Principle’s Update (Alia Sutor):
• There’s a superintendent opening. It is open until Friday, February 17. Please encourage parents to look online and take advantage of opportunities they offer families to get involved and give their input for who it is elected. They will narrow it down to eight finalists first.
• For staffing updates, Edinbrook is still short one strategist teacher. A couple of months ago, Edinbrook added a second strategist classroom because they have so many kids that had come or transferred from the district that need the level 3 self-contained. A classroom was added but no teacher, no one applied. They assigned somebody from the district that was doing district building special ed stuff temporally in that position, but not permanent. There’s two special ed ESP openings that are still unfilled. Special ed positions are really hard to hire for.
• A reminder to dress for the weather that some of the wet snow, kids are not wearing proper clothes and getting wet and wanting to come in and change and wanting clothes from the nurse. She doesn’t have enough clothes for everyone to change. Just a reminder to parents that kids go outside and 0 degrees is the cutoff.
• Wisdom Begins with Wonder, Edinbrook’s big AVID event is coming up next Wednesday, January 18 from 4:30-6:00 P.M. There's a play do station, all kinds of hands on activities. Every grade level is doing an activity and it's all science based. A lot of it is based on the current science they're doing or what they've already done. It's similar to the Children's Museum. There will be snacks.
• In February, Edinbrook will have Mayor Hollies Winston of Brooklyn Park, his daughter is a 1st grader at Edinbrook, has agreed to come and speak. The theme is the power of 1. Denise Martineau is getting it all together. The Mayor Winston is coming mid-February to speak to the whole school. Edinbrook hasn't had a whole school assembly in three years. We plan to have one assembly before Mayor Winston comes to practice sitting all together.
• Edinbrook is on the north star list for accountability measures for our special education students for not meeting certain or not having strong enough progress for meeting test scores. The state published a list over the summer of buildings and what sub group they made the list on. Edinbrook made it in only special education. So as part of that, it's part of a three-year plan with the state that you have to do certain things. Part of that is inviting families and parents to have opportunities to have input on strategic planning and changes for that subgroup. Surveys will be sent out over the next three years over that subgroup.

- Jason Weappa, the lead engineer, got a promotion. He has moved to the high school. Dawn Ewer will be the new lead engineer. Her position is open.

Volunteer Coordinator Update (Cortlandt Drake)
- Absent

Bingo Night Recap (Friday, November 11)
- It was a success. Emily Sullivan did an awesome job in finding donations. Al was complimentary to the event. PTO raised a little lower than normal. It may be due to inflation of food and supplies. PTO came in at $1,644.86.
