REVISED:

910. COMMUNITY RELATIONS

1. Purpose

The Joint Operating Committee feels it is imperative that communication be maintained in both directions between the school and local institutions, organizations and groups, such as industry, business, labor, charity and others that comprise the structure of the community.

2. Authority

The Joint Operating Committee has authority over the students in its care but shares that authority to a limited extent through the cooperative programs that take students into the community during part of their technical educational career. To make those experiences meaningful, the Joint Operating Committee feels cooperation with the community is essential.

Any programs that develop from cooperative community efforts require Joint Operating Committee approval prior to implementation.
