

The Development of Speech Sounds

This chart shows the age at which children typically develop the ability to articulate consonant sounds in the English language. Vowels are generally correctly pronounced by the age of three. Since all children do not develop at the same time and in the same way, this information depicts a general range of development and should only be used as a guide.

