

Cal Q. Leight

The coach went to Italy on his vacation to meet his grandfather whom he had never seen. Gramps opened a new barrel of wine, poured two glasses, lifted his and said "Salute, meaning "good health."

The coach said, "Per cente anni," meaning "a hundred years." With that grandpa smacked him in the face. "What did you do that for?" the coach asked. "I just wished you a hundred years of good health," Grandpa said. "That's fine, but I'm 99."

I'm 60, per cent that is, 63 right, 28 wrong (14-7 last week). This set will put me in a higher bracket.
