Hawks Nest Grand Opening!

Hawk's Nest is run by the Principles of Business class and BPA under the guidance of Mrs. King, and is part of the curriculum of the class. The funds raised go directly to defray the costs of BPA conferences mostly at the state and national level. If we didn't have these funds available, most students would not be able to participate. In fact, we do other fundraisers as well. You can find the doors open at the beginning of school, Hawk Huddle, and the last 15 minutes of every class.

TRADE CREATES WEALTH

Mrs. Slusser's Economics students played the "Bag Game."

They were surprised with snacks that they could trade around the room under certain parameters to illustrate that their marginal utility increased with trade even though these "dollar store" items remained the same price.

What an awesome engaging lesson!

Algebra 1

A Game of Clue

Six contestants on a reality TV show were stunned to find that their lowest scoring colleague was "injured." They must figure out the crime before the bell rings. The question is where, how, and Who Dunnit?

Miss Estrada's Algebra 1 classes had to search the school for clues to find out Who Dunnit! In this lesson the students applied their knowledge of solving two-step equations to piece together that Mrs. Gamma was Electrocuted in the Gym!

Environmental Science

Students in the Environmental Science class took the class period to go out to the prairie and draw a bird's eye view map of a 10m x 10m area. The map includes both biotic and abiotic parts of their area. They observe the conditions such as sunlight, water, type of soil, etc. At the end, students would compare their areas with others to see and discuss the differences on what affects the organisms living there.

Economics Presentations

The presentations in Economics are for the Entrepreneur Project. The objective is to make a presentation about any entrepreneur in history--Bill Gates, Jeffery Bezos--anyone who took a risk in creating a business. The rubric requested a background of their life, what type of businesses they had, whether or not they had initially failed, and if they had become successful in the end. We had many amazing presentations which all featured different entrepreneurs, including: Nikola Tesla, Jason Citron, and Simon Beckerman.

Sociology

Norms Project

Mr. Erik's Sociology class was challenged to break a social norm. They could either write a paper about it, or they could film a video and get reactions. One student, junior Makala Chang, decided to dress up and go to fast food franchises. "I even brought a table cloth and silverware to eat at McDonalds," states Makala. "I didn't know whether to expect a lot of staring and wonders of 'what is she wearing', or just be ignored." After editing and analyzing her project, Makala and the class definitely found quite a few people staring and judging because she was out of the norm.

Algebra 1

Escape Room

Oh no! The Algebra 1 students were trapped! They had to prove their mastery in two-step equations through 3 different levels to escape the classroom. First, they battled the room of strings to unlock their second clue. Then, they put their skills together to build a pyramid of equations to unlock the third clue. Their mastery of two-step equations assisted them in deciphering a riddle to FINALLY escape the room! Each team of students took a picture with the escape frame once they completed the activity.

Beth Lewis King

ALS Night

On September 3rd, the Hebron boys and girls varsity volleyball teams hosted a fundraiser night for Beth King. Beth has ALS and the past year has been a hard for her, so both teams decided to host a fundraiser to help raise money for her. ALS is a nervous system disease that weakens muscles and impacts physical function. Beth is Senior volleyball player, Logan Zacarias' mom, and she has shown so much support for the boys and girls-- it was time to return the favor. We called it Aces For ALS, and everyone got t-shirts on the team and they were sold at the ticket booth. While announcing the players, each player walked over to Beth and gave her a rose as their name was called, many people hugged her as well. The opposing team, Kouts, also wore blue the whole night and gave her roses while the players were announced. It was such an eye-opening night to see people who don't know Beth, give her so much support. There were many happy tears and lots of love on September 3rd.

Seniors

Parking

Shout out to Hebron seniors Madalyn Molnar, Rebekah Hays, and Myah Donovan for this amazing idea! Senior Max Pastrick says, "The thing that inspired my parking spot is that I run". The thing that inspired senior Myah Donovan's spot is, "The foot prints are the steps to graduating". It took Max Pastrick 2 hours to make his XC parking spot and it took Myah Donovan 2 1/2 hours to do hers. According to Max it was easier than he expected and Myah was the opposite, it took her 2 gallons of black paint to just cover it.

September 11th Tribute

at Bulldog Park

On February 23rd, 2021, Peyton Walter played the national anthem to begin the night's basketball game. A recording of him playing went viral on social media. With his name out there, he has been able to expand his horizons, and was able to play at Shadyhill Speedway, Rockin' Rails Fest in Griffith, and The September 11th Twentieth Anniversary Tribute Concert at Bulldog Park in Crownpoint. Photographer David Centifanto, took pictures of the event so we can highlight the amazing talents here at Hebron High School.
