“ We are strong believers in a Jewish day school education. We sent our two children to Denver JDS; we've served on the board and on various committees; we believe the future of strong Jewish leaders starts with a strong Jewish education. As such, we've included Denver JDS in our estate plans. ”

— Sheryl & Ken Feiler

Denver Jewish Day School is the ultimate benefactor of your Planned Giving. But there are tax advantages for you, too.

When you name Denver Jewish Day School as a beneficiary of your IRA or other retirement asset, you'll be able to enjoy several tax advantages.

- Retirement assets incur income taxes when given to friends or family in your estate, but non-profits such as Denver JDS would receive the full amount of a donation with no tax implications.
- Your estate would also offset state taxes with the charitable contribution.
- You can divide retirement assets between charities and your heirs.

If you're considering giving a percentage of a retirement account (or any other asset) to Denver JDS, please contact us. We'd love to help you impact our students for years to come through a legacy gift.
