Hong Kong – Monday, October 3, 2022 - Canadian International School of Hong Kong (CDNIS) is pleased to announce it has once again been recognized as an Apple Distinguished School for 2022-2025 for its integration of technology in helping to create a centre of educational excellence and leadership. CDNIS first received designation in 1998.

Apple Distinguished Schools are centres of innovation, leadership and educational excellence. They use Apple technology to inspire creativity, collaboration and critical thinking in learning, teaching and the school environment, and have documented results of academic accomplishment.

Head of School Dr. Jane Camblin said, "CDNIS is proud of this designation as it validates our commitment to providing our students and teachers with the technological tools and creative skills that will help them contribute to an increasingly integrated world. CDNIS has a long history of integrating technology and education, having long been an Apple-based school. This award reaffirms CDNIS' success in providing a modern and innovative teaching and learning environment that nurtures creativity, digital literacy and 21st Century collaboration."

In addition to its 1-to-1 iPad and MacBook programmes, the school also supports a 1-to-1 robot programme in grades 3-5 and App development using Xcode in grades 8-10. Additionally, CDNIS has had no fewer than 9 teaching staff designated as Apple Distinguished Educators who are both facilitators and educators themselves helping teach others about how technology can best be used in the classroom.

Canadian International School of Hong Kong has long been a benchmark for educational excellence and is renowned for its academic innovation and its welcoming and supportive community. One of Asia's top international schools, CDNIS inspires academic and personal growth in its students by encouraging inquiry, stimulating creativity and innovation, embracing cross-cultural and global perspectives, and fostering meaningful participation and service.
