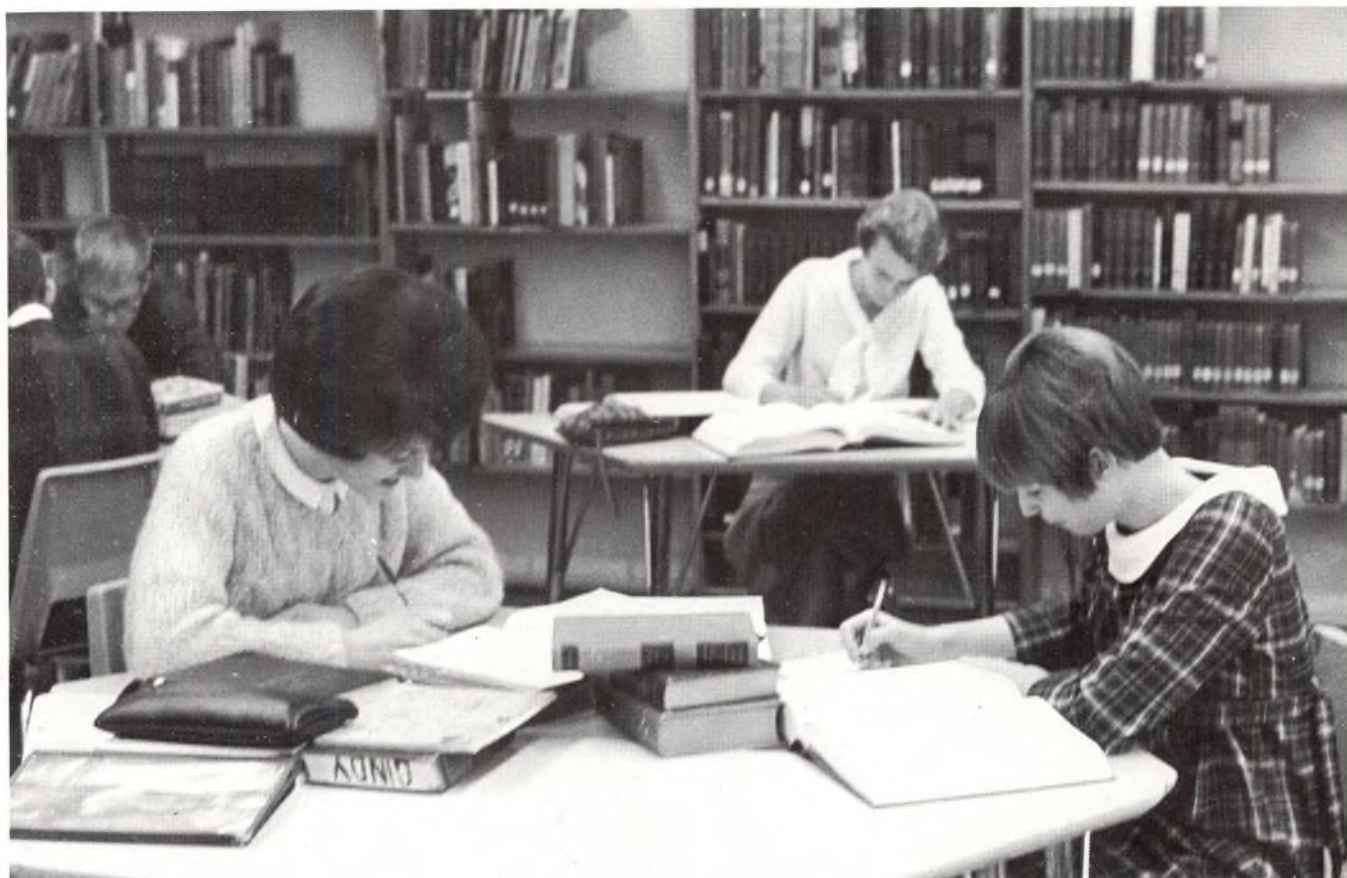

Detailed Study Lends Insight into the Bible

Because a knowledge of God and of the Bible is essential to being a vital Christian, Timothy required a one-semester Bible course for each class. The freshmen began with a detailed study of the Old Testament and continued with the New Testament in the sophomore year. These courses involved a comprehensive study of each book of the Bible and its author. The student was required to learn several passages and to delve into the histories of the books and the times of their authorship. Other memory work included the keyword, outline, and purpose of each book.

The juniors studied the history of our church as it developed from the one universal Roman Catholic church to the different modern sects and denominations. The fourth year Bible course was a very detailed and systematic study of our Christian doctrine. In addition to academic achievements, all Bible students learned how to take many and well-organized notes.

As Bible students we learned about God and His promises through His Word.

Making use of the library facilities, three junior girls work on church history projects.

Creativity was emphasized by Mrs. Oosterbaan to her attentive freshmen.

New English Program Introduced This Year

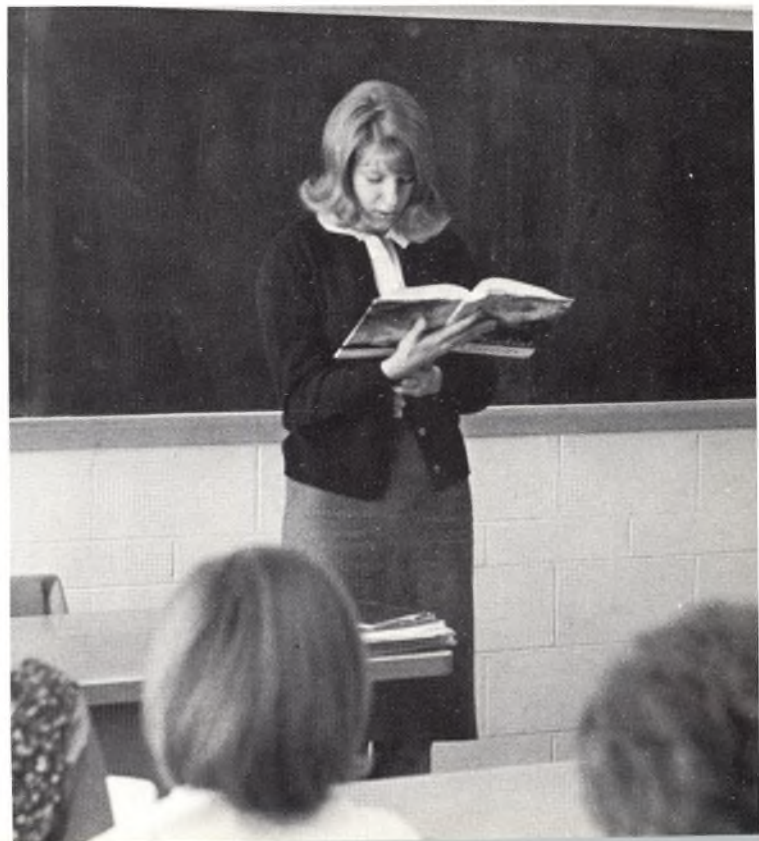

Timothy's English department was in a transitional stage this year. The literature program became more specialized in each class and grammar was covered in an intensified one semester course for the sophomores.

The freshmen took a general literature course and studied the various forms of poetry, short stories, essays, and novels. Included in their outside readings were Dickens's Great Expectations and Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. Projects for the class included group evaluation of short stories and individual book reports. The sophomores concentrated on English grammar by working with the parts of speech and with sentence structure. Both sophomores and juniors used the same literature book this year because of the plans to change the American literature course; the sophomores studied American literature second semester, but the juniors studied it for the full year. Both classes were required to do outside reading that included novels by Stephen Crane and James Cooper.

The fourth and final year of English offered a choice of two semesters of English literature or one semester of English literature and one of speech. The speech course, which was new this year, enabled the students to face an audience with greater confidence. Both the semester and the year literature courses required book reports and semester term papers.

In the coming years this change will mean an even more comprehensive and interesting English program for the students.

Ease before an audience was gained by Nancy Tuene as an important part of speech class.

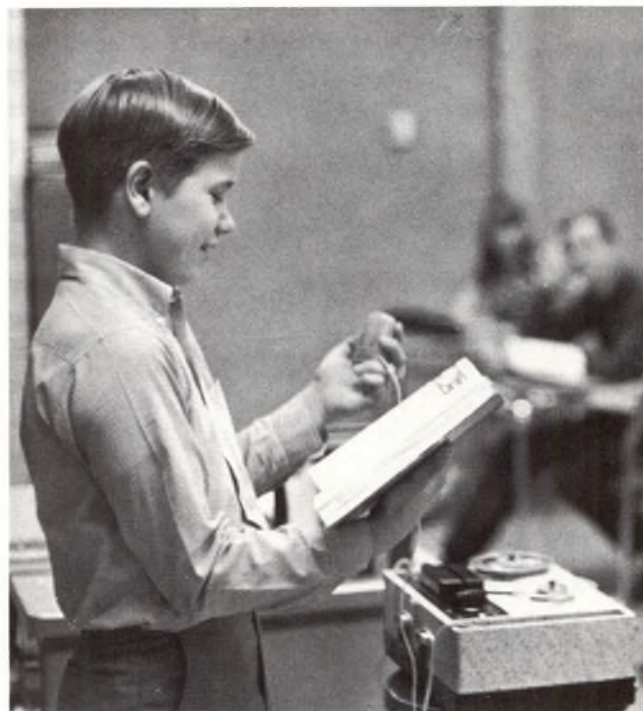

Language Lab Aids Pronunciation

Four-year courses in both Latin and German are offered at Timothy. Two years of language is required for the college preparatory course; the third and fourth years are electives.

The first year of German was devoted to grammar, basic phrases, and some customs of German life. During the second year, grammar was applied to conversation, and there was a more intensive study of the German way of life. Third and fourth-year classes emphasized reading, thinking, and writing concepts in the German language. Grammar was reviewed, especially as an aid to writing. In all four classes, films and tape recordings were used as study aids. During the second semester a language laboratory was installed. The lab consisted of individual booths in which a student listened to a narrator speak in his native tongue; the student was also able to hear himself reply in German as if conversing with the narrator.

The first year of Latin was devoted to vocabulary and basic grammar. The second year continued with advanced grammar and the study of selected passages from Caesar. A highlight for the second year class was the production in Latin of the play "Pyramus et Thisbe." The third and fourth year students who met together in one class this year, did advance translations from noted Roman works such as Virgil's Aeneid. In the spring, the classes held a Latin banquet with the students appearing as Roman senators, politicians, and gods.

Dave Bradford converses in German with the tape recorder.

Unique scenery is used in the Latin play "Pyramus et Thisbe."

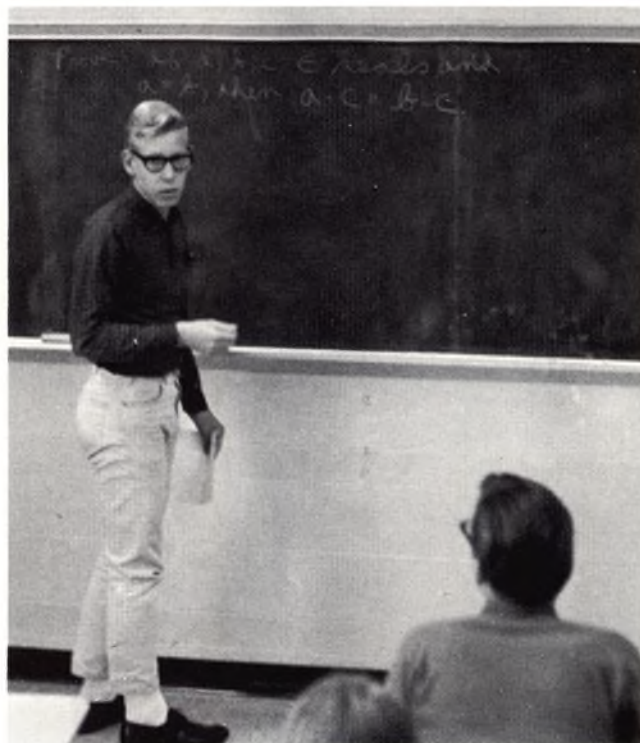

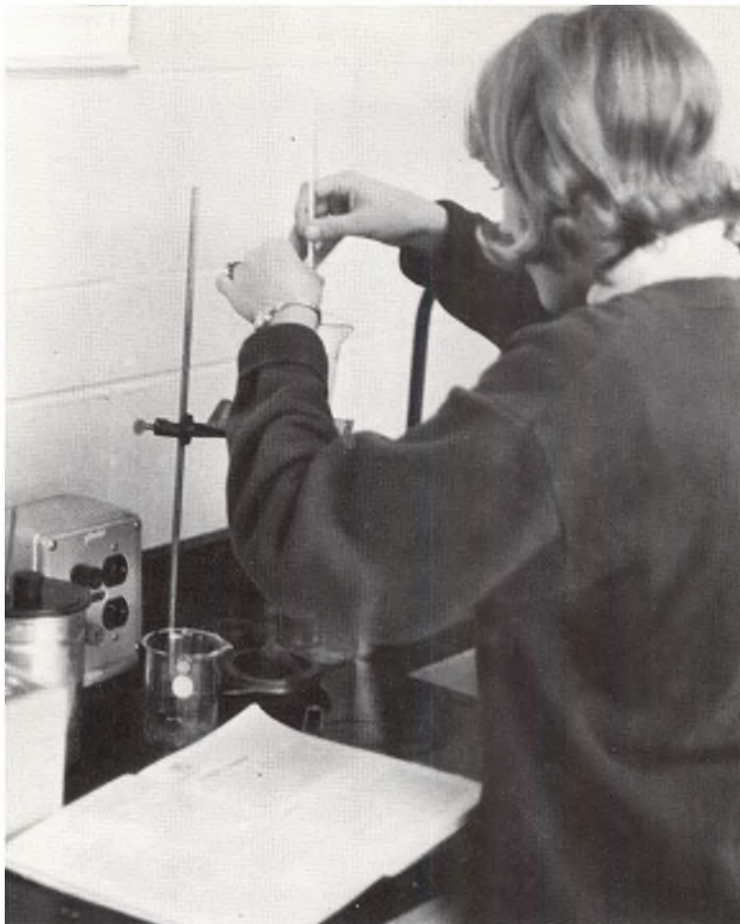

Sophomores line up for a geometry session at the board.

Mathematics Accents Developing Exactness

Because of the importance of mathematics in everyday life, Timothy has a complete and thorough math program. Every student is required to take two years and an additional two years are offered to those who wish to major in math. All freshman were required to take Algebra I and II. This course consisted of an introduction to integers, positive and negative numbers, and sets. As their understanding increased, the students soon found themselves overcoming equations with which they had once struggled. The sophomores were required to take geometry. By using definitions as foundation stones, and by adding the building blocks of theorems and postulates, the students ended the year with a complete and workable building or system called geometry—plane, solid, and analytical. Algebra III and IV, offered to the juniors, developed the principles set forth in first year algebra; here the students gained a better understanding of the real number system and its functions. The fourth year of math was a bringing together of all the math that was learned before and applying this knowledge to a further study of trig and calculus. After going through this math program, Timothy students are ready for both the everyday math problems and the math courses facing them at college.

As an advanced math student, Don Meyer finds that proofs are significant.

Science Opens New Worlds

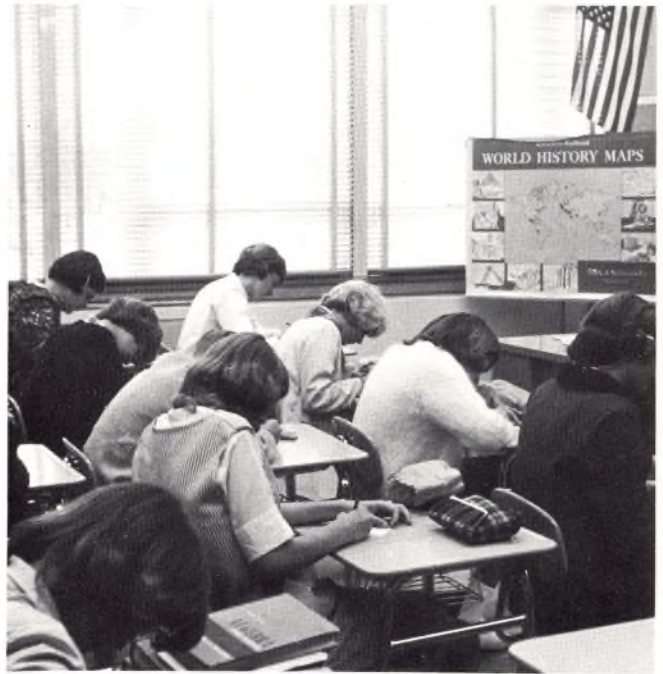

Judy Wieringa stops the movement of the ripple tank with the stroboscope.

Progress is being made in science everyday. Timothy students are preparing for advancement in science through National Science Foundation courses. The physical science classes studied sciences not directly connected with living things but including chemistry, geology, physics, meteorology, astronomy, astronautics, astrophysics, and oceanography. The B.S.C.S. biology courses were detailed studies of living things. One year of biology was required of all sophomore students and advanced biology was offered as an elective to upperclassmen. The advanced biology classes studied the possible scientific evolution of man from molecules; God's act of creation was emphasized and discussed in relation to the evolutionary theory. By applying what they had learned in class to their observations from the laboratory, physics students, following the newest P.S.S.C. course, began to understand the forces of the natural world. A study of the many theories concerning the nature of light occupied much of the time of these interested juniors. The CHEM chemistry course, offered to college prep seniors, was centered around finding out the reason for the reactions seen in the laboratory. Because chemistry is an experimental science, much time was spent in the laboratory observing new phenomena and applying what was learned. The addition of required laboratory periods to the already adequate laboratories made this year's science program even more beneficial and challenging to the students.

Social Studies Prepares Alert Citizens

Given the opportunity to discover the secrets of the past, and to study the system and problems of the society they live in, Timothy students gained a better understanding of the world around them. To attain this understanding, three years of social studies was required. World history, required for all freshmen, was a study of the history of the world beginning with the first man and continuing to the present day. The course was a foundation which provided the background for future history courses; some of this material was continued in greater depth in the modern history course offered to juniors and seniors. American history was required of all juniors. A new appreciation of their heritage was gained as the students learned how the fathers of our country gave us the freedom that is now taken for granted. It was found by the seniors in a one-semester course that many of the problems facing our country today stem from events in our past. The structure and offices of our government were studied during the other semester of the senior year in American government. Students learned the system of democracy in America and this knowledge helped prepare each student to be an intelligent and patriotic citizen.

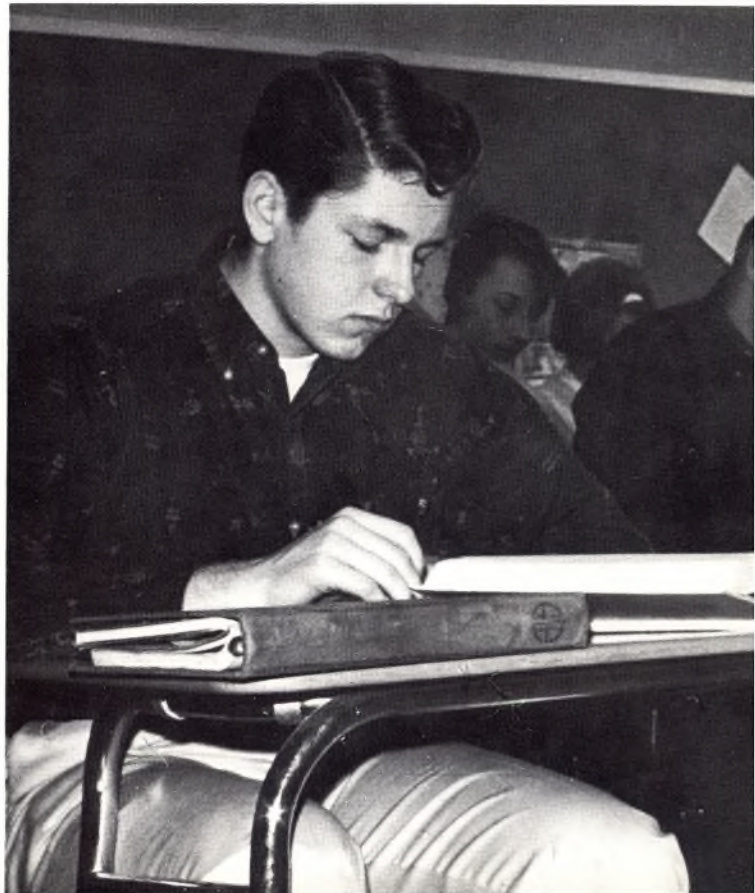

In modern history, Mr. Vander Woude reminds students that history is actually a working out of God's plan and purpose.

Surprise quizzes provide an incentive to do daily assignments.

New Gym Aids Phys Ed Program

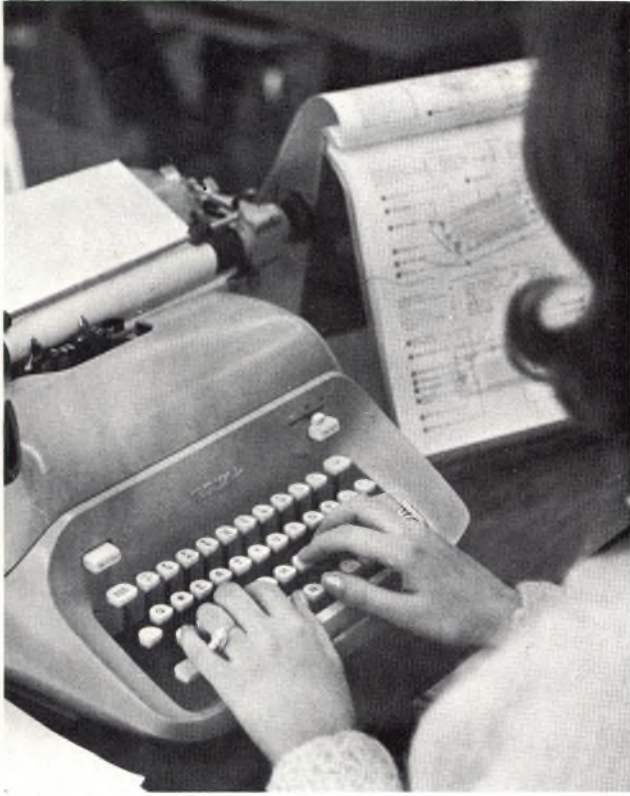

Exercises, gym suits, physical fitness tests, our new gym, and indoor and outdoor sports such as basketball, volleyball, soccer, baseball, and tumbling were all part of our new physical education program. This new program consisted of gym classes three days a week for every student, with equal time given to exercises and sports. The exercises were those followed by the Royal Canadian Air Force. Using the A.A.H.P.E.R. tests as a guide, the students were tested in the fall and spring for physical fitness. The hours of muscle-straining exercises paid off in improved test results in the spring. Between exercises, time was found to learn and participate in new sports. The new gym suits with reversible shirts allowed the boys to divide into the "Reds" and the "Whites" for games of football and soccer; the girls had new coral gym suits. Because the new gymnasium was not finished, gym classes were canceled from November to February. In place of gym classes, everyone was assigned to a study hall according to the "rainy day schedule." Our new gymnasium was greatly appreciated and to the gym students and teachers, it meant a greatly expanded and challenging physical education program.

New Advancements in Commercial Courses

Students interested in secretarial work and the business world had an opportunity to learn and improve these skills this year at Timothy. The courses offered in this field included bookkeeping, Shorthand I-IV, and Typing I-IV. These courses covered many of the skills needed in business and each one was more meaningful and effective because of several improvements. The typing students advanced rapidly as they worked for better speed and accuracy on the seventeen new Royal manual typewriters and the new Royal electric typewriter. Students first learned the finger positions on the typewriter and then used this knowledge to type the various forms of business letters and formal papers. Shorthand students were aided by modern textbooks which enabled them to work more efficiently. Within a short time, the students found themselves taking dictation at increasingly better rates. Bookkeeping made advances as well, with a new teacher and a new learning instrument called the Photoscribe. This instrument not only helped in doing the regular classwork but it also enabled the class to learn about income tax and income tax forms. Through this commercial program Timothy students were prepared for future jobs as business men and women.

Fine Arts Provide Variety

Mr. Purins illustrates the importance of correct color usage in art.

MUSIC

Greater enjoyment, as well as a better understanding of music, was strived for and accomplished in music appreciation. Utilizing newly acquired listening habits, the students learned to recognize the qualities of good music. The study of the historical development of music began with the primitive reed instruments, continuing on through the Gregorian chant and Baroque period to modern musicals and jazz. Outside work included required listening to records in the library and making reports on the lives of principal composers. Second semester music students were the first to enjoy the improved facilities which the new music room furnished. By providing the students with a music center in school, the new music room encouraged a greater interest in music.

ART

This year art was open once again to anyone with an interest and a free study hall on Friday. With their teacher Mr. Purins, the students explored many of the facets of the world of art. The students learned about many media in which to express themselves and effective use of color and shape to improve their products. Art was not only relaxing, but challenging; students were assigned projects and were expected to work. Report cards were handed out for the first time and students found that labor, reception, and cooperation were rewarded with a good grade and a new appreciation of art.

Practical Skills

Make Useful Hands

With the addition of an extra lab period to its schedule, it was possible for the home ec classes not only to do more sewing and cooking but also to go on field trips. The first semester sewing and interior decorating classes took trips to the Mac Dougal model homes and to Mrs. Hoffman's house. China, silverware, and fabrics were studied in relation to color and design.

The second semester cooking class took a trip to a Jewel meat department. The classes also saw films such as "A Good Egg" and "Paging Women" which illustrated what they had studied.

T-squares, 45° triangles, and inking pencils are a few of the many drawing tools a boy learned to use in Timothy's mechanical drawing course. During the first semester the boys were taught how to use the basic drawing tools. Then they started drawing surface geometric figures, gradually progressing to three dimensional views of an object, showing its exact size and shape.

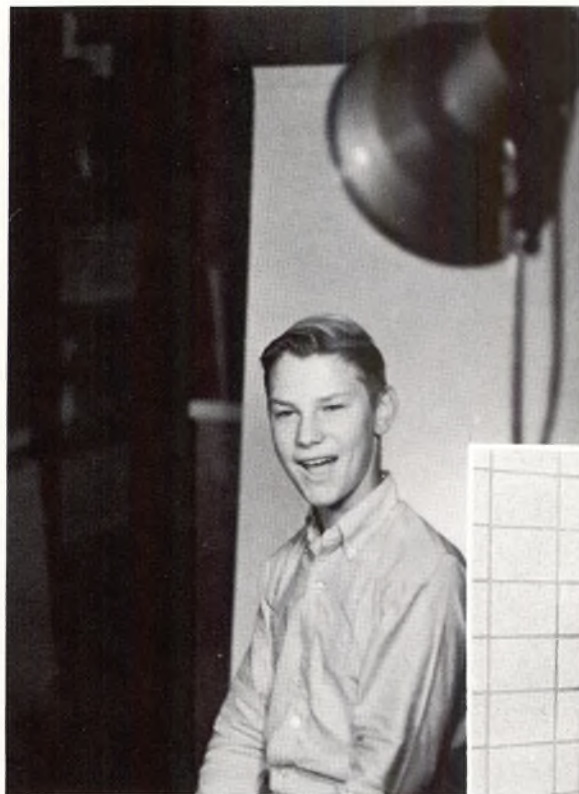

The second and third year students began making architectural floor plans. These involved a lot of planning and a good amount of skill in using the drawing tools. One student's accomplishments in mechanical drawing were already realized when he drew up the actual plans for Timothy's new language lab.

Plans for the language lab are being drawn by Rog Wiltjer.

Nancy Voss puts the finishing touches to her home ec project.

STUDENTS

To underclassmen, Timothy is the beginning of a vital high school education.
To seniors, it becomes the foundation of a new phase in life.

Dutifully, the freshmen lend a hand at the All-School Party.

Freshmen Class of '69

With a new school, new teachers, and new classes, high school meant confusion for the freshmen. The first week of high school was walking into wrong rooms, losing schedule cards, and being careful not to get stepped on. Although disorder reigned for a while, it didn't take long for the freshmen to get to know their way around our small school. Within two weeks they were walking around as if they had always been in this school and were as experienced as anyone.

The freshman year was noted for its initiation ceremonies where the upstanding seniors went about humbling the always-too-haughty freshmen. This year the fall All-School Party was the place designated to teach freshmen their place. Although a freshman class is not known primarily for its great sports participation, they did, however, have a good freshman basketball team. This was also the first year these students took exams. The many heartaches, headaches, and other pains resulting from these tests showed the freshmen how wonderful school can be.

As the freshmen were assimilated into school life, they found that there was more to school than studying or having fun. There was also the responsibility of being a representative of Timothy Christian wherever they were.

Sophomores

Class of '68

The sophomore year was a lull between the perplexity of the freshman year and the activity and responsibility of the junior and senior years. Since the sophomores knew what to expect from high school, the year was spent in getting better acquainted with each other and with school. Participation in activities such as band, choir, cheerleading, and sports made them an important part of the school. The Frosh-Soph basketball team led the P. S. L. in an excellent season. During the basketball season, the sophomores were responsible for many of the posters around school which were designed to boost the spirit of both the team and the students. Because a majority of them were not eligible for their driver's license, it was the sophomores who filled the spectator buses which went to the away games.

A year like the sophomore year was important because it provided these students with time to thoroughly acquaint themselves with school and to prepare for the two important years ahead of them.

Juniors Class of '67

If the Freshman Class was known for its confusion, and the Sophomore Class for its gaiety, then the trademark of the Junior Class would have to be good, hard work. The juniors realized that this year was most important for college and for future jobs, and if they planned to advance, they had better start working. The junior year was also the first year the students were confronted with that legendary grade-dropper, the term paper. But the junior year wasn't all study, for things such as barbecues, class rings, plays, and banquets also claimed their attention.

The juniors will never forget their invitation to the junior-senior picnic. Unfortunately someone forgot to tell the weatherman they wanted a warm, sunny day; so it turned out to be cold and wet, cheered only by the good food provided by the seniors.

This was the juniors' first year as upperclassmen, thus making them among the "elite" at school. Their class play, Our Town by Thornton Wilder, was a well-received dramatic presentation. They joined the varsity teams and proved their worth as athletes. Their imagination and hard work made the Junior-Senior Banquet a memorable farewell to the seniors.

Even though one more year is left before they graduate, the juniors have now passed the hardest year, and they can rest assured that they are well on the way to becoming seniors.

GRADUATES

I have become absolutely convinced that neither death nor life, neither messenger of Heaven nor monarch of earth, neither what happens today nor what may happen tomorrow, neither a power from on high nor a power from below, nor anything else in God's whole world has any power to separate us from the love of God in Jesus Christ our Lord!

Romans 8: 38,39

When our class entered Timothy Christian High School, we came into a new building with workmen still adding the finishing touches. With the assimilation of freshmen from Des Plaines, Western Springs, and Timothy, we soon became a lively, chaotic freshman class.

Administration Names Outstanding Graduates

Mary Stob

Mary was chosen for her faithful work for the Fine Arts Festival and the SAGA business staff; for her active participation in Future Nurses Club and both class plays; and for her perceptive interest in her classes and high scholastic achievement.

To be chosen one of the two outstanding graduates is the greatest honor Timothy grants a student; the choice is based on participation in activities, attitude toward school and fellow students, and scholastic achievement.

Each spring the Awards Banquet is climaxed by the announcement and presentation of the two seniors who have been chosen by a faculty committee as those who best exemplify the qualities of a Christian student.

Ken was chosen for his leadership in his class and in student council; for his enthusiasm and team work in sports, especially baseball and basketball; and for his serious attitude toward scholarship, resulting in a consistently high academic record.

STUDENT LIFE

A function as a class,
an all-school event—
these are the activities that contribute to a well-rounded personality.

Jim Vander Kamp reads the Scripture during a special chapel at Elmhurst Church.

We Begin with God

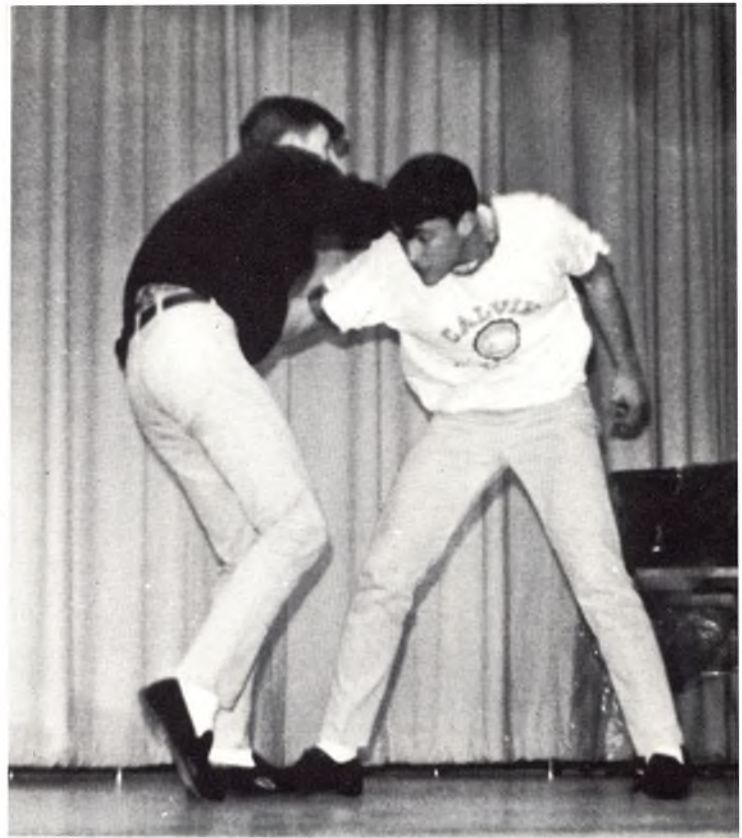

The cheery "good morning" of a voice on the intercom marked the beginning of another "Chapel" during first semester. Following this prelude came a short inspiring devotional and prayer by a student or faculty member, after which the student body pledged their allegiance to the American flag. Although short, these periods of quiet and meeting with the Lord started each day off right. Organ music and a steady stream of students flowing reverently into the gym and seating themselves quickly in a new random arrangement began second-semester chapel. These chapels consisted of audience singing, special music, and speakers. The speakers were ministers of the churches which the students represented, the students themselves, faculty members, or special speakers—groups from neighboring schools or missionaries. The purpose of chapel was to make life more meaningful for the students and faculty by helping them grow in their spiritual lives. Chapel meant the opportunity to share Christian experiences with others and to express love for the Lord, not only in word, but also through special music.

Fine Arts Festival Takes on New Look

The Fine Arts Committee was busy this year promoting and planning the Fine Arts Festival and the arts in general. The purpose of the festival was to give students the opportunity to express themselves in the creative and interpretative arts and to submit their efforts to the evaluation of competent judges. The committee sponsored a hootenanny in the fall and special assemblies in the spring; guest performers along with talented students from Timothy were featured at these events. Fine Arts Day began with a beautiful chapel service; Dr. Pekelder from Calvin College was the guest speaker. In the afternoon the film "The White Mane" was shown and the second-year Latin class presented a Latin fashion show and the Latin play "Pyramus et Thisbe." Because the judging in all categories was done in the afternoon and early evening, the first and second place winners were able to perform at the evening program with a greater degree of ease. A Fine Arts pin, designed by the F.A.F. committee, was awarded to the first and second place winners. The addition of organ and music composition divisions completed the new look of the Fine Arts Festival.

Gwen Groot Crowned at Homecoming Festivities

In accordance with tradition, homecoming was held on the Friday night after Thanksgiving. Again the spirited rivalry between the alumni and the varsity provided lively entertainment. The alumni showed that age is no factor in playing basketball. First the alumnae topped the girls' varsity by the score of 29-13. Then the big game began. Although the alumni took the lead in the first few minutes of the game, the varsity soon caught up and the remainder of the game was very close. With a tie score during the last minute of play, the alumni put on an effective stall. With five seconds left in the game, alumnus Bill Peterson hit a long jump shot, giving the alumni the victory.

During halftime the five girls who were chosen for Timothy's court were presented by Student Council President Bob Ottenhoff. The girls were juniors Judy Boer and Penny Groot and seniors Nancy Boersema, Gwen Groot, and Leona Tameling. At the height of suspense, Timothy's Queen of 1965, Carol Bardolph crowned Gwen Groot Homecoming Queen of 1966. After Gwen expressed her appreciation for this honor, she and her court were escorted to reserved seats where they watched the remainder of the game. Afterwards, at the reception, the alumni laughed at old pictures, enjoyed refreshments, and were entertained by the folk trio—Cal, Marce, and Dave—and the guitar duo, Debbi Iwasko and Gary Langkamp.

With five seconds to go, the alumni win the game.

Everyone Participates in All School Parties

Each of the four classes took a special part in the school's parties. Our first party was held in the fall. The seniors dedicated the party to the freshmen by subjecting them to the traditional rule of "pot." The movie, "The Cruel Sea" was also shown at this party. The sophomores and juniors performed at the Christmas party; Marcy, Cal, and Dave's folksinging and Cheryl Lindemulder's number, "I'm Gettin' Nothin' for Christmas," were two of the many highlights of the night. The main event of the spring party was the senior-faculty game. During an exciting basketball game the "magnificent little girls," the senior boys, defeated "Batman and his friends," the faculty.

The Christmas All School Party was brightened by the girl's trio, Char, Leona, and Marce.

The Junior-Senior Banquet committee worked many long nights after school to make the banquet a success.

Gwen and Bob enjoyed their job as host and hostess of the Awards Banquet.

Banquets Are a Memorable Finale

Two of the final formal activities of the year were the Junior-Senior and Awards Banquets. The juniors spent much time and effort to create a beautiful banquet for the seniors. Parts of "The Wizard of Oz" were acted out and songs from it were sung. The stage was beautifully decorated as Emerald City.

The Awards Banquet, held at the Mar-Lac House, was the climax to a year of academic and sports achievements. Sports awards and trophies were received by team members, and four basketball trophies were presented to the school. Scholastic honors were awarded and the new student council president and members were introduced. The highlight of the evening was the announcing of the outstanding boy and girl.

The alumni reminisce at the homecoming party.

Juniors Present Our Town

The church choir warms up at dress rehearsal.

The audience, assembled with the expectation typical for a school play, soon noticed that the curtains were already open to a strangely bare stage. Another indication that something unusual was about to happen came when one of the actors appeared in full dress on the left of the stage, apparently looking for someone. For a few minutes he stood propped against the wall with a big pipe hanging out of his mouth. Then he began welcoming certain guests and chatting with others. This was strange enough, but then he set up a few chairs and arranged some other articles as if he just happened to think it might be appropriate to have a little scenery. This was the beginning of one of the strangest, but most moving, plays ever produced at Timothy. The play continued in its casual fashion as the stage manager genially told about the life in a common little town called Grovers Corners. The three acts showed the daily life of two families, a wedding, and the death of the lovely bride. The play concluded with the bride's returning to life and discovering the ignorance of life's petty thoughts and occupations. The directors of the play, along with the junior class, will long remember the work and satisfaction they experienced as they successfully produced Our Town.

Weary juniors pose after dress rehearsal.

"Nice town, y'know what I mean?"

"I've married two hundred couples in my day. Do I believe in it? I don't know."

A Remarkable Incident at Carson Corners

On the evenings of March 31 and April 1, the curtains of the new stage were opened and the Senior Class presented The Remarkable Incident at Carson Corners, a contemporary drama by Reginald Rose. The cast consisted of twenty-six characters, thirteen girls and thirteen boys, under the direction of Mrs. Oosterbaan and Mr. Nawyn and student director Rosalie Medema. There was much hard work both for the cast and directors behind the excellent performance. This was the first play ever performed on the new stage.

The play was a story of a mock trial held by senior high students in an effort to find the murderer and the cause of the tragic death of a fellow student. During the trial, to which the students had invited their parents, all those present were implicated in some way with the accident. Several parents became painfully aware of their contributory responsibilities in the high school student's death. Mr. McGinnis, one of the parents, realized how serious high school students could be and what revelations they could bring about when he remarked, "They shouldn't have to show us where we're wrong. We're supposed to show them!"

"The boy was dead when I got there! I never could have saved him! Never!"

As the governing body of the school, the Student Council was one of Timothy's busiest organizations. Heading this group was the Senate which was made up of the administration and the Student Council advisor and officers. In the Council, every student was represented by the two delegates his homeroom sent. The Council met once a week during a twenty-minute study period. An important phase of the Council's work was the directing of the tardy system. A record was kept of each student's tardies, and infraction of the tardy rule by any of the students was dealt with by the Council officers. The Council sponsored a Work Day in September; each student worked for the day and gave the money he earned to the Council. Over seventeen hundred dollars was collected and this money enabled the Council to sponsor such activities as the All-School Party, Homecoming, and the Awards Banquet. In the fall, the Student Council sponsored a student drive. This drive encouraged the students to contribute what they could to help pay for our new gym. The students responded by pledging over thirty-one hundred dollars! The hard work of the Student Council united the student body and made 1966 a meaningful year for all.

Students Honored for Scholastic Achievement

Sophomores, juniors, and seniors who maintained at least a B average were members of Timothy's Honor Society. To remain in the Honor Society, each student kept a B average for each semester's work; for only one semester of high school was the student allowed to let this average fall to a B—. Being members of the Honor Society meant doing consistent work in all subjects; regular assignments and outside work also had to be kept up. Besides this, many honor students participated in extra-curricular activities. At the annual Awards Banquet held in the spring, each honor student was awarded a certificate in recognition of this achievement. If a senior met all the requirements of this society for seven semesters of high school, he was awarded a gold tassel for his graduation cap.

What happened if Mr. Bilthuis wanted to show a movie on acids and bases to his chemistry class, or Miss Bysterveld wanted to use a recording for her Latin class? This is precisely what the Projection Club was organized for. The teachers well realized the advantage of having these instruments at hand, and they used them frequently. One often saw a club member manuvering a movie screen or slide projector down the hall, dodging all the students. The boys volunteered to give up their free time to help out with these machines and their work was greatly appreciated.

Being a library aide was an important, voluntary task. These students were in charge of library passes and checking out books. They were also responsible for returning books to the shelves and collecting fines on overdue books. The library aides helped students with research work by referring them to available sources of information. They assisted the students with their reference work by obtaining available magazine articles from the periodical stacks. The library aides, while becoming acquainted with the library, its operation, and function, also served as a great assistance to the students and the librarian.

Girls Prepare for Future Careers

Preparation for a career in business was the main purpose of Commercial Club. The girls who were members of this club were interested in typing, shorthand, and other secretarial skills. Commercial Club met once every month. Speakers presented the many fields of business that were open to the girls, and typing and other skills were improved through games and contests. In March an open house was held. In preparation for this, club members put up a bulletin board with tips on shorthand and other items of secretarial interest. By means of all these different activities, interest was promoted in the business world and preparation was made for such careers.

"The Hospital Nursing Team" was the theme of the Future Nurses Club. The club, well organized and active, chose films and speakers centered around the theme. Under the leadership of Mrs. Wood, a public health nurse for Du Page County, and Mr. Alsum, tours were taken to the Du Page County Convalescent Home and to the University of Illinois. A point system was established to encourage the girls to participate in the activities of the club; points were awarded to each girl on the basis of attendance at club meetings, participation in committee activities, and hospital volunteer work. In the spring, a mother-and-daughter tea was held where the girls were given awards for their points earned.

Girls Aim at Participation

The Future Teachers Club was organized for those students interested in a teaching career. At the bi-monthly meetings, movies such as "Summer Harvest" were shown and teachers lectured on opportunities and experiences in the field of education. As a special project this year, each F.T.C. member was given the opportunity to practice teaching by tutoring students who needed help. Through this program the members became acquainted with teaching and gained experience for their future career. In April, the future teachers clubs in the Elmhurst area met at York High School for a potluck dinner where ideas for better F.T.C. clubs were exchanged.

The G.A.A. this year moved ahead to get more girls interested in sports. The board, which was composed of the officers and two representatives from each class, planned the activities of the group. During the school year the G.A.A. sponsored intramural bowling and volleyball. At the homecoming, the members added to the festivity of the night by selling white mum corsages. The girls also sponsored an all-girl splash party at the Oak Park Y.M.C.A. and a movie "Ventures for Victory" to which the public was invited.

The choir provides sacred music at the annual Christmas candle-light service.

Choir Strives for Musical Expression

Included in the a cappella choir's program was participation in the evening services of many of the Christian Reformed churches in the area and two inspirational hymn-sings at the Warren Park church. Upon the completion of Timothy's new addition, the choir participated in one of the student body's opening assemblies. They continued to make good use of the new gym as they were host to the four schools participating in the annual Chicagoland Music Festival. Because they were able to perform in their own school, the choir joined the band to present a musical pageant. The Calvin Christian High School Choir from Granville, Michigan, combined with Timothy's choir to present a Palm Sunday program. Included in the choir's selections this season were the calypso arrangement "Good, Good, Good," the heart-stirring "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor," and selections from The Messiah. Under the direction of Mr. Hoekstra, choir meant an opportunity to develop and use one's talents for the glory of God and for one's own personal satisfaction.

The better acoustics of the new music room helped the choir members to blend better.

Concert Band Takes on New Appearance

A new appearance was evident in the Concert Band this year; the band had a new director, and a new room to practice in. The new music room was a noticeable improvement over the room which had been used. Besides the risers which permitted everyone to see Mr. Mitchell, individual sound-proof practice rooms were available so that the more ambitious band members could practice at any time. These rooms were primarily used by students who were preparing for the Fine Arts Festival and for concert solos. The band provided entertainment at the All-School Christmas Party and the Band Parents' Valentine Party. Serious concerts were also given. The fall concert was held at Bryan Junior High and the Spring Concert was held in our new auditorium. At both of these concerts contemporary music was emphasized, the spring concert featuring outstanding senior soloists in its program.

There was also a freshman band this year. This band's only performance was a concert for the Western Suburbs School. The purpose of this band was to prepare the freshmen for their entry into the concert band as sophomores.

Led by Mr. Mitchell, the stage band entertained at many school functions. One of its first appearances was at the all-school Christmas party; the band added a swinging touch to the party by playing some fast-moving contemporary pieces. The primary performance for the band members was as a pep band at pep rallies and home basketball games. They played between quarters and inspired the spectators and team members with the school fight song.

A new attraction at each home basketball game was the pompon girls. They wore uniforms in the school colors and did routines with red and white pompons. They did many different routines to the music of the stage band and joined with the cheerleaders to lead the fight song. Nine regular performers and four substitutes made up a total of thirteen girls in the group.

Chorus Harmonizes

Singing could be heard every day as the chorus rehearsed during first hour. This group was directed by Mr. Hoekstra and accompanied by pianists Kathy Jelinek and Becky Kodl. The purpose of the chorus was to give underclassmen a chance to gain experience in musical expression and then, if they wished, to try out in the spring for the A Cappella choir. The climax of the group's work came in their only appearance of the year at the annual Spring Concert.

Pep Club Promotes

One reason for this year's improved school spirit was a group of loyal Trojans: the Pep Club. During the days before the basketball games the club members made posters to promote game attendance. They also made a tall "T" through which the varsity team made their entrance at the games held in our new gym. The cheerleaders taught the pep club their new cheers so that they would really be able to yell. Charms, pennants, rah rah, and buttons in school colors were sold to promote school spirit.

The planning of the 1966 Saga began in the summer when the editor and assistant editor went to a yearbook journalism course at the University of Minnesota. During the one-week course they attended lectures and workshops and became acquainted with the techniques of producing a school annual. By the time school started, the editors had the entire layout of the book planned so that the individual staffs could begin their tasks. The Saga staff was made up of five separate branches: art, business, literary, photography, and typing. The photography staff obtained a new enlarger and had their dryer repaired; a Saga photographer was snapping pictures at every school event. Along with a change of publishers, there also was a change from letter press type to offset, and a change from a padded cover to a hard one. The editors and sponsors spent many hours planning and putting together the annual and every member of the staff was kept busy in order to meet the weekly deadlines. The entire staff worked with the theme and all the members united their efforts to make the 1966 Saga a true picture of the Trojans at Timothy Christian High School.

Gary Rude and Ginny Bult spent many late nights putting the paper together.

Trumpet Staff Turns Out First-rate Paper

A year of experience in handling the I.B.M. typewriter paid off this year with a more professional looking newspaper. The staff saved a considerable amount of money by typing the paper up themselves rather than having a printer do it. Another thing that added to the excellence of the paper was the increased use of pictures. In order to avoid reprocessing the pictures for printing, the staff bought a screen for their camera lens; this enabled them to put in more pictures of sports, big school events, and featured Trojans. But putting out the paper was not made up of just pictures and an expensive machine; it also called for weekly assignments, student research, editing articles, and obtaining ads from the community. A good example of the paper's part in student life was their Trojan of the Month. Each month the sponsors and the editors chose a student whom they felt displayed the character and spirit of a true Trojan. Other subjects covered in the paper were basketball games, track and cross-country meets, and special features on the true meaning of Christmas and the controversy over Twirp week. Throughout the year, the staff always welcomed letters and opinions from students and teachers alike, thus making the Trumpet truly a voice of Timothy.

Trumpet staff members distribute the latest edition of the paper.

Varsity Takes Second in PSL Tournament

Over the years Timothy has had its problems with basketball but we seem to have licked them, for this year the Trojans were serious contenders all the way for the P.S.L. championship. The team's record this year was 19-5; Timothy finished third in the standings of the Private School League, right behind Chicago Christian and Luther North. Certainly one of the biggest games of the year was our stopping Chicago Christian's state record of thirty-two victories in a row in a pre-Christmas thriller. In the P.S.L. tourney, Timothy started off against Latin of Chicago and went on to defeat North Park Academy. Coming into the semifinals, Timothy defeated Chicago Christian. In the finals we lost to Illiana and came home with a second place trophy. History was made in this, the last year of the sixteen-team Private School League, when the first three places in the tournament went to the three area Christian high schools. Timothy played in another less publicized tournament, the Walther Christmas Invitational. In this tournament Timothy took first, taking home the school's first varsity trophy. Every year the Private School League coaches vote for outstanding players to be on the Honorary All-Star team; John Huisman and Bill Van Dyke made the first and second string squads respectively. John Huisman was also nominated for the all Chicagoland team.

Van Dyke and Post closely guard Ozinga of Christian as Marema watches the action.

Undefeated Sophs Take First Place

It was four years ago that Mr. Hoving began coaching frosh-soph basketball for Timothy. Since then he has compiled a very impressive record of winning seasons and has built great potential for the varsity team. In 1964 the Timothy sophs took second place, in 1965 they captured first place, and in 1966 they went undefeated to easily capture the Red Division Championship. For twenty-three consecutive games, the team came home with a victory. An important aspect of this string of victories is the fact that Timothy defeated its arch-rival Chicago Christian the last four times the sophomore team played them, thereby showing great promise for some exciting games in the future. Our team had a very definite height advantage all year, but they won many of their games on their excellent outside shots and good, quick moves toward the center. A great boost to the team's morale was the enthusiasm of the many fans who went to the games early to see the Trojans win two.

Dressed for P.S.L. tourney action, the frosh-soph team accepts the first place plaque for their undefeated record in league play.

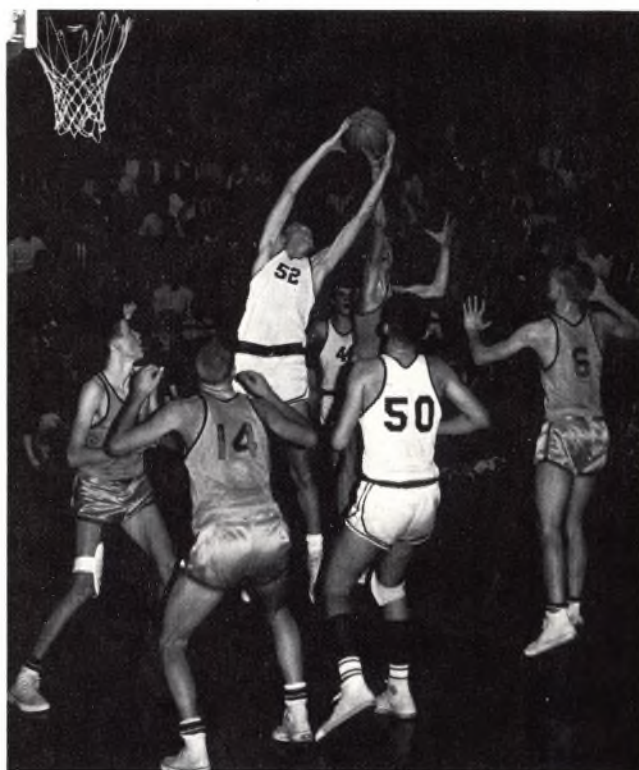

Freshmen Tie for League Championship

A third boys' basketball team of Timothy, the freshman squad, was also successful this year. The end of the season found the Trojans tied with Illiana for first place with a season's record of 10 wins and 3 losses. In the Christian Invitational Tournament, however, the freshmen didn't fare quite as well, and they had to be satisfied with a third place trophy. One reason for the team's success was the overall height advantage which clearly helped the Trojans to control the boards.

Girls Varsity Team Upholds Tradition

"Ipskidilee ooten dooten, hobo skideeten doten, hotcha rah rah, Timothy High rah rah!" This traditional fight cry was repeated again this year by nearly a whole new team and a new coach who worked hard together to keep up the Timothy girls' team tradition. The group showed good spirit, good sportsmanship, and team effort. There were no outstanding players, but each girl worked for the team and was all-important in her place. The girls again entered the A.A.U. Tournament; in spite of tough competition and a cold epidemic that struck both the coach and the team members, they kept up their record of playing hard. They took fourth place in the tourney and one of the girls captured the free-throw trophy. The girls were especially thankful for their new gym where they were able to play and win their last game of the season.

Frosh-Soph Girls Practice Teamwork

Again this year Timothy had both a freshman and a frosh-soph girls basketball team. They played against teams of other private schools in the Chicago area and their practice, teamwork, and good sportsmanship led them through an eventful season. Coached by alumna Mrs. Rusthoven, the frosh-soph girls won every game but one during the regular season. During Christmas vacation, this team competed in the Central Amateur Athletic Union tournament, but they were unable to place. Although the freshmen girls had a losing season, they along with their coach Miss Evenhouse, exhibited a good fighting spirit and a strong desire to win throughout the entire season.

Vivacious Cheerleaders Support Team

The five varsity and the five frosh-soph cheerleaders led the basketball fans in cheers, encouraged the basketball teams to win, and were in charge of the pep rallies held for the student body. This year's most unusual pep rally was the one held on the concrete floor of our unfinished gym before our successful battle against Chicago Christian. The cheerleaders were prominent participants in the Pep Club. All of the cheerleaders, along with the pompon girls, did a routine to the school fight song, using their rah-rahs and standing in a "T" formation. The girls also presented the flags before each home game, and through their lively participation they were instrumental in promoting school spirit and sportsmanship.

Rugged Courses Set for Runners

Timothy's fifth cross-country season came, but unfortunately the boys participating weren't ready. Because they were able to practice only a week before the season began, the boys started off losing. To get their minds off their defeats, the top seven runners went to an invitational meet at Calvin College in Grand Rapids to compete against all the Christian high schools in the Midwest. The team came in eighth out of the eleven teams represented. Back in Elmhurst they continued losing, and this relatively short season ended with the P.S.L. tournament. Although they had a losing season, the boys had fun and used this training for the sports that came later in the season.

A cross-country runner must have the endurance to cover the greatest distance in the least time.

Boys Compete in Track and Field Events

Because both track and cross-country are associated with running, these two sports are often confused and misunderstood by the Trojan fans, and therefore meets are poorly attended. Cross-country is just one race, set at a two mile distance; a track meet consists of such fields of competition as pole-vaulting, shot-put, discus throw, high jump, hurdles, mile-runs, and associated relays. Track is therefore not entirely a running sport. This year, under the supervision of Mr. Prins, the track team was invited to Grand Rapids, Michigan, to the Calvin College Invitational track meet at which the best from all the Christian high schools in the Midwest were represented. Also this year the annual Christian Tri-meet between Chicago, Illiana, and Timothy was scheduled. The Trojans were out to regain the coveted Wooden Shoe Trophy.

The boys did exercises to warm-up during track practice.

Hopes Run High for Baseball Team

Our baseball team prepared for the season with high hopes and a new coach. After the long winter months, Mr. Bilthuis started the players early in re-learning how to throw, hit, and field the ball. Weather permitting, the team practiced outside but many days found the boys practicing in the gym after school. The entire varsity squad, save one returned this year, thereby assuring plenty of experience and needed confidence. Pitching has always been the team's problem-child and the same problem was also in effect this year. The hope was high that one or more of the three pitchers would become highly effective. One reason for defeat in a baseball game is a weak bench. The bench was one of the strong points our team had; the boys on the bench were willing and able to back up the starting nine. With experience, a strong bench, and the possibility of a good pitching staff, our baseball squad started with a good chance to better last year's record.

Golfers Try for Par

Ten boys tried out for the golf team this spring. The four best golfers were chosen to play on the team. Each team member practiced individually to perfect his game and Mr. Milkamp coached the team in practice sessions. The golf team had four matches, playing their home games at White Pines Country Club in Bensenville. The Private School League Tournament was also played at White Pines. Because this was the second year for most of the team members, the team looked forward toward bettering the record of last year's team.

Boys Bowl in PSL

March seventh brought tryouts for the boys' bowling team which was to compete in the annual P.S.L. tournament. The five boys were chosen for the team on the basis of their high scores. Seven teams competed in the entire tournament. Timothy actually played against four of them—Chicago Christian, Illiana Christian, Luther North, and Luther South. With a game of 199, Rich Smith was Timothy's highest bowler; in spite of his 536 series, he missed getting a fifth place ribbon by three pins. Although the team didn't place, the boys enjoyed the opportunity for competition.

BOWLING TEAM—A. Diepstra, J. Schipma, K. Peterson, R. Smith, J. Dykstra, Mr. Prins (coach).

Swim Team Enters PSL Competition

For the third year our school was represented in the Private School League Swimming Championship. This meet was the finale to a long season of meets for most P.S.L. schools, although it was the only meet our boys entered. The preliminaries were held on March 10 and all the boys qualified to go on to the finals. In the finals Timothy made a good showing, with the boys placing in four events. Timothy's free-style relay took second place, behind the meet champion University High.

Girls Organize a Field Hockey Team

This fall for the first time Timothy had an organized field hockey team. Through their workouts after school, the girls developed the good teamwork and skills necessary to challenge other teams. Because there was no field hockey league, the team scheduled only three games; these were with teams from Wheaton Academy, Elgin Academy, and University High. These schools with more experienced teams were difficult competition for the Timothy girls. Although the team lost two of the games and tied the other, they had great fun doing it.

Tennis Team Thinks Young

Whenever the unpredictable spring weather permitted, the tennis team, coached by Mr. Mepfans, practiced after school. Unlike many private schools, Timothy has its own tennis courts for the team to hold its daily practices and home matches on. This year's team was a rather young one, consisting mainly of freshmen and sophomores, with one junior and one senior. This year prepared the younger boys for a stronger and more experienced team in the future. The team competed in three practices matches, and for the fifth year participated in P. S. L. competition, with six scheduled matches. In May the boys entered the Private School League tournament. The fine attitude of the entire team and coach contributed to the successful season.

Intramurals Meant Sports for Everyone

At the beginning of the school year the intramural football list went up and many boys wanting some rough, rugged, yet organized competition signed up. When the teams were selected, the boys got what they wanted and more, since the season was rather wet. Football started a year full of intramural activities which offered something for every sports-loving Trojan. As second semester began, so did girls' bowling. Ten teams were chosen and the members bowled one day a week after school for six weeks. Besides having fun, the girls also played for competition; trophies for the winning team and the highest individual game were given at the G.A.A. Awards Party. The boys caught the bowling fever a few weeks after the girls and started their balls rolling for their teams, as well. With the completion of the gym, both boys and girls participated in volleyball intramurals, a sport they knew well from gym class. In April, balls began bouncing outside again when the girls participated in tennis matches.

Intramurals gave every student an opportunity to experience the excitement of victory, disappointment of defeat, and the enjoyment and lessons that competitive sports offer. This year Timothy meant sports—sports for everyone.

The faculty of Timothy Christian High School extends its congratulations to the SENIOR CLASS OF 1966. As you graduate from a school of knowledge to the school of life, it is our hope that you will use the knowledge you have gained as a guideline, that the Christian principles you have learned, you will ever apply, and that this will not be the end of your growth but rather an extension of it. As you educate yourself, our prayers go with you.

The extent of Timothy's influence did not end with the sunset of the day, the end of a school year, or the closing of the saga of the Trojans in 1966. The spirit, standards, and principles of Timothy became a vital part of the Trojans life. Timothy will continue to stand as God's instrument to "Train up a child in the way he should go."

As the first class to graduate in our gym, the Seniors of 1966 paused to remember how we watched our building expand and our long desired addition come to completion. What better time was there to thank God for all His blessings to the school and to us throughout our four years.

The editors of the Saga '66 would like to thank all those who helped in anyway to make this book possible. Particularly we would like to express our special thanks to Miss Bean, our advisor, to Mr. Mepyans our photography advisor, and Mr. Vander Woude advisor to our business staff; also our thanks go to Mr. Kowalski of Edmund Photographic Studios and to Mr. Mitchell of Walsworth Publishing Company.
