Is your child experimenting with drugs/ alcohol/ vaping?

Please take a few moments to review the list of signs and symptoms of use you may see at home and what you can do to support your child.

- Talking about alcohol, vaping or other drugs
- Glorifying drug use, defending it
- Tardiness, absences (more than used to)
- Change in behavior, mood swings, inappropriate laughing
- Lower grades, failing grades, lack of interest
- Change in friends/not introducing you
- Secretive/door closed more or closes phone/laptop around you
- Excessive talking or fidgeting
- Argumentative when not normally so
- Bloodshot eyes, dilated pupils (large), pinpoint pupils (tiny)
- Excessive sniffing
- Poor health, chronic coughing
- Spending less time with family than used to
- Smelling incense, room/body sprays, cologne/perfume more and more

Some of these are normal adolescence, but if you are concerned that they might be using substances, you can ask them, search their rooms, look on their social media, texts, give them a home urinalysis, etc. Childhood is not a democracy and you have every right to know what they are up to, who they are with, what they are keeping in their rooms and what they are posting on social media.

By not taking a stand against drug use, talk or behavior, we send messages that it is acceptable or you aren't concerned about them using. You are in an excellent position to help them get support if their use is creating problems in their lives (any use is changing their brain chemistry and not allowing to mature/develop naturally).

You can reach out to me at the school via phone, email or zoom (I am in all 4 high schools with 1 day in each building). You can also refer your teen to me to chat confidentially at the school or you could attend YES' Alcohol Drug Education Class with them on a Saturday morning from 9:30am-12:30pm on zoom and is no-cost for LWSD families (register at www.youtheastsideservices.org/adc) Or you can check out this website to access mental health, substance use or other kinds of counseling at <https://findtreatment.samhsa.gov/> in your community.

Let's keep working together to support your students to make healthy choices for their futures. andrea.frost@youtheastsideservices.org (encrypted email) or 425-586-2307 (confidential voicemail).
