When I was a kid, life was not all an analysis of the world as I like to imagine that it was. I had real concerns about when Dad would get home from work, if my parents would leave me with a babysitter forever so they could live somewhere else, what a new baby in the house would be like, and why my neighborhood friends didn't go to church like I did. Some of this may sound silly, but for a three-year-old these were complex issues. I had "sophisticated" conversations with my parents about these worries, and they'd explain things and reassure me. Knowing that my parents loved me was my greatest comfort. I was truly blessed because my parents worked at teaching me and leading me in the direction of Christ. Before and after meals and before bed at night, I repeated in rhythm the prayers of "Lord bless this food" and "Now I lay me down to sleep." Mom's favorite phrases still echo in the back of my mind saying, "Think before you talk," and "Put yourself in the other person's shoes." Mom and I had other meaningful moments sitting on the couch waiting for Dad to get home from work. We'd sing "The wise man built his house upon the Rock" again and again until the little blue volkswagon bug coasted up the driveway. I remember asking my mom what the words to the song meant, and she said Jesus was the Rock and the sand was the wealth or power that people misplace their trust in. I don't think I understood at the time, but I still haven't forgotten it.

Timothy grade school also had an affect on me. Prayer became the natural thing to do at the beginning and end of each school day. In second grade I remember folding my hands over my eyes and peeking through the spaces between my fingers at the rest of the class which was generally doing the same secretive scanning as I was. Although I didn't have too much concentration on prayer at this age, somehow the repeated practice became a necessity for the day. The Luke 2 Christmas story and the joyful noise psalm are now unforgettable because we learned and relearned them each year. During fourth grade, I remember Miss Beezhold giving us five minutes at the end of each day to read the Bible. And there were the wing sings with Mr. Bosmar and Mr. Lanenga on their guitars and all of us singing "Jesus met the woman at the well" and "Red is the color of the blood" with all our hearts and lungs.

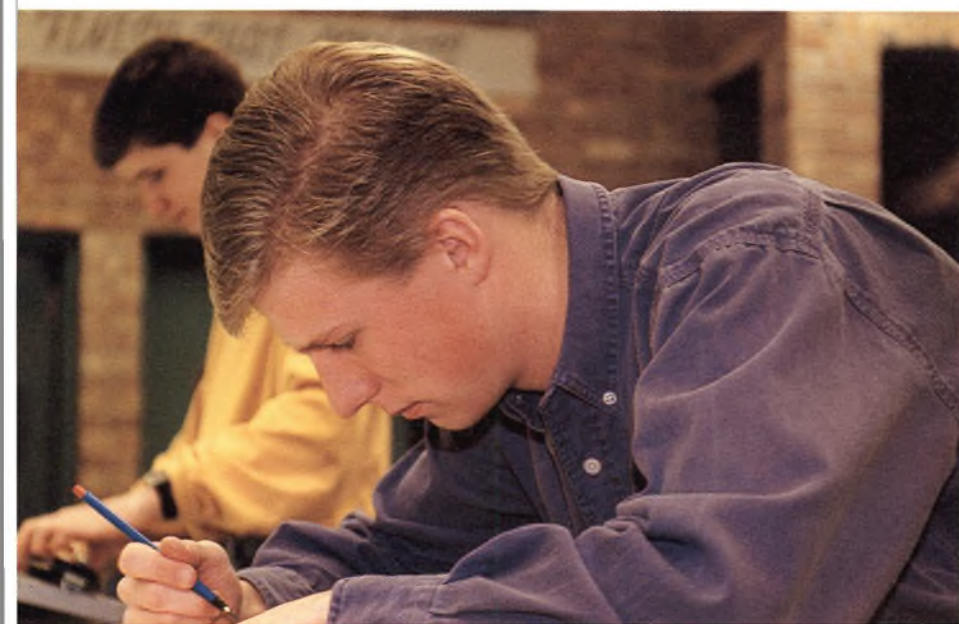

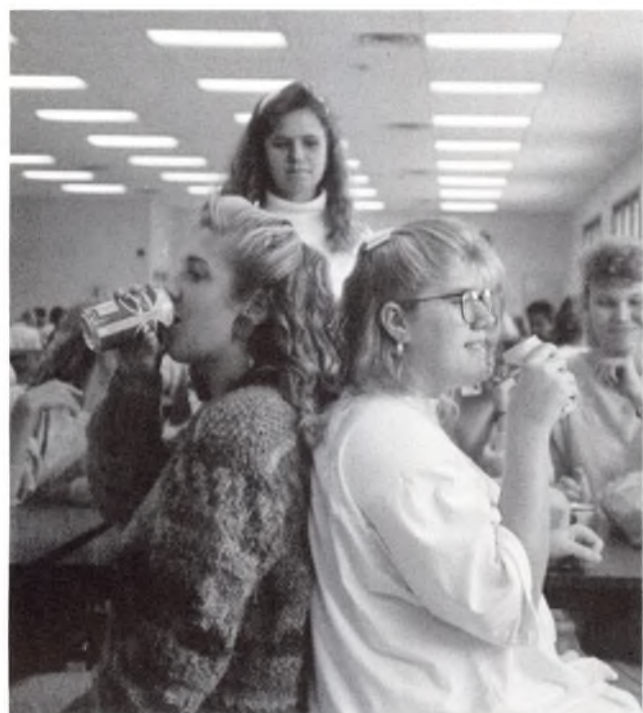

High school itself has had a lot of influence on me. Now we not only have the Christian school atmosphere which most of us have been in all of our lives, but we also have students who are trusting in God during their own tough situations. Once people start raising their hands for the prayer chapels, the requests go on and on. And this year more than any other, students have had the courage to lead chapel. Some of the most meaningful chapels for me were when Kristen told about her mom's struggle with cancer and challenged us to take advantage of the time we have with our parents and when Antoinette shared the troubles she had and how she was able to trust in God. I think one of the most difficult times for many of us was last year when we were all shocked with the death of Kristy. It was so easy to remember her smile and cackling laugh which echoed down the hall that we could hardly comprehend that she was gone. I know she'll always be a part of this year's graduating class even though she's not right here with us.

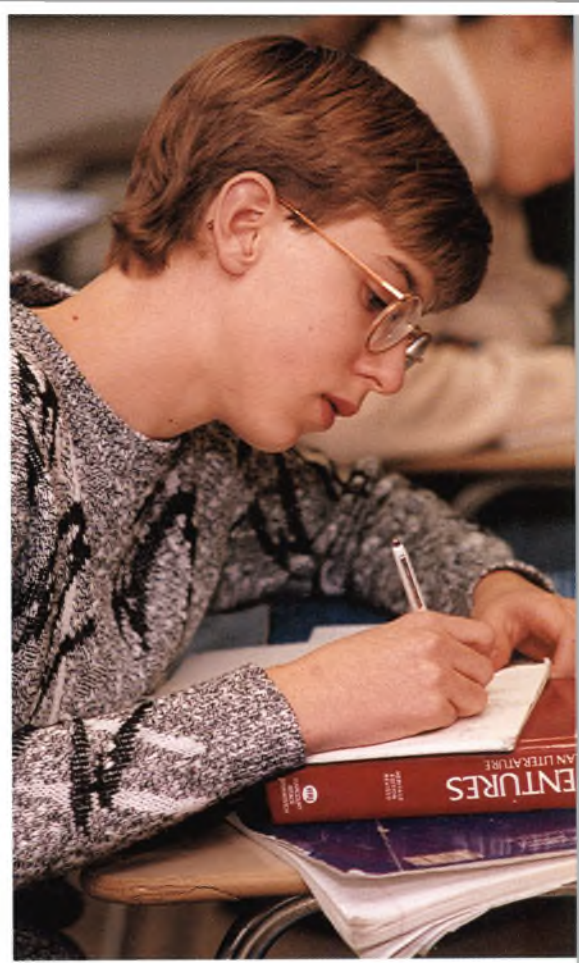

So far many of us have a shopping cart Christianity where we've looked out at the world, but we've always been kept in the cart and pushed along in the right direction. Now we are deciding either to live like Christ's example or to leave all this Christianity behind with high school. We have such an advantage because we already know so much about Him, and if we just let Him lead us, He will.

Sometimes I get so frustrated with the decisions I have to make about college and the future. I wish I could see the plan for my life so that I'd know what the right choices are. But I know I can make a decision with confidence just by trusting in Christ and following in His footsteps.

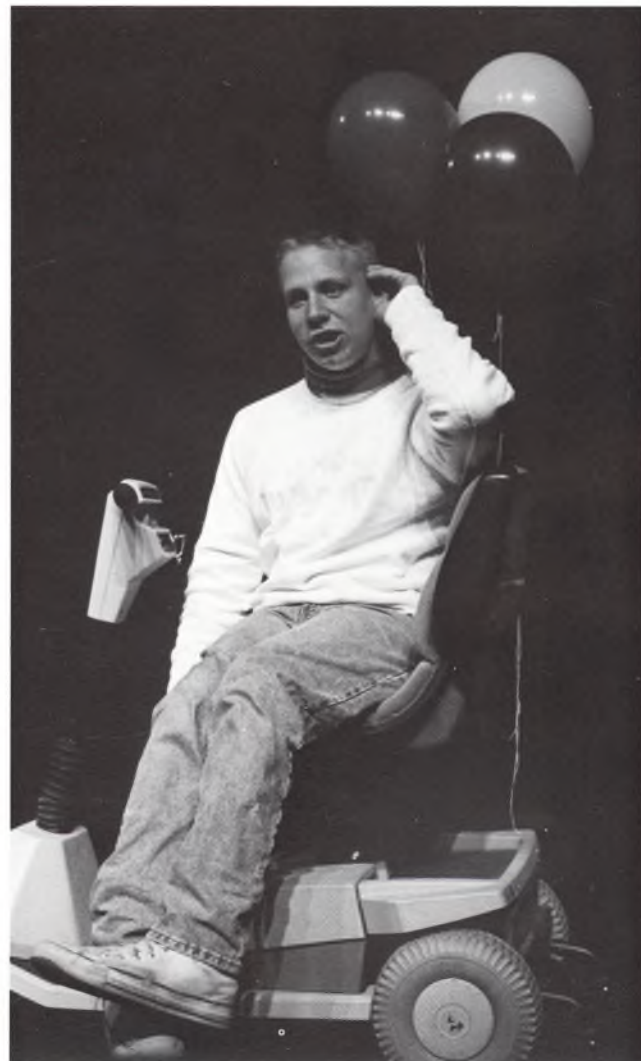

"There is a time for everything and a season for every activity under heaven:

a time to be born and a time to die,
a time to plant and a time to uproot,
a time to kill and a time to heal,
a time to tear down and a time to build,
a time to weep and a time to laugh,
a time to mourn and a time to dance,
a time to scatter stones and a time to gather them,
a time to embrace and a time to refrain,
a time to search and a time to give up,
a time to keep and a time to throw away,
a time to tear and a time to mend,
a time to be silent and a time to speak,
a time to love and a time to hate,
a time for war and a time for peace."

Ecclesiastes 3:1-8

"Do you not know that in a race all the runners run, but only one gets the prize? Run in such a way as to get the prize. Everyone who competes in the games goes into strict training. They do it to get a crown that will not last; but we do it to get a crown that will last forever. Therefore I do not run like a man running aimlessly; I do not fight like a man beating the air. No, I beat my body and make it my slave so that after I have preached to others, I myself will not be disqualified for the prize."

Niki,
I just wanted to tell you how proud I am of you. I know it's difficult being pulled in so many different directions by so many responsibilities in your life. But you can do it . . . just keep holding tightly to your dream, until it's no longer a dream, but a beautiful reality. You have a strong, beautiful spirit within you . . . a spirit that is capable of taking you as far and as high as you want to go. Let that beautiful spirit be your guide. There's a wonderful tomorrow just waiting for you. I believe in you . . . and wish you a future that's as full of hope as your dreams.

"The LORD bless you

Amen."

"The words of the wise are like goads, their collected sayings like firmly embedded nails — given by one Shepherd. Be warned, my son, of anything in addition to them. Of making many books there is no end, and much study wearies the body. Now all has been heard; here is the conclusion of the matter: Fear God and keep his commandments, For this is the whole duty of man."

Ecclesiastes 12:11-13

FOOTPRINTS

One night a man had a dream. He dreamed he was walking along the beach with the Lord. Across the sky flashed scenes from his life. For each scene, he noticed two sets of footprints in the sand: one belonging to him, and the other to the Lord.

When the last scene of his life flashed before him, he looked back at the footprints in the sand. He noticed that many times along the path of his life there was only one set of footprints. He also noticed that it happened at the very lowest and saddest times in his life.

This really bothered him and he questioned the Lord about it. "Lord, you said that once I decided to follow you, you'd walk with me all the way. But I noticed that during the most troublesome times in my life, there is only one set of footprints. I don't understand why when I needed you most, you would leave me."

The Lord replied, "My son, my precious child, I love you and I would never leave you. During your times of trial and suffering, when you see only one set of footprints, it was then that I carried you."
