Why HM?: Of the many reasons I love HM, the aspect that I believe is truly unmatched is the faculty. As a student, having faculty that genuinely love and are immersed in the subjects they are teaching has enhanced my academic experience so much. They care about our success and well-being so deeply, beyond test scores or essay grades. I feel that I come out of each class with a genuine understanding of not only the course material, but why its implications are crucial. Also, I believe that HM fosters an environment where every single student is passionate about something, which creates a very special, enriching community of interdisciplinary knowledge. If you are passionate about something, no matter how niche it may be, you can find a way to pursue it at HM.

Favorite In-Class Discussions: Looking in context of the relationship between the individual and the state, does state sovereign immunity overly restrict the rights of an individual by creating relatively limited options for someone whose federal rights have been violated by a state?
