ARTS: JOE GATTO LEAVES “IMPRACTICAL JOKERS” AFTER 10 YEARS ON THE SHOW

MARCH 8, 2022 | JOEY ZINZI | 36 COMMENTS

Joe Gatto is one of the most renowned television comedians of the decade. His show, “Impractical Jokers,” has had nine seasons filled with pranks, laughter, and fun. Its cast of four comedians, Joe Gatto, Brian Quinn, Sal Vulcano, and James Murray, are known on the show as simply Joe, Q, Sal, and Murr.

These four met at their high school, Monsignor Farrell High School, on Staten Island. Prior to the show, they made skits online under the name, “The Tenderloins.” Thus far, the show consists of 224 episodes filled to the brim with funny moments, hilarious dares, and amusing challenges for the loser of each episode to face. Losers who fail a dare/challenge given by the other members are given a gut-wrenching task to do in public.

The show highlights many memories being made and years of laughter, so that viewers might think that this bond of brotherhood between the comedians would be inseparable. But, sadly, soon after the new year began, Joe Gatto announced that he would be leaving the “Impractical Jokers.” Millions of viewers were heartbroken.

Prior to this announcement, Joe seemed the least likely of the four stars to leave the troupe. He posted the announcement of his departure on Instagram (see below). He cited personal reasons, saying he needed to “focus on being the best father and co-parent.”

The use of the word “co-parent” was later tied to soon released news that Joe and his wife, Betty, who he married in 2013, had recently divorced. Although fans were sad to hear of his leaving, most understood this underlying issue in his personal life and the impact it had on him.

Many fans have already marked 2022 as a disappointing year. Despite the initial sadness accompanying this announcement, fans were happy to see that Joe still has some live shows scheduled for this year. Q shared his condolences on Twitter but wrote that “there is still more to come,” alluding to the new season that will pick back up without Joe in January.

Joe will be missed, especially as he was labeled the funniest of the group, leaving some fans to theorize that all this distress will encourage him to possibly return. Despite his leaving, Joe has remained in contact and close friendship with the other members. So, even though “The Impractical Jokers” might have lost a member, the comedians’ friendship did not end.

Speaking on behalf of the viewers, we all feel for Joe and have a special place in our hearts for him. We wish the best to him and his family and are proud of the courage it takes to set aside the time he needs for himself, and we hope for a return of some sort once he has had the time to focus on his personal life.

Hey, Everyone.

Sorry in advance for the long and more-serious-than-usual note below, I just wanted to let you all know that I will no longer be involved with Impractical Jokers.

Alongside my friends, I've devoted a decade of my life to building this franchise and couldn't be prouder of what has been accomplished. However, due to some issues in my personal life, I have to step away. Bessy and I have decided to amicably part ways, so now I need to focus on being the best father and co-parent to our two incredible kids.

Outside of my family, my relationships with Murr, Q and Sal have been the most important in my life. I know they will continue to make the world laugh. And even though the four of us are the ones who you all see, this show is only possible due to the hard work of the talented crew members who work behind the scenes. I am very thankful to have worked with each and every one of them.

To all of the amazing fans, thank you for allowing me to make you laugh with Jokers. They say that laughter is the best medicine, and I hope I've been able to provide some of that over the last decade. Seeing you laugh has been my own medicine, particularly in these weird and difficult times we find ourselves.

As I work through the challenges I am facing, I hope to and am excited to create new ways to entertain you.

Much love,
Joe

Heya! I just wanted to ask if you ever have any issues with hackers?

My last blog (wordpress) was hacked and I ended up losing several weeks of hard work due to no data backup. Do you have any solutions to protect against hackers?
