

Identifying Students Without Stable Housing: A Critical First Step

This tip sheet:

- outlines California Department of Education (CDE) and local educational agency (LEA) responsibilities under federal and state law related to identifying children and youth experiencing homelessness,
- recommends implementation strategies to ensure an effective approach to identification, and
- shares resources for more information relating to identification.

Context

The experience of homelessness brings with it many challenges and stressors, including unmet basic needs, mobility and instability, uncertainty, and anxiety. This stress accompanies children and youth throughout their daily lives, including as they go to school. As a result, students experiencing homelessness are more likely to be chronically absent from school, get lower grades, have special education needs, score poorly on assessment tests, and drop out of school. Identifying students experiencing homelessness is a critical first step to ensuring they receive the educational supports and services they are guaranteed under federal and state law and have the best opportunity to make a sustainable exit from homelessness in their future.

Defining Homelessness

The McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act, as amended by the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, establishes the definition of homelessness used by U.S. public schools as follows:

The term "homeless children and youths" means individuals who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence, and includes

- children and youths who are sharing the housing of other persons due to loss of housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason; are living in motels, hotels, trailer parks, or camping grounds due to the lack of alternative adequate accommodations; are living in emergency or transitional shelters; or are abandoned in hospitals;
- children and youths who have a primary nighttime residence that is a public or private place not designed for or ordinarily used as a regular sleeping accommodation for human beings;
- children and youths who are living in cars, parks, public spaces, abandoned buildings, substandard housing, bus or train stations, or similar settings; and
- migratory children who qualify as homeless because they are living in circumstances described in clauses (i) through (iii) [42 U.S.C. §11434a(2)].

Unaccompanied youth, defined as “a homeless child or youth not in the physical custody of a parent or guardian,” also qualify for McKinney-Vento rights and services [42 U.S.C. §11434a(6)].

Identification under the McKinney-Vento Act and California's Assembly Bill 27

Given its importance, the requirement of identification is woven throughout the federal McKinney-Vento Act.

- Identifying children and youth experiencing homelessness is a responsibility of both the state education department and individual local educational agencies (LEAs) [42 U.S.C. §11431(2); 42 U.S.C. §11432(d)(2); 42 U.S.C. §11432(g)(1)(B); 42 U.S.C. §11432(g)(7)].
- Identification is a required duty of the LEA local homeless education liaison (hereafter local liaison).
- State education departments must collect data on the number of children and youth experiencing homelessness identified each school year, and post this number publicly on the department's website, updating it annually [42 U.S.C. §11432(f)(1)(A)]. While statute assigns the responsibility for data collection to state education departments, this responsibility is fulfilled in partnership with LEAs and schools as they collect and report data on students experiencing homelessness.
- Professional development provided to local liaisons and other LEA personnel must include a focus on improving student identification [42 U.S.C. §11432(d)(5)(A)].
- LEAs are required to coordinate with community partners – including housing and other service providers – to ensure the prompt identification of children and youth experiencing homelessness [42 U.S.C. §11432(g)(5)(C)(i)].
- Identification is a key focus of LEA McKinney-Vento subgrant awards (i.e., Education for Homeless Children and Youth [EH CY] grants) [42 U.S.C. §11433(a)(1)].

To ensure effective identification, the McKinney-Vento Act includes a related emphasis on outreach.

- Local liaisons must ensure that children and youth experiencing homelessness are identified by school personnel through outreach and coordination activities with other entities and agencies [42 U.S.C. § 11432(g)(6)(A)(i)].
- Local liaisons must ensure that the rights of students experiencing homelessness are posted in an understandable manner in locations in schools and throughout the community frequented by parents, guardians, and unaccompanied youth [42 U.S.C. § 11432(g)(6)(A)(vi)].

Mirroring federal statute, California Education Code requires LEAs to ensure the identification of children and youth – including unaccompanied youth – experiencing homelessness (Ca. Educ. Code § 48851.5).

- LEAs and county offices of education (COEs) must include the contact information for the local liaison and information about the educational rights and resources available to students experiencing homelessness on their websites. Likewise, schools that have websites must include the contact information for the LEA's local liaison and any school employees or contractors who assist the local liaison (Ca. Educ. Code § 48852.6).
- LEAs receiving American Rescue Plan-Homeless Children and Youth \(ARP-HCY\) funds must administer a housing questionnaire to all students annually. This questionnaire must include an explanation of the rights of students experiencing homelessness [Ca. Educ. Code § 48851(b)].

Identification Strategies

LEAs can help ensure an effective approach to identifying children and youth experiencing homelessness by implementing, at a minimum, three key strategies:

- using a housing questionnaire,
- training LEA and school staff, and
- posting information publicly.

Using a Housing Questionnaire

Including a housing questionnaire as part of the LEA’s enrollment process helps screen for McKinney-Vento eligibility among enrolling students and ensures compliance with California Education Code for LEAs receiving ARP-HCY funds. While the questionnaire must be administered at least annually, LEAs may want to administer the questionnaire at other times throughout the school year – such as sending the questionnaire home with report cards or after winter break – in case a student’s housing has changed. CDE provides a model housing questionnaire that LEAs can use as is or customize to meet local needs. CDE also provides additional guidance on using the questionnaire.

Training LEA and School Staff

Training LEA and school staff – including leadership, registrars, attendance officers, principals, classroom teachers, school counselors, and school social workers – helps “extend the eyes and ears” of the local liaison to ensure that students experiencing homelessness are identified and connected to needed supports. Topics to cover in training include understanding the homeless definition, recognizing signs of homelessness among students, key rights and services for McKinney-Vento students, and referring students to the local liaison for assistance. Live and recorded trainings are available from the California Homeless Education Technical Assistance Center \(HETAC\), CDE, and the National Center for Homeless Education.

Posting Information

Posting homeless education information on LEA and school websites, in public areas in schools, and in locations throughout the community provides another way for students and families to access information. It also helps “extend the reach” of the local liaison by engaging community partners in identifying youth and families experiencing homelessness and referring them to school-based assistance. Information can be shared via posters, brochures, flyers, and social media and should be shared in a manner and form understandable to youth and families [42 U.S.C. §11432(g)(6)(A)(vi)]; this may include sharing information in English and other common languages. Resources should include updated local liaison contact information.
