

Diego Martinez

Trustee Diego Martinez was born and raised in San José, CA in an English and Spanish bilingual household. His parents immigrated from Guanajuato, Mexico to the United States for a better opportunity for him and his older sibling.

Trustee Martinez grew up in an underserved neighborhood in East San José and attended local public schools. With hard work, dedication, and with the support of his family, he received an Associates Degree in Administration of Justice from Evergreen College and a Bachelors Degree in Political Science from San José State University.

Trustee Martinez has worked for various locally elected officials, and is credited with helping several ballot measure campaigns and local candidates get elected to office, through local political consulting firm, Eldridge Political Partners LLC, and will start working for San Jose Councilmember-elect Omar Torres, when he is sworn into office in January 2023.

Trustee Martinez has been living in the OGSD since 2004, along with his thirteen year old son. He understands that every child has a different story and comes from a different background, so we must work together to improving our children's lives because they are our future.
