"Wait."

From Grace's contorted chemistry countenance, two puzzled eyes peered at Dr. Trizenberg's problem on the overhead projector.

"What doesn't look right?"

A controlled chuckle skipped up my throat as has happened before when this overflowing storehouse of knowledge has asked his confused class for corrections.

Grace whined the word once again.

I knew exactly what position she was in:

one fourth ready to give up,

one fourth determined to understand,

one fourth not wanting to go on,

and one fourth not wanting to go over it again.

She knew that somewhere something in the instruction

had put her off track

and into a state of frenzy, yet she had no idea how to pinpoint what it was.

Grace was trapped between the middle of space and time, oblivious to the spinning world around her.

Grace had just entered THE WAIT ZONE.

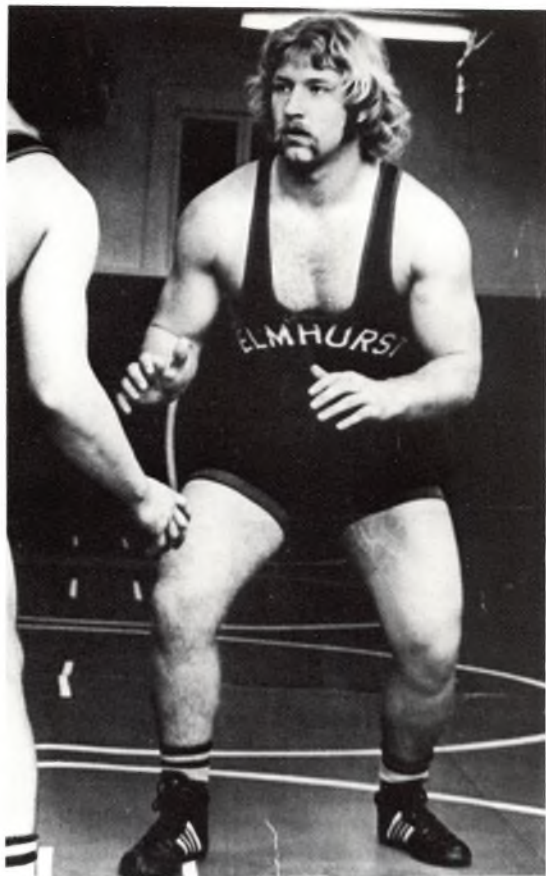

Dr. T. put aside his smudgy pen long enough for a moment of unscientific enrichment in the classroom, the kind of valuable life-skill sermon that keeps every student showing up at 8:25 each day.

Our strained-brain expressions were exchanged for looks of pleasurable interest, and we settled back in our chairs away from the discussion on the oxidation states of hydrocarbons. Information that could actually be put to use someday was going to be acquired.

It would be the equivalent of something "worthy of note" in Mr. Zylstra's class, a daughter's experience from the memory of Mrs. Bouma, a confidential college story from rowdy Roeloffs, and a Fine-Arts-Committee-of-the-past feature in Room 7.

"You know," he began, "one of the most interesting things about teaching for so many years has been seeing how the lingo changes and what the new words are each year. You know, like for a while everyone was saying 'like'." "Yeah, I'm still trying to get rid of that one," I added. "Well, this year the word is 'wait'," he continued. "I have it all the time in the halls and in my classes." We weren't as readily convinced of this observation as we were of his "like" hypothesis.

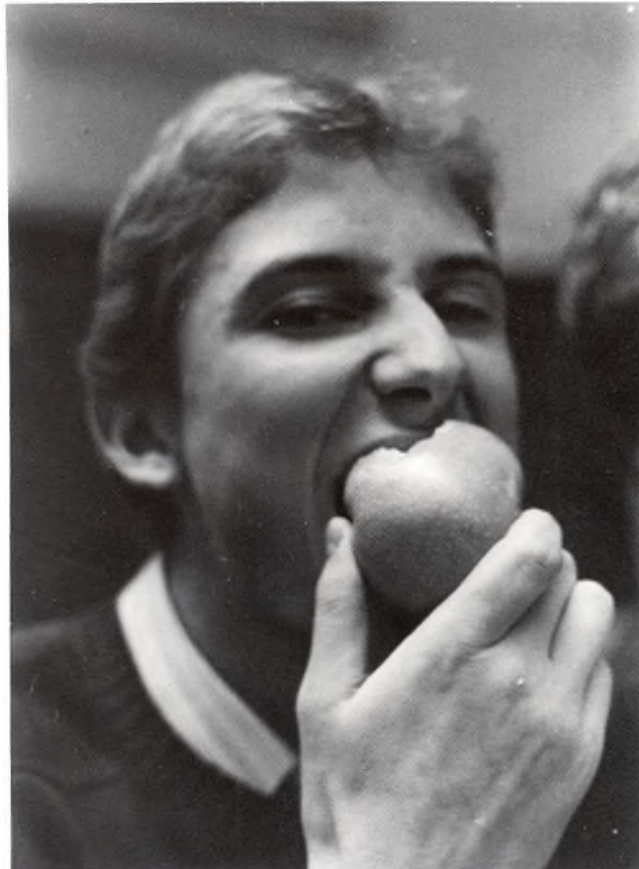

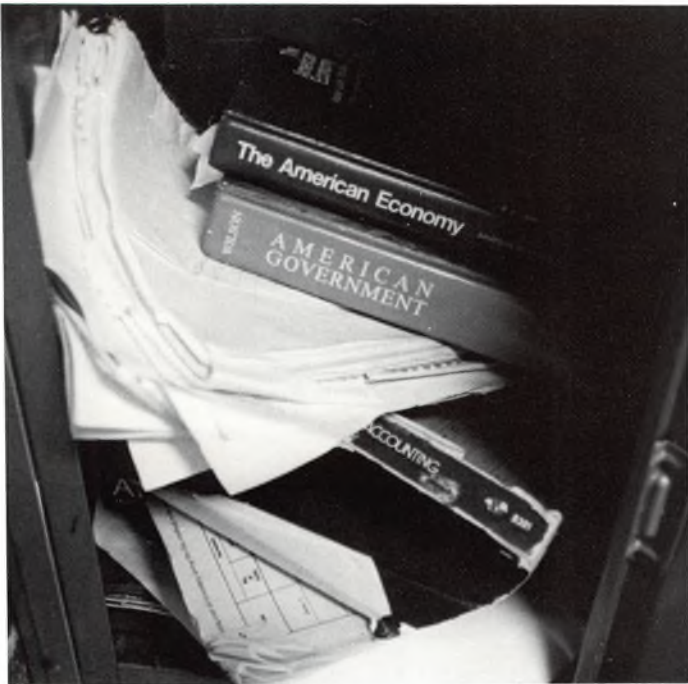

"And what you guys don't realize is that you weren't the first to use certain words; they keep coming back. But, this is the first time I've heard 'wait.' I kinda think there is a reason behind it, you know, because it's like life's moving too fast for everyone now, with all the sudden advances. And when people are saying 'wait,' they don't really mean they want you to stop for them. What it is — is a reaction to the way everything's passing by without time for us to watch what's really going on."

It dawned on me that what Dr. T. had just said was exactly on target.
"Wait" was the moment's word, and the fact that we weren't yet aware of its establishing itself into Timothy talk only meant that it was red hot and rising in use.
I immediately recalled saying it to myself
while trying to rediscover a buried calculator, collect books, run off Senior Study constitution copies, remind a poster committee chairman of procrastination, and make weekend plans in the prior four-minute passing period.

After class, Debi VanPoolen handed me a note that read,
 "If it wasn't for the last minute,
 nothing would get done."
 And because it was Friday,
 we shouted in homeroom
 in remembrance of "Little Bunny Foo-Foo" and summing up the "wait" mentality:
 "Only three more classes!
 School today, weekend tomorrow!"

At the sound of the three-o'clock bell,
I stopped rushing and leaned back on my locker to watch freshmen scurry to the bus and seniors to their own means of transportation.
The building was cleared incredibly in minutes.
Then I noticed my car companion who
was ready to leave.
"Wait," I laughed.

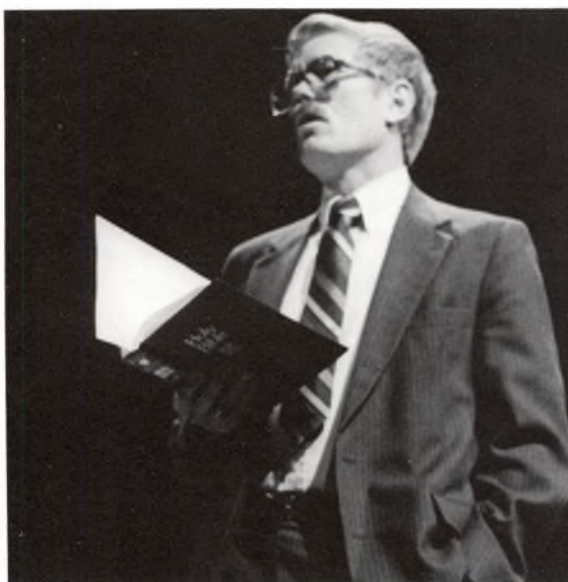

That night,
while waiting for a table at Ed Debevic's,
a fifties-like diner and favorite hangout of my friends,
we toured the busiest McDonald's in the world,
fashioned like a pop-culture museum of yesteryear.
On the drive back to suburbia,
the radio seemed to play only remakes:
from "Teen Angel" to "Stand By Me."
Ooohs and ahs on the Eisenhower were released
as we sped
(Missi Hoogendoorn was behind the wheel) past an antique Mustang.

LEISURE RULES

I ended up the evening
in a fellow James Dean fan's room where we compared memorabilia.
Those few hours were evidence enough that the 1986-1987 school year has been screaming, "WAIT!"
Now that my ear is in tune with the word "wait,"
Dr. T., Ferris Bueller, and I agree wholeheartedly:
"Life moves pretty fast, and if you don't stop and look once in a while,
you may miss it."

Octoberfest

I remember a pink and green monkey tail, psychedelic beetle-bug spectacles,
 senior guys plummeting to the floor
 like fallen trees,
 Mr. Boven's slow and easy cat song,
 Randy the Turtle's pea green face
 squished between two girls' lips, bare chests and grass skirts and teachers beneath it all,
 the licking-up of baby bumblebees,
 Miss Baker's unforgettable smile,
 a seal and a walrus,
 the very likeness of Dina 'n Dave,
 tin foil deely-boppers,
 plastic jugs of cider,
 refill cups held out with a smile,
 captivated kiddie-faces,
 balloons,
 and here I am, a senior.
 "Don't say good-bye. Just say so-long.
 We'll meet again someday and sing another song."

Freshmen Initiation

When I was a freshman,
 they dressed me in a garbage bag,
 a ski mask, and an army hat that sophomores especially pounded on.
 My best friend dressed in scuba gear;
 Jay DeVries wore a tutu; Jory had pigtails; and . . .
 Four years dreaming and scheming goes into this day,
 this crowning jewel of seniorhood.
 My best friend is initiating my brother — today he is eight months pregnant with long brown curls.
 And Momar, my peon, wears a cute red cape, a bright pink parasol,
 pantyhose, and rubber boots.
 Both of them push pennies and ping-pong balls down the hall.
 They all go down the spanking-machine,
 and Momar's my ride to English class.
 "What's that Momar? What's that Dan?"
 "We can't hear you!"
 "Seniors rule."
 "Louder!"
 "SENIORS RULE!!!"
 Really, I do love my brother.
 Today he is merely a squishable, detestable, pestable freshman.
 But, really, I do love my brother.
 Ha, ha! Kiss my feet.

The 1987 Homecoming weekend was a precedent setter. Involved was the new method of putting the court, king and queen selections, completely in the hands of the students. The Homecoming dance was the other new twist in the longstanding tradition. Madonna's "Open Your Heart" provided the theme for the Student Council-sponsored formal (shoeless) dance in the exquisitely decorated gym. As the theme song culminated the evening's activities, Homecoming 1987 became yet another misty memory in everyone's treasure chest of reminiscences.

Chapel

Lord, why did I get myself into this?

Well, yes

I guess 'cause I love You.

I sat in my seat plenty of chapels:

VanProoyen's "pickyunish pedagogue,"

Landman's slides and Medema music,

A "bedtime story" history of the Reformation,

Student tales of a summer mission trip to Kentucky,

Films about a Calvin prof.'s cancer,

missions in Philadelphia,

Singing with choir, the whole student body looking for Wolterstorff's approval, Mr. and Mrs. Wiener's witnessing session. But this one morning was not

"Gee, what'll chapel be this time?" This morning, I prayed "God, make my mouth work right for you.

Help me not to be nervous. Open their hearts, make a difference in just one life. I love You.

Amen."

Spring Play

When we girls burst off the stage from "Braid the Raven Hair", the back hallway was crammed with echoes of howling laughter,
and people literally rolling on the floor.

All it took was the nervousness of opening night,
and enough people swaying off-balance, bumping into each other,
and the audience knew immediately that we were messing up.

But, they didn't scowl or roll their eyes. They giggled with us.

Neither the Dutch blondes died black,
nor a sweeping, scowling Katisha and the thunder of "Onibikurisha!", nor the Dave — Jay — Eric "ah-Mikado" bow, nor the three little maids weeping that "you are to be boo-hoo beheaded!", nor the chinaman make-up,

nor the blackness of eye-liners,
nor the Chris' Ko-ko waddle,

nor Dave's primordial ancestry,
nor the friendships that blossomed in the warmth of our spring play,

leave such lasting laughs as that swaying and bumping,
and bumping and swaying, and dying of laughter backstage.

Sports

Girls' Tennis

The girls' tennis team record was a disappointing 1-7. However, Lisa Hoogendoorn and Sharon Noorlag advanced to the second round in the P.S.L. doubles, and Betsy Huizenga and Betty Williams nearly qualified for state after easily downing Willowbrook 6-0, 6-1 in the regionals. Under the persistently optimistic coaching of Mr. Boven, the girls, none of whom are seniors, are looking beyond this year, marred by problems of discipline, missed practices and unfulfilled potential, to next year. "We're going to go down state!" Betty Williams claims, echoing the sentiment of the coach and the entire team.

Golf

Dig into the brain of any golfer and you'll pull out:

frustration,
disappointment,
satisfaction,
and Mr. Snoeyink.

"Mr. Snoeyink was a really good coach."

"He didn't try to instruct, but he encouraged us."

"He's also balding very quickly."

The thin-haired coach's eyes spark up when he talks about golf.

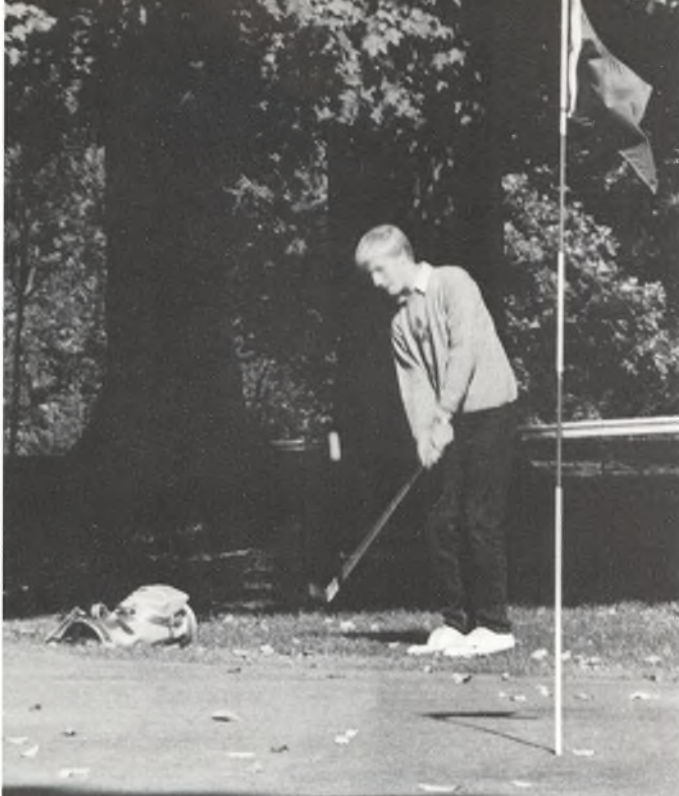

His upbeat attitude reflects the team's sentiments, even as he says, "Our big disappointment was against Providence when we lost by two strokes."

A sheepish grin peels across his face,

"Brian McCarthy kept the team loose, though."

His off-the-road one-hundred-mile-an-hour driving elicits a laugh at every mention.

So do David Brouwer's two broken five-woods.

Girls' and Boys' Cross-country

The boys' cross-country team was hindered by injuries — Al Brouwer's stress fracture, Ken Greenfield's severe pulled ham string, and Bob Iwema's groin injury — and Coach Greenfield was forced to run all freshmen and sophomores on the varsity, forfeiting the frosh-soph league meets. He felt "the team delivered well for their age level." Steve Loerop ran consistently strong. Kevin McNamara won medals in all the major meets and qualified for sectionals. Doug Tincu consistently ran in the top five of the team. The team finished fourth in the PSL and "could be a power in the league and state next year if they work hard over the summer." The girls' cross-country team consisted of two "brave" girls who couldn't compete as a team, but plugged along nevertheless.

Soccer

The soccer team, new to Timothy this year, had a .750 season, winning its first three matches. In the first match against Nazareth, the opponent rarely got the ball past midfield, and Timothy with its "spectacular defense" dominated the whole game and won 5-0. Luther South was faster and had a couple of good shots, but Timothy had better control of the ball, winning 6-0. Zane Miller, coming out of the goal twice in the second match against Nazareth, scored twice and led Timothy to an 8-0 victory. But in the last quarter of the final match with two minutes left, Illiana scored off "a cheap roll" and won 1-0.

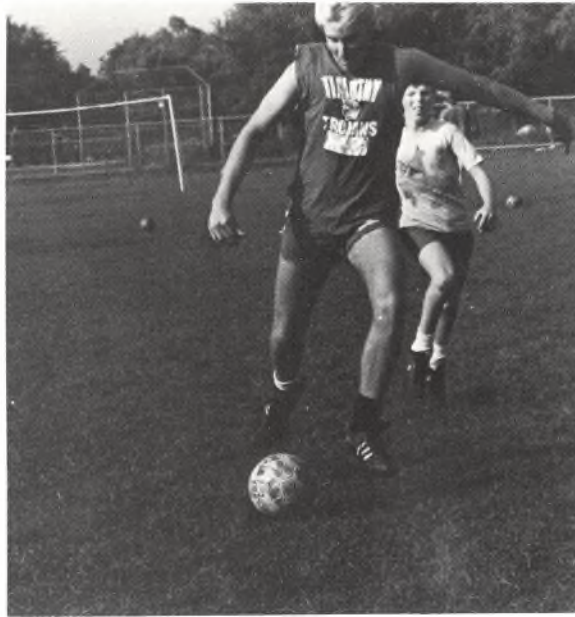

The leading scorers were Patrick Knight, Steve Putt, and Kevin Hammer. The leading defenders were Don Walsh, Rob Schrader, Steve Williams, and Jason Kasallis.

Not only was this the first year Timothy had a soccer team, but it was also Mr. Vanderkamp's first year of coaching soccer. "He was a good coach, but he should watch out for the curbs."

Varsity Volleyball

Coach Schepel felt the team demonstrated potential during the season, but failed to consistently "put it together," achieving a 6-16 record.

The highlights of the season were an exciting three game victory over Illiana, Debi VanPoolen's Honorable Mention and Kristyn Bouma's Special Mention in the All Conference PSL, and Vicky Bulthuis being voted First Team All Tournament at the Huntley Tournament and All Conference PSL.

Next year's team will need major "rebuilding." The team is losing seven seniors, five of whom are starters, but Coach Schepel is optimistic because "hard workers are coming up from J.V."

Girls' Varsity Basketball

The girls' basketball season ended with a Thursday night loss to Immaculate Conception. However, that didn't erase the previous Tuesday night's thriller. After Vicky Bulthuis fouled out, Tracy Hopp's one-handed shot scored the tying points that sent the regional game against Westmont into overtime. The extremely supportive fans then emptied the stands to celebrate the overtime win with the team and Coach Metcalfe.

"They worked harder than any team I ever coached before," she said in retrospect. Mariam Barnes and Sue Tameling were voted on the All-Conference team. Vicky Bulthuis received an Honorable Mention and Shannon Brody a Special Mention.

Varsity Boys' Basketball

The 1986-87 Varsity Basketball team enjoyed one of the best seasons Timothy has seen in a while. With a record of 23-6 overall, they tied with Luther South for the P.S.L. title and came home with the Regional Championship. Incredible fan support followed the team toward many victories; but they were especially strong in the Regional final against Hales Fransican and the first game of sectionals against Providence-St. Mel. In the Hales game, the Trojans were behind by 16 points in the first quarter but managed an unbelievable come back to win it by four points. This game was the highlight of the season for both the team and fans alike. Senior Eric Ratliff and junior Bob Smith were named to the All-Conference team; while senior Chris Chambliss received an honorable mention. Other honors included Bob Smith's election to the fourth All-State team and Eric Ratliff and Chris Chambliss receiving All-State honorable mention.

Cheerleading and Pompons

This year was just as exciting for the cheerleading squad as for the basketball team. The thrill of a winning team psyched the cheerleaders up to root with enthusiasm. The spirit of the squad increased after every game. Eight girls gave it their all to encourage the crowd to get involved with the game and make this season the best it could be.

The pom-pom squad was an added attraction at half-time of the home games. Much hard work was put into the routines. Captain Pam DeVries said, "This year involved a rebuilding of attitudes, but was a lot of fun."

The wrestling team was coached this year by Dietrich Heyer, whom the wrestlers nick-named "Stubby."

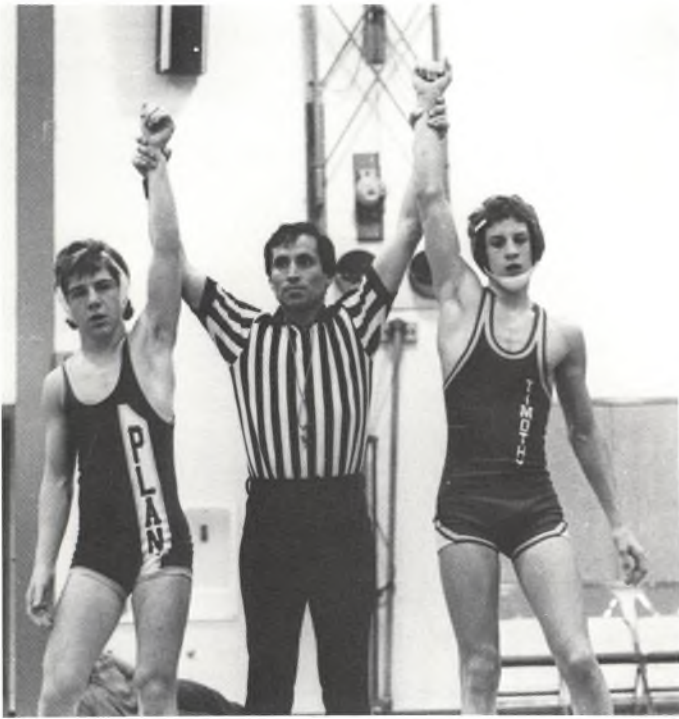

He worked hard at teaching them positive thinking, and emphasized the fact that they were a team and each person had to be respected as a member of that team.

"As the season went on we respected him more and more as a coach. We all had a good time," said Bill Hopp.

"Despite the setbacks, the season was pretty good," state qualifier Eric Jaeger commented.

I'd mention the record, but no one seemed to be able to remember it.

Varsity Softball

We kept a keen eye on the fast balls.
We loved that "crack" of the bat on the ball;
the lightning-speed line drivers,
the slides into base and the umpires cry, "SAFE!"
We struggled through try-outs,
we survived every practice.
We sacrificed our bodies for you, Coach Zylstra!
So where were the roaring crowds and the screaming bleacher fans?
Why was our record only 5-15?

"I don't want to be unkind," he said. "We weren't consistent. Some days we played tremendously; somedays we . . .", he searched for words, "did not . . ."

Varsity Baseball

After an exciting start, the 1987 Varsity Baseball team ended their season in disappointment. Members of the team said that they had great potential, but they were never quite able to pull everything together for a winning season, and they lost many games that the players felt they shouldn't have.

Even with a record of 11-12-1, the team developed a sense of family. Rick Huisman said, "We won as a team, and we lost as a team. No one really stood out. We just hung together."

The final defeat came in the second game of the regionals. The score was 0-0. A player on the opposing team stole and was called safe; but, our players knew he was out. The end of the season is blamed on this bad call, and the disappointment imprinted itself in Senior Night smiles that evening.

Girls' Track

This year's girls' track team was made up of underclassmen led by two seniors, Mariam Barnes and Michelle Hoekstra. Coach Bob Senti described the year as a "productive" one. Many personal records were set. One highlight of the season was the Calvin trip. The team was at a disadvantage though; the competition was so great and the team was so inexperienced. Coach Senti is looking forward to next year for the "use of experienced underclassmen."

Boys' Track

"It has been ten years since track has been at this level at Timothy," says Coach Greenfield about the 1987 boys' track team. With coaching from Mr. Greenfield and also Mr. VanderKamp this year, the team worked competitively to place fourth in the PSL tournament. Notable was a third placing at the Calvin Invitational and a first place out of twenty-five schools at the Oregon Invitational. Some players who helped score the most points were Kevin McNamara, Lorne Iverson, and Bryant Walker. The most important players this year were Ken Greenfield and Chris Chambliss. Ken, through the season, placed first in the one and two mile runs. He qualified to run down state, but sat out this year on account of being burned out. Chris placed well in the 100-meter hurdles, 300-meter hurdles, the long jump, and the triple jump. He qualified for state in the low hurdles, high hurdles, and the triple jump, placing seventh in the triple jump down state.

Although the team is losing Chris and Bryant, the future is continuing to look bright. Coach Greenfield shows his optimism towards the three-fourths of the returning team and the new freshmen when he says, "There's a really good future for Timothy Christian in track and field."

Boys' Tennis

Coach Roelofs characterized his team of four sophomores and three seniors as "a young team with lots of experience that performed far beyond expectations." Even in the face of many injuries, including one that occurred when Steve VanPoolen fell flat on his face in practice, the team racked up an impressive record of 11-1. At the end of the regular season, the team was tied for first place in the PSL and took second in the PSL tournament. Steve VanPoolen recovered to take first place in the Ridgewood Invitational while the team took second overall there as well.

The sweetest triumph, however, came when Timothy broke a fifteen match winning streak by beating Wheaton Christian in the regular season in a shocking upset. Moments like this gave the team an upbeat attitude and made for a close-knit group and a memorable year.

Mock Trial

For eight seniors in A.P. Government, the hard work and resulting satisfaction of Mr. Roelof's class may not be best remembered when A.P. exam grades are received or when term papers are reread, but possibly years from now when watching L.A. Law, thoughts of previous participation in the state and local mock trial competitions will bring nostalgic memories of senior year. For Dina Doig, Chris Fox, Joe Geeting, Missi Hoogendoorn, Kevin Loechl, Sheila Mullen, Debi VanPoolen, and Dave Zeilstra, the mock trial experience was marked by gasp — worthy surprises:

first, Timothy was chosen one of eight finalists out of over thirty schools, next, Timothy won as plaintiff — the decidedly disadvantaged side — in the finals, then, Timothy's presence was requested at the district competition where Hinsdale Central (second place in state) was conquered, finally, Timothy, having the highest preliminary score, was chosen to battle Glenbard South in a final trial at Wheaton Court House.

Timothy's many victories in mock trials should be remembered and used to build our confidence in the capabilities of a small, Christian institution such as ours.

Transportation

Riding the bus is:
Early morning "Days Of Our Lives" updates,
Looking for deer in dewy forest preserves,

Three substitute bus drivers not-so-accidentally lost in winding Timber Trails, Skinny Dippers, Fruit Wrinkles, raisin and spit-ball wars with junior high kids.

Doing the Wave,
Harmonizing "The Brady Bunch,"
And conversations with the bus driver:

"Sit down, Smartie!"

"But he pushed me on the floor!"

"Sit down! What are you, animals?"

You act like first-graders!"

"SORRY" in perfect Pee Wee Herman voices. And somehow, even though we act like "5-year-olds," our bus driver,

"Smartie," always tells us to have a nice day and be careful. And somehow the bus is no longer the prison we complain about.

And for some reason the friendships I have on that bus are the most "special," something I wouldn't give up for a car.

Fashions and Trends

Guess? Generra. Esprit. Swatch. Levi's. Forenza.

These words along with accompanying logos were flaunted by students during the 86-87 school year. Ripped denim and leather jackets, the James Dean look, were in for both guys and girls. Girls bared their sexy, nobby knees in skirts reminiscent of the 60's. In their perky plastered hair hung flawless geometrically shaped bows and long ornate barrettes that fanned out their tresses. For the young man, hair was carelessly shaven or left to dramatically curtain the eyes. If one's hair wasn't long enough to hide oneself behind, then mirrored aviator glasses became a form of shelter. Delicately perfumed waterproof watches bound wrists of the active who still had to look on a clock for the actual time. On the opposite wrist hung any form of faded braided string which locked in memories of summers past. Untied high tops, Reeboks, sleek snake-skin flats, and the perennial penny loafer donned the feet of the fashionable.

A few words to sum up this year's fashions, excluding the faux-pas — jus' gore, hot, and absolutely to die for!

Music

Open your heart, take on me. I go crazy when I'm without you. I've never seen you looking so lovely as you did tonight.

I just died in your arms tonight. Stand by me, at this moment, 'cause I'm mad about you — the girl with the diamonds on the soles of her shoes. The way my soul gets lost in you, I'd never ask for more than your love. I come back to the place you are and all my instincts, they return, and the grand facade so soon will burn, without a noise, without my pride, I reach out from the inside. In your eyes, oh, I want to be that complete.

I want surprises.

Boom, boom, boom.

You just keep me hangin' on!

Shot through the heart, and you're to blame, you give love a bad name. How can we still be friends when seeing you only breaks my heart again?

Hey you with the sad eyes, I'm so sorry.

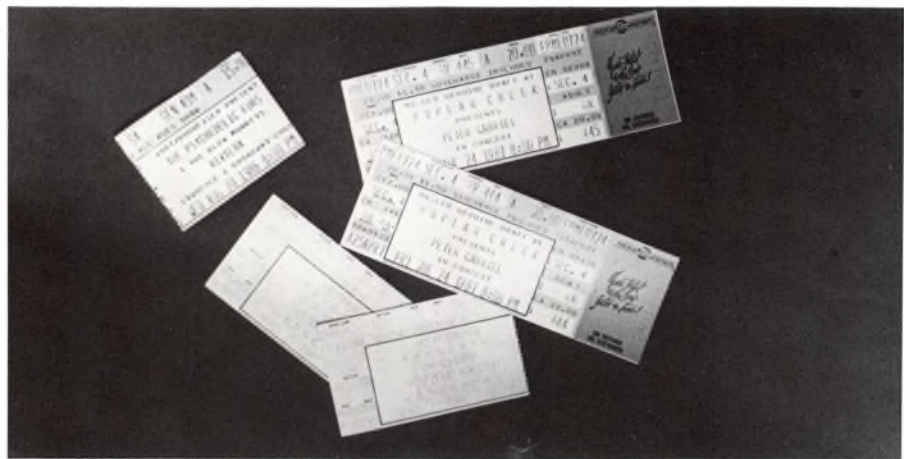

Apology not accepted, add me to the broken hearts you've collected.

I'd fall down on my knees, kiss the ground that you walk on, if I only could hold you again.

That's just the way it is, some things will never change, with or without you.

Next time I fall, it will be with you!

Hangouts

"Where should we go?"

"I sure don't know!"

"Well, I'm apathetic."

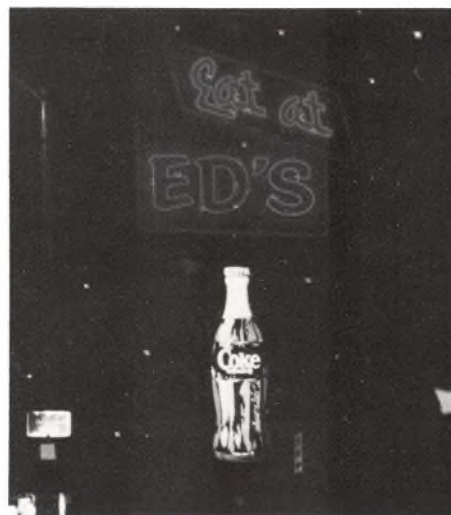

"I'm indifferent."

"We're so indecisive."

"YOU DECIDE!" (simultaneously)

"Should we go somewhere new?"

"No, let's go somewhere tried and true."

Buddies and Personalities

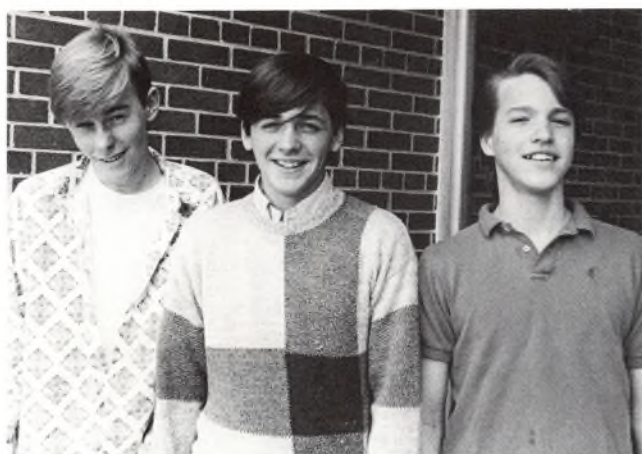

The impact you've had on me has been unfathomable, my friend — no hyperbole here!

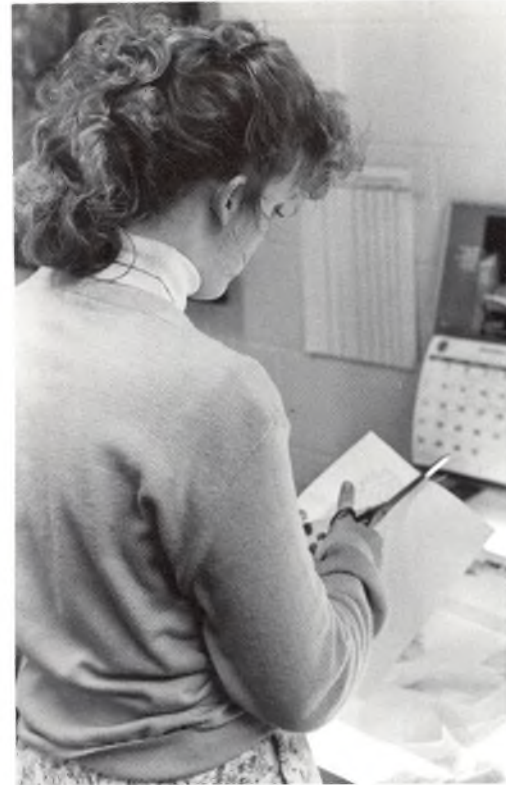

We've had more memories than the number of molecules in a mole — tell that to Dr. T.

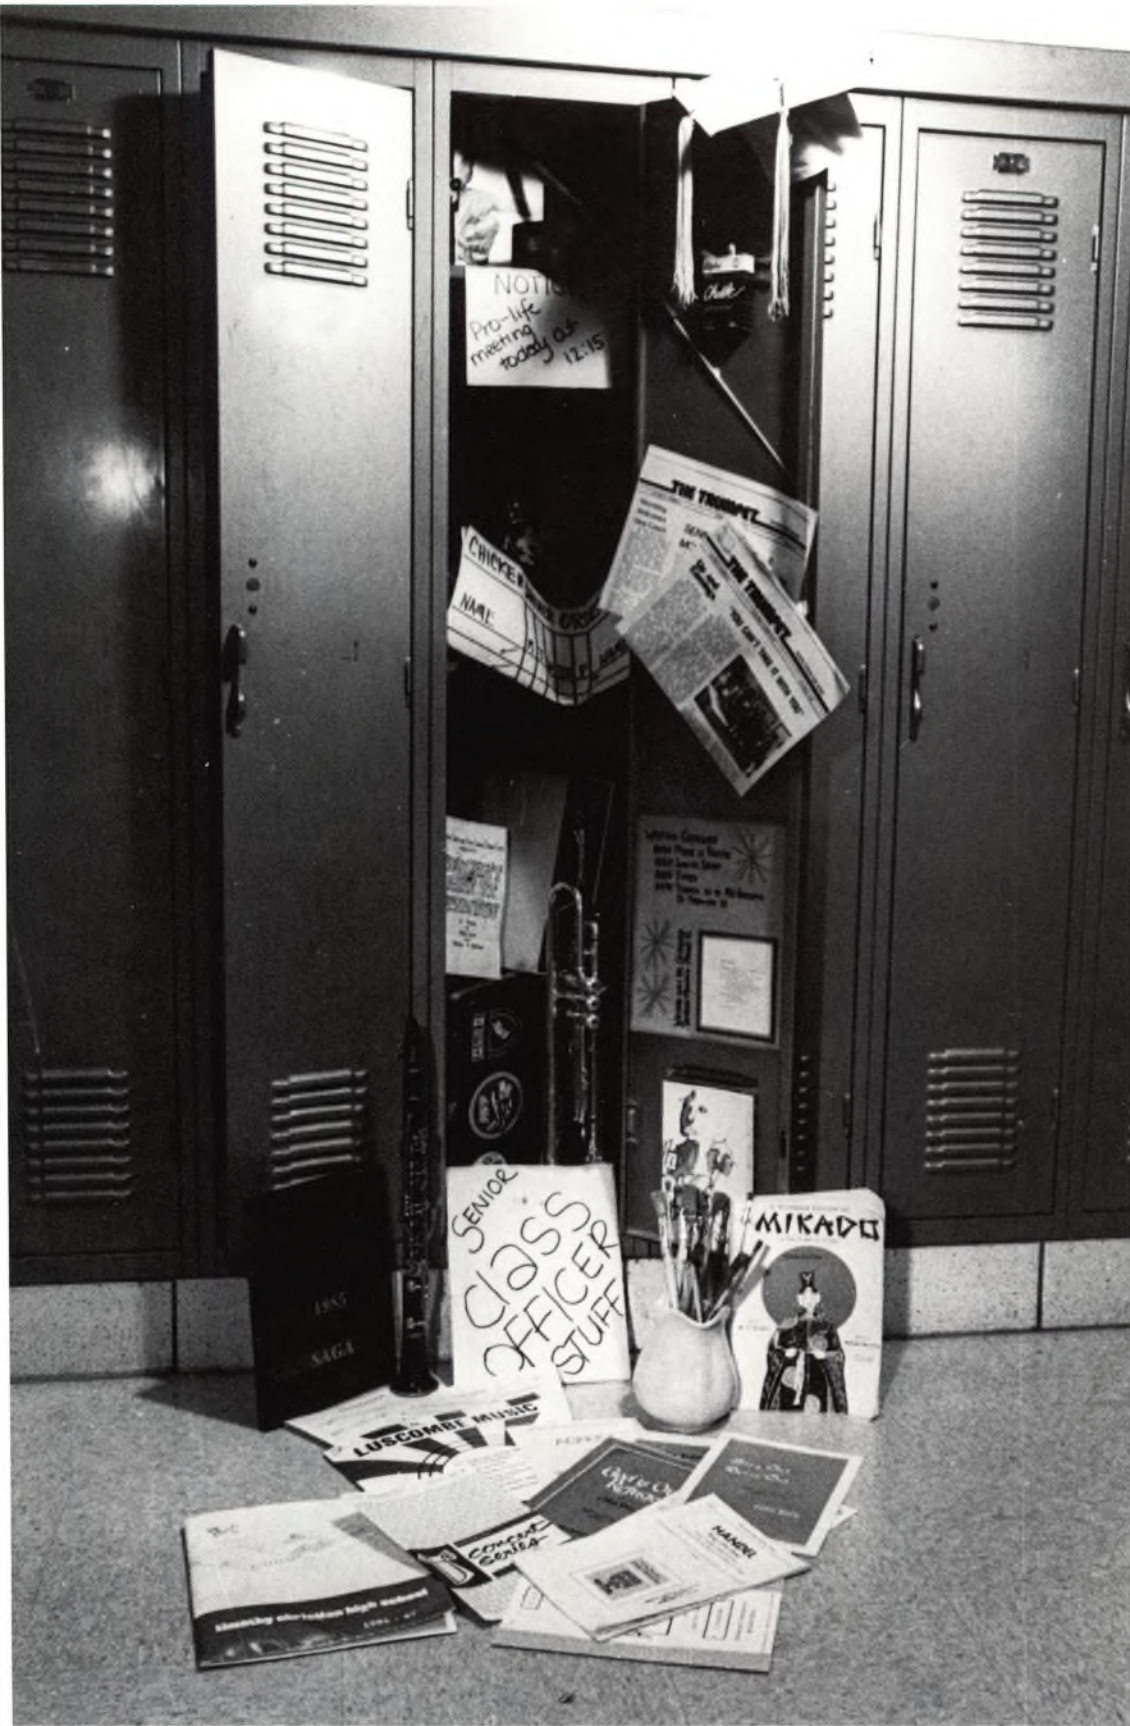

Truly, truly, I say unto you, these days in Timothy Christian High School are among the best. We lead such happy, sheltered lives and this is good because the real world isn't quite so friendly. So, put your hand in mine, and let's cherish this time because, hey, this is what memories are made out of. I love you my friend, but you already know that, so let's get on with this year of ours which is slipping by faster than we know it. Sometimes it does seem incredibly slow, but that's O.K. because you'll always be my buddy . . .

Pro-life

The 1986-87 Pro-life Club accomplished much this year. The purpose of the Pro-life Club is to educate others on Pro-life issues. Once again they sponsored the game room at the annual bazaar. The Pro-life Club also did a chapel at Wheaton Christian to help their efforts in beginning their own club. The club wants to emphasize life and to cherish every life God has given.

Student Council

To the 1987-88 Student Council:

A few helpful hints for next year —

1. If it rains again at the all-school party, don't let Mr. Greenfield complain about his beautiful new gym floor — it was broken in enough at last year's party.
2. Don't be too surprised if the juniors beat the seniors in the football game.
3. Make sure you always smile at Mr. VanProoyen and don't play practical jokes.
4. For the entertainment at the Awards Banquet, since 50's songs go over well, try to use "Earth Angel" next year.
5. For Mr. Roelofs' sanity, try to keep Chad and Lisa from goofing off too much at the meetings.

Sure there were people who passed out tickets, and printed up posters and programs, and painted up faces like made in Japan, and costumed the strange "Can't Take It With You" clan, but we on the set crew had quite an exceptional year.

First it was building an all-new set.

We cut wood and hammered and built.

We rolled and measured and cut new canvas.

We stapled, and glued, and pressed, and glued again.

We painted the sets and our smocks,

and I still have blue paint on my shoes.

Mr. Goebel bought us donuts on Saturday mornings, and when the whole set stood together, we felt like saying "and it was good."

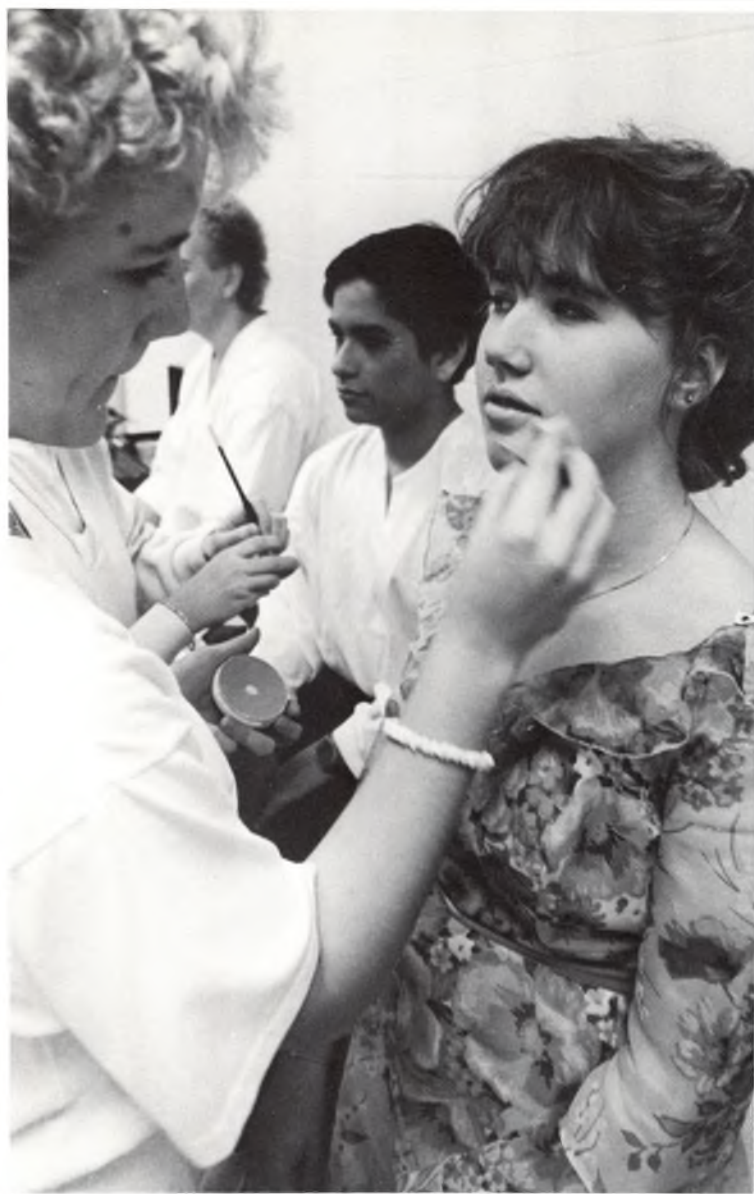

Then in the spring, it was banners of felt.

Roll, roll, rolling the bolt of felt and cutting it just so, tracing circles of black, red, and white, and gluing them on banners, then stapling the banners to sticks so they'd hang straight.

At last they hung like clouds in a Japanese heaven, and it really was good to be on the set crew this year.

Children's Theatre

Some Tuesday after school, I heard some voices coming from the auditorium. Peering through the back-stage door I saw some people. Is that really Mr. Wolterstorff or just some person going "ooo aaaa eeee ahhhhh" with 14 people chanting after him sounding like Celtic monks. Whoa! Is Kevin Loechl actually shuffling his feet and shouting "choo! choo!" across the stage?! Why are they all going "one, two, three! Wheeeeeee!", thrusting their bodies and leaping in the air landing with a thud? What is this group of formerly respected people? Isn't there supposed to be something called Childrens' Threatre? No wonder they didn't do anything in public.

Art Club

Art club was offered by the Art Department for the second year in a row. It was started last year by Mrs. Tiesenga who fondly remembers how she got interested in painting because of the art club she attended while in high school.

Several eager students came to the art room on Tuesdays after school to be treated to Mrs. Tiesenga's baked goods, fresh fruit, and encouraging attitude. In this relaxed environment, students learned the techniques of oil painting as applied to the subjects they had chosen to paint. A few students became so involved in their work that they showed up in the art room between art club meetings to work.

Fishing boats, ballet slippers, and birds in flight were among the things that evolved on the white canvas boards.

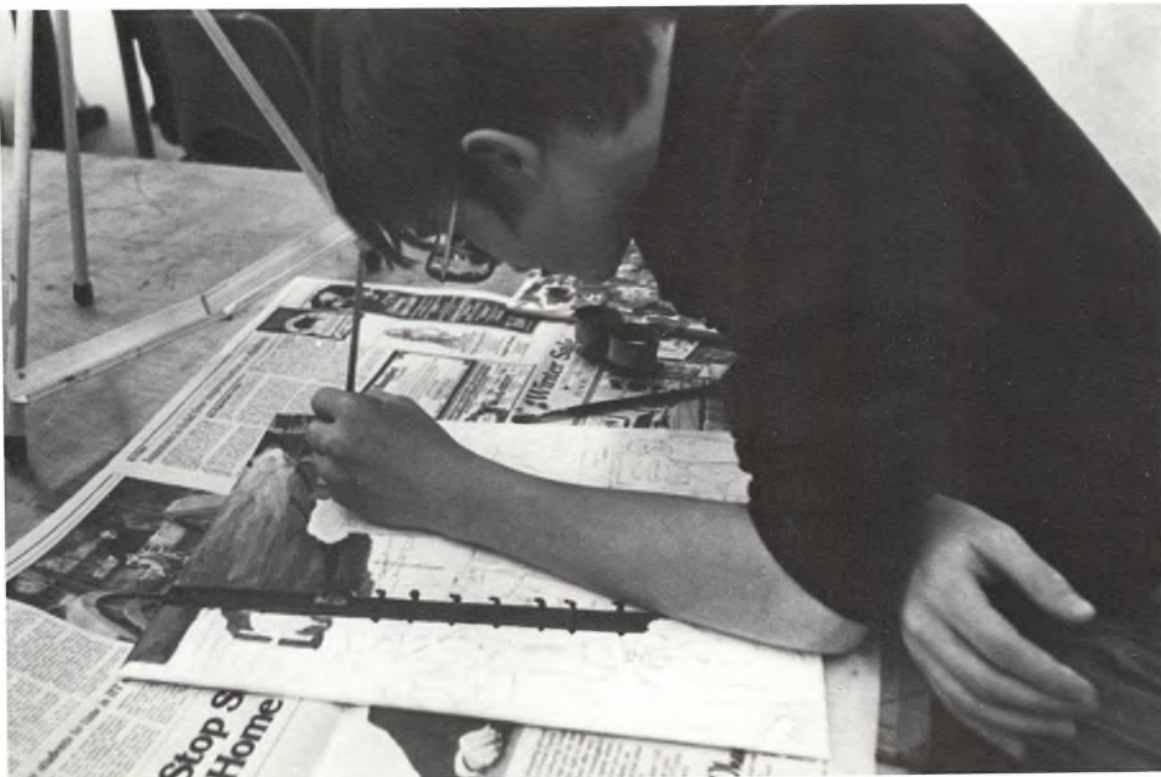

When asked to comment, Mr. Hartgerink said he hoped students would continue to take advantage of this unique opportunity for learning.

Memories

Beating free food out of the candy machines.
 Wing, Wang, Wong.
 Diane's "Mary Tyler Moore" wig for the "Mikado".
 The band and choir trips (St. Louis, Iowa).
 Debi shaking while making the announcement before chapel.
 Mrs. Bouma's fifth hour English class making pyramids out of their desks.
 Taking turns shooting rubberbands at Rev.'s open mouth after his New Testament exam.
 Mr. Schepel spiking the volleyball down and hitting Linda right in the chest.
 Oh duocon! Iconoclasts at T.C.H.S. live!
 Grace unable to comprehend what frogs were doing in the chemistry film.
 Jim Nelson locking Rebecca, Sheila, Kevin and Debi in the boys's bathroom and turning off the lights.
 Dina singing and dancing to "Let's Go Surfing Now" during break.
 Miss Metcalfe bursting out in song ("How Great Thou Art") in senior study.
 Choir girls unable to keep their poise during "Braid the Raven".
 Bill and Chris throwing rocks at a moving boat during the retreat.
 Mark dropping a dumbbell on his face.
 Rev. asking some senior citizens during chapel how it felt to be "so near death".
 Matt, Cal and Jory's Christian West. Civ. project video.
 Mrs. Bouma's English Lit. exam first semester.
 Mariam and Dina almost getting mugged in the parking lot of Ed Debevic's.
 Chuck squirting Bob with a fire extinguisher.
 Rebecca and Pam being held hostage in a van by a german shepherd.
 The three Rodneys.
 Dave and Jory going through a window.
 The "Gumby" track team.
 Diane and Kristyn — the menu borrowers??!!
 Angel Gabriel (enough said).
 Dina stealing Mr. Wolterstorff's underwear on the choir trip.
 Opening doors in Debi's basement.
 Julia and Dave's balloon lips.
 Missi's friends let her almost get mugged downtown on the beach.

Capsule — The Year In Review

Timothy's A.P. courses blossom. History isn't the only one. Calculus, Government and Latin are the others.

Holy Wars — "Gospelgate" — The Jim and Tammy story.

Murphy, the wonder gym dog — he likes to catch frisbees and help field ground balls in softball games.

Voyager circles the earth in a 9 day marathon during December of 1986.

Cliff and his notes — of course not in Bouma's class!

The Iran Scandal.

The great mole caper — Dr. T's beloved Marvin the Mole is molenapped and a ransom is set for his safe return.

The USS Stark gets bombed.

International Timothy — thanks to French Emmanuelle and Columbian Adrianna.

The Leaning Tower of Oak Brook and other urban myths.

"Okey-dokey!"

AIDS is called "The Black Plague" with 12,195 new cases reported in 1986. Pianist Liberace dies of it.

"Got to be happy about that!"

"Platoon."

Francis Schaeffer — your movies are neat, we fall asleep on our soft chapel seats. We really love your beard and knickers, but Francis baby, can't you hear the snickers?

"Lethal Weapon."

Timothy's first Homecoming dance.

Ivan Boesky and Wall Street Scandal.

Prince Charles graces the Oak Brook Polo Club with his royal presence.

All hail the return of the red M&M's.

Quest comes to Timothy and the hot lunch program is off.

"Stars and Stripes" brings home the America's Cup.

Timothy vs. Happy Hales and Sad St. Mel.

Giants win the Superbowl XXI.

The Mets win the world series.

No Junior/Senior Banquet, the first time in a long time.

Humpback whale gets trapped in the San Francisco Bay.

Chicago celebrates its 150th!

Taiwan Flue sweeps through TCHS keeping students away from school — bummer!

Vanna White becomes America's sweetheart!

The threat of uniforms at Timothy.

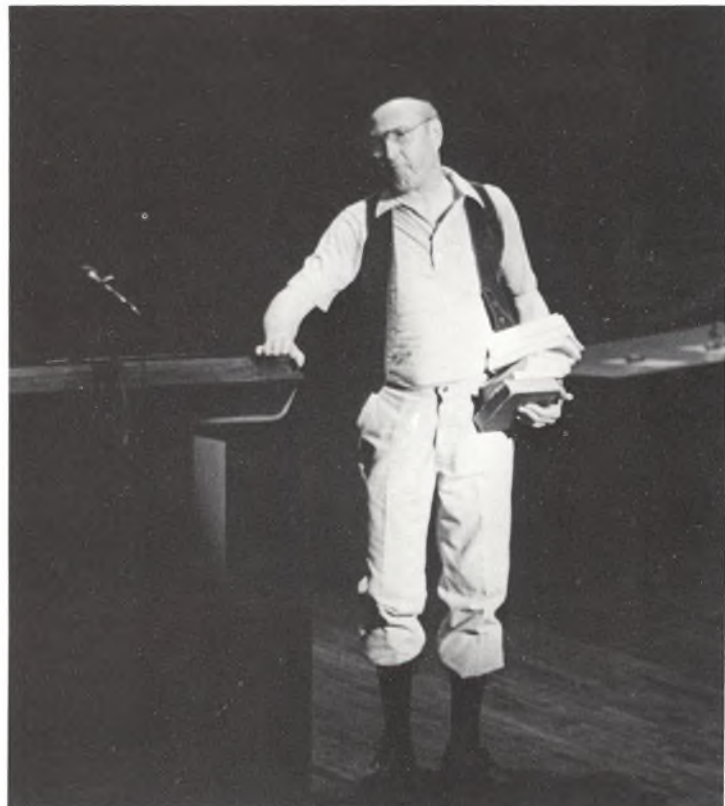

Gary Hart's moral mistakes with Donna Rice lead him to withdraw from the '88 presidential election.

Mayor Washington and Governor Thompson are re-elected.

Mr. Landman and Miss Metcalffe bid us adieu.

Teachers and seniors both agree that the Class of '87 is the best senior class to come along in many years!

Kevin and Mary — SAGA apologizes for devouring your scrumptious smoked almonds. SORRY!!

Figuratively Speaking:

Population of the World	4,942,000,000
Population of the United States	241,545,805
Population of Illinois	11,426,518
Population of Elmhurst	44,521
Population of Timothy (student body)	370
Postage stamp	22¢
Gallon of Gas	86¢
Gallon of milk	$2.03
Movie	$5.00
Compact Discs (avg. cost)	$13.00

You can tell they are FRESHMEN because they:

- pretend to have a social life.
- run down the hall minutes before the tardy bell rings.
- go to their first hour class as soon as they get to school.
- try studying for tests while walking down the hall.
- carry extra pens and pencils to class.
- have a hard time fitting their Trapper Keepers in their lockers.
- bump into people and say “Oh, I’m sorry” like they really mean it.
- study during their breaks.
- the first week of school, they carry the TCHS folder with the maps on the back (and use them).

You can tell they are SOPHOMORES because they:

- pick on freshmen and act as if their freshmen year was ages ago.

- try to be like upper classmen, but don’t quite get it.
- think they were more mature as freshmen than the freshmen class.
- start getting their permits and licenses.
- give all their energy in gym.
- idolize upper classmen.
- have a curfew of 11 on the weekends.
- start studying for exams at least one week before.
- still use buses as the main mode of transportation.
- are too cool to be different.

You can tell they are JUNIORS because they:

- are finally upper classmen and act like it.
- try to sneak in senior study unnoticed.
- are tortured with the thought of choosing colleges.
- brag about their weekend activities.
- stay in and get a good night’s sleep before college boards.
- deny caring about grades, but study for at least an hour per class.
- dream of being seniors.

You can tell they are SENIORS because they:

- call their teachers by their first names.
- come into class late, pleading the five tardy limit.
- spend the majority of their classes in the guidance room when college representatives come to Timothy.
- have access to blue slips.
- consider 8th hours and getting sent to Mr. Greenfield a joke.
- refuse to wear the polyester gym clothes, so they compromise with jams and get away with it.
- always seem to be wandering the halls during class.
- “forget” to register their cars.
- spend most of their weekends downtown discovering new places.
- know how to get the teacher off the subject for an entire period.
- come down with a heavy case of “senioritis” and it shows in their homework and number of absences.
- have an “inherent coolness” about them.

We love you and are very proud of you!
Congratulations, Pam! Mom and Dad

Grace and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus Christ our Lord.

A & A DISPOSAL

In time of silver rain
The butterflies lift silken wings
To catch a rainbow cry,
And trees put forth
New leaves to sing
In joy beneath the sky
As down the roadway passing boys
And girls go singing, too,
In time of silver rain
When Spring
And life are new.

Dear Brian,
As you leave Timothy, remember that the lessons learned here will serve you well and that you do not leave alone — God goes with you. Put God in the center of your life and you will always find the support and guidance you need. Keep your standards high, both personally and professionally. The world needs people who will not compromise their principles. Try always to accept your share of responsibility with grace. We are proud to have you as our son. We wish you top flight success in the coming college years.

LISTEN TO WHAT OUR GRADUATES SAY.

"Because of RBC, I was better prepared for life's adjustments here. At RBC I learned that we love people even when we encounter people that seem undeserving of love. God came to us and showed us love while we were yet sinners. RBC people taught me to love others as fellow image bearers of God."

Graduation

Saga

On Thursday, June 25, SAGA received its final touches before it was packed away in Mo's briefcase. At that date, the headaches — waiting for copy and scores, slaving over layouts and typewriters, losing hours of tanning when the tanning index according to Barsky was 9.0 — all fade into insignificance in the sheer delight of completion. SAGA now becomes a means of recapturing unforgettable memories of friends and teachers.

For you freshmen, the memories have just begun, and to you seniors, we'd like to dedicate this book.

Many people richly deserve thanks for all their efforts and hard work including our layout and business staffs, writers, and photographers. We'd also like to thank Mr. Hartgerink, who put up with us.

But we'd especially like to thank you. You made the memories possible.

“They who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength;

they shall mount up with wings
like eagles;

they shall run, and not be weary;

they shall walk, and not faint.”

Isaiah 40:31
