

Counselor's Corner Mitchell Elementary

In the month of November and December teachers will be introducing Kindergarten students to and re-visiting with older students the idea of the best self. Our best self is the person that we strive to be each day and this can change based on the situation. Students will begin to understand the characteristics that describe their best selves, that there are different ways to respond to our environment, the cues that their bodies give them when they need to stop and think and strategies that work best for them to regulate their emotions. This leads right into the idea of the meta-moment. The Meta-Moment is when we sense a change in our emotions, pause to take a deep breath and think, visualize our best self and strategize to act as our best self. This sounds like a lot, but we take it slow and students have plenty of time and opportunity to practice.

- November 11: Veterans Day, No School

ACTION FOR HAPPINESS Happier · Kinder · Together

Did you know that giving thanks can help you feel happier? More satisfied? Gratitude is a thankful appreciation for what an individual receives, whether tangible or intangible. Numerous studies have shown a positive correlation between happiness/satisfaction and practicing gratitude. Gratitude is a way for people to appreciate what they have instead of always reaching for something new in the hopes it will make them happier or thinking they can't feel satisfied until every physical and material need is met. "Gratitude helps people refocus on what they have instead of what they lack. And, although it may feel contrived at first, this mental state grows stronger with use and practice." During this holiday season, we encourage you and your family to make gratitude a part of your weekly or daily routine. Start small and see where your gratitude can take you.
