High School of Business

Empowering Next Gen Business Leaders

"The other students in my first college lecture were frantically taking notes. Not me. I'd already learned it in High School of Business™."

— Josh Dardick, college freshman

High School of Business™ is a program of MBA Research and Curriculum Center, a not-for-profit 501(c)(3) organization operated by state education departments and doing business as MBAResearch.

and parent of High School of Business™ graduate

Projects

How can a town attract new businesses?
What’s the best economic use of a vacant city lot?
What type of business should you open?

Tough questions like these are faced by business professionals every day. These aren’t one-word answers. Complex questions demand research, critical thinking, and collaboration. These same questions are being tackled by High School of Business™ students in high schools across the nation. Project-based learning provides the format. Students take ownership of a project and present conclusions to business executives. And the feeling of a job well done? Well, nothing compares. And that’s when students begin to believe in themselves.

High School of Business™ is a rigorous business administration program for college-bound students. The standards-based course sequence includes college-level learning outcomes, individual assignments, integrated technology, reflection, and a third-party assessment. The program is positioned for value-added options, such as local college or university credit, honors weighting, and proof of learning certification.

Benefits

High School of Business™ is designed for student success.

The program’s structure is tailored for students to achieve the skills and confidence to excel in college business administration programs.
