Fluent Reader

- Read something aloud to your child every day.
- Read aloud with him every day at a steady pace, using expression, and watching for punctuation.
- Choose reading material slightly below his reading level making it easier to gain speed and accuracy.

Make Memorizing Math Facts A

Game!

- Any time you're riding in the car with your child, challenge her to see who can say a particular set of math facts the fastest.
- Time yourself/sibling and then your child.
- Reward the winner.
- Play with a different set of facts.
- Reward the winners

- Set strict time guidelines (begin & end) that won't be changed except for emergencies.
- Help your child understand you are support, not an engaged homework completer.
- Don't accept excuses of not understanding assignments (make your child find solutions in his books).
- Celebrate your child's
