WAHEED "ALI" BROWN '98

Waheed made a generous donation to Albert College to establish the Waheed Brown '98 Scholarship for Charitable Bermudians. This fund will provide more scholarship opportunities for future Bermudian students to attend Albert College as he did thanks to support from the Frederick Sydney Smith '31 Scholarship.

Waheed "Ali" Brown began his studies at Albert College in September 1993, and he graduated in June 1998. For Waheed, Albert was his first scholastic experience with true camaraderie and empathy. Both Canada's culture of acceptance and Albert's attitude about service to others deeply shaped Waheed's life choices. Specific events like the annual Terry Fox run, Big Brothers and formal dinners were what exemplified these qualities.

Albert College also prepared Waheed academically, as he graduated as an Ontario Scholar and attended McMaster University's Faculty of Engineering. After graduating from McMaster with a Bachelor of Engineering in Software Engineering, he worked for several big tech companies. Monster.com and Concur (acquired by SAP) were two notable steps in Waheed's career. While working in Europe, Waheed received a Master of Science in Economics and Finance from Charles University in Prague. Currently, he works as a Cloud Engineer for Google in San Francisco.

Beyond Waheed's career, Albert College was directly responsible for his contributions to society at large. What Waheed is most proud of is donating to support scholarship programs like the one that funded his education. The Frederick Sydney Smith '31 scholarship made it possible for Waheed and other Bermudian students to attend Albert.

In October 2020, Waheed made a generous donation to Albert College and established the Waheed Brown '98 Scholarship for Charitable Bermudians. This fund will help provide more scholarship opportunities for future Bermudian students to attend Albert College.

Waheed strongly encourages other alumni to donate to Albert's various scholarship and bursary programs. Such generosity helps to perpetuate the education of outstanding world citizens and the self-sustaining nature of independent schools in Canada.
