

Jay Wardeska

Outstanding Service to the School and Community

Jay Wardeska is a 1986 graduate of Warren High School where he participated in band, A Capella choir, National Honor Society, and peer support. Jay attended the University of Mount Union where he received a BA in Music Education. While at Mount Union, he participated in numerous activities that included marching band. In 2000, Jay completed his Master's Degree from Kent State University.

Jay currently lives in Medina, Ohio, with his wife, Amy, who is a fellow educator and works with the color guard in the marching band.

Jay:

- Is employed by Brunswick City Schools where he is the director of bands and chairs the music department.
- Is very active in his community
- Taught for 7 years as an adjunct professor at Baldwin Wallace University
- Is the director of an award winning band
- Was named National Band Director of the year, 2013, by the National Association of Music Education and the US Army.

