THE POWER OF RELATIONSHIPS

Walking around campus you'll see names on buildings and spaces – Kennedy Field House, Higgins Hall, Scaccia Auditorium, Koessler Academic Center, Beecher and Montante wings – and many more. The names celebrate relationships. Each has a story woven into Canisius' rich history and tradition.

In this issue of Canisius High School Today you will meet some of our recently graduated seniors. There's a recurring theme of "brotherhood" that emerges in their reflections – a brotherhood formed over the years that is real and genuine. Friendships. Teammates. Brothers. At Canisius, it's all about relationships.

In the pages ahead, you will see lots of names, including the names of some of the people who are bringing our capital campaign projects to fruition. It's because of the strong relationships with Canisius and Jesuit education that alumni, parents, and friends have committed to projects that will bridge our school from its rich traditions of the last 150 years into the future with a bold vision.

"Friendships. Teammates. Brothers.
At Canisius, it's all about relationships."

The name of Michael Madden '67 will soon grace a new addition to campus – the Madden Center for Global Learning – to be built adjacent to the Rand mansion. Mike's $2.5 million gift for building and funding the Center is a testament to his belief in Jesuit education.

Aidan O'Donnell '21 receiving the Midshipman Jeffrey R. Korn '79 Memorial Award at graduation.

Another name now adorns the third floor of the Canisius Center for the Arts. The orchestra room was dedicated in honor of longtime Canisius faculty member and arts supporter Fr. Paul S. Naumann, S.J. thanks to the generosity of Robin and Ken Kencel '77. If you missed the virtual dedication event, I invite you to watch the replay at canisiushigh.org/naumann.

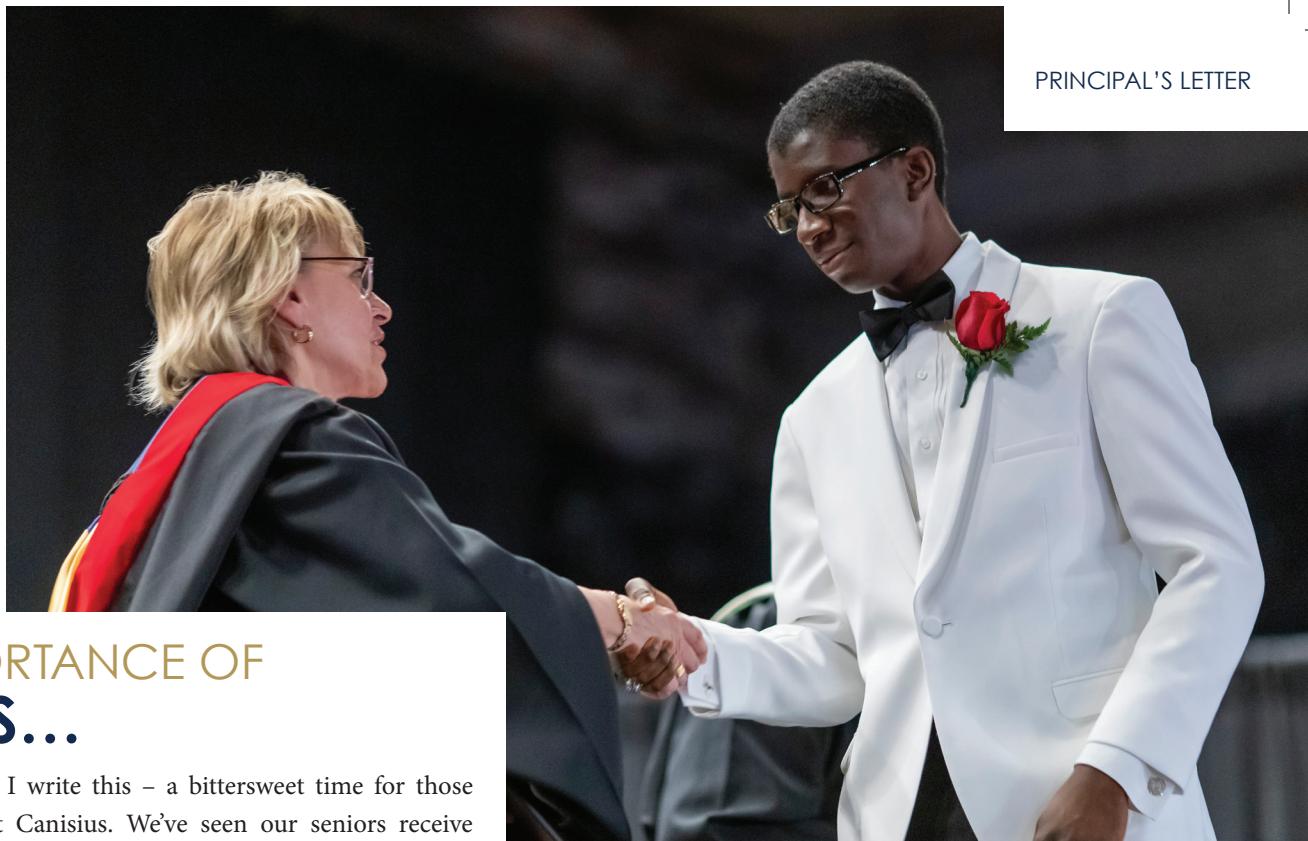

The names that don't make it onto buildings are no less important to us. Each of us has something to contribute. Names of our benefactors are listed in the Impact Report section of this magazine in an expression of our gratitude for their continued support and relationship with the school. Please enjoy the magazine and its celebration of Canisius.

For more than 150 years members of the Canisius community – students, faculty, staff, families – have been invited into relationship with one another. New relationships will form and flourish for years to come in the Madden Center for Global Learning, the Naumann Orchestra Room, and our many other named and unnamed spaces. With Jesus Christ at the center and heart of our school community, these relationships will continue to transform the world for God's greater glory. That's our mission – past, present and future.

With my prayers and gratitude,

David Ciancimino, S.J.

THE IMPORTANCE OF RITUALS...

It's summertime as I write this – a bittersweet time for those of us who work at Canisius. We've seen our seniors receive their diplomas, blessed them, and sent them out to their next adventures. The faces of these newest alumni are being added to Alumni Hall, alongside those from past generations, ready to greet future generations of Crusaders in the decades to come.

There is little time to dwell on sentimentality as we are also eagerly preparing to welcome the next group of Crusaders. They arrive for freshman orientation in September to meet their new classmates and teachers, and to learn their House assignments. Thus, the cycle begins anew as these young men journey toward the day when they, too, will walk across the stage as graduates in four short years.

"Rituals touch the heart and give meaning to the things we do."

The fiber that knits these transitions together, and sustains the experience of Jesuit education for our students year after year, is our embrace of rituals. Rituals touch the heart and give meaning to the things we do.

Almost immediately, our students realize that Canisius ritualizes nearly everything that is special or sacred to us. The Mass of the Holy Spirit opens the school year inviting God's Holy Spirit to bless our school community. The Masses at Thanksgiving and Christmastime serve as the centerpieces of school celebrations. The Baccalaureate Mass reflects in a spirit of thanksgiving on the four years and asks God's blessing on our seniors as they graduate.

In more recent years it has been a tradition for faculty, staff, and upperclassmen to applaud the freshmen as the new class enters through the blue doors together for the first time. This bookends with the ritual of the faculty clapping for the new alumni as they exit onto the front lawn on graduation night.

TiyiOluwa Adegboyega '21 is honored at graduation with a Hogenkamp Award for his academic achievement.

Rituals sometimes change over time. Older alumni often recall the motorcades that preceded the Canisius vs. St. Joe's football games. Young alumni fondly remember their antics with the Blue Crew at big games. We stand for the prayer and pledge at the start of each school day. We light candles at the induction ceremony welcoming new members of the National Honor Society. We sing carols, decorate classrooms and the foyer at Christmastime. A common thread in all these rituals is that they mark the significance of the moment. Rituals make the intangible real.

Now, as we begin a new school year perhaps we've developed an even deeper appreciation for our rituals after many of them had to be paused for the last year and a half. We felt the disappointment of the Class of 2020 over their outdoor graduation. We've missed gathering together for schoolwide Masses and blessing our Companions participants as we send them off for service immersions. We want to be able to present Kairos crosses to participants on overnight retreats.

The Ignatian practice of finding God in all things, even a pandemic, can change us. Let us go into this new school year with a renewed appreciation for our shared beliefs and the rituals which make them tangible and help us to hold them in our memories.

Respectfully,

Andrea Tyrpak-Endres

GLOBAL VISION

Michael Madden's $2.5 million gift is the largest of the "Rich Tradition. Bold Vision." campaign.

A year from now, the view of the Canisius campus from Delaware Avenue should look a little different. Construction is expected to begin next year on the Madden Center for Global Learning between the Koessler Academic Center (Rand mansion) and the Beecher classroom wing. This new campus addition will feature a modern architectural design and will provide a programmatic experience to enhance and promote learning by connecting students with Jesuit institutions, Canisius alumni, and other learning opportunities worldwide. Faculty and students will be able to participate in educational and cultural exchanges opening Canisius students to a world of knowledge beyond the classroom.

The idea for the Madden Center for Global Learning is becoming a reality thanks to a $2.5 million gift from Michael Madden '67. His gift is the largest of the "Rich Tradition. Bold Vision." capital campaign.

"I consider myself very blessed with a wonderful family, strong personal relationships and some good fortune in my business career," says Mike. "I also believe a major underpinning of my life has been the time I spent at Canisius."

Mike grew up in South Buffalo and received a scholarship to attend Canisius as his family was unable to afford tuition with his steelworker father on disability. Mike also helped fund his tuition by working as a delivery driver after school. He excelled academically at Canisius, while outside of school he found success boxing in the Golden Gloves program. After earning his undergraduate degree at Le Moyne College, Mike completed his MBA at the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania. He then worked for a Wall Street securities firm, where he ultimately ran global investment banking before founding his private equity investment firm, BlackEagle Partners. The Madden School of Business at Le Moyne College is also named in his honor.

“A major underpinning of my life has been the time I spent at Canisius.”

“Mike’s generosity is a testament to the kind of man he is,” says Canisius President Fr. David Ciancimino, S.J. “We are grateful for his leadership in this campaign, and for providing resources to enable the school to build on its 150 years of rich history and implement a bold vision of Jesuit education for tomorrow’s students.”

“I applaud Fr. Ciancimino for his vision and I am grateful to have the ability to give back to my alma mater,” Mike says. “The Center for Global Learning will enhance the opportunity for today’s Canisius students to interact with the global community and gain insight into the critical issues of our time.”

Construction is expected to get underway in summer 2022 with the Center ready for use by the end of 2022.

ONWARD AND UPWARD WITH THE ARTS

On June 18, 2021 the orchestra room on the third floor of the Canisius Center for the Arts was dedicated in honor of longtime Canisius faculty member and arts supporter Fr. Paul S. Naumann, S.J. The dedication is the result of a gift from Ken Kencel '77 and his wife, Robin. Ken's relationship with Fr. Naumann began when Ken was freshman at Canisius, and it has evolved into a lifelong friendship.

Robin and Ken Kencel '77.

"In many respects P.S. (Fr. Naumann) was the father I never had. He was kind, demanding, and always there for me. When my mother died freshman year, he did a beautiful Mass for her. When I was accepted to Georgetown my senior year, he was the first one I told. I was, and am, incredibly grateful for his kindness and support through all these years...I am so grateful for what Canisius has provided to me and for teachers like P.S. Naumann who taught me so much, not just about academics but about life and how to be the man I've become. P.S. – you are an amazing person and have lived an incredible life. You have influenced so many like myself with your wisdom, passion, humor, and great kindness."

GAME CHANGER

Bryan Tenney '76 remembers the Delaware Park “hops”, both as a player and a long-time coach of Canisius High School baseball.

“While we loved the tradition of playing home games at the park, the diamonds were not always in the best shape – what looked like a simple ground ball would often turn into a bad hop,” he explains. “The city did the best it could, but over time it was only natural that Canisius began to look at alternatives.”

“There is just something to be said about calling a diamond your home field.”

The Crusaders now have that alternative – two new baseball diamonds with synthetic turf to be developed at the school’s Stransky Athletic Complex in West Seneca. Approval by the town should allow Canisius to move the project from the on deck circle to the plate. Work will soon begin on a varsity diamond with synthetic turf, a home locker room, and a junior varsity diamond with synthetic turf infield.

Bryan played first base under Canisius Athletic Hall of Fame coach Connie McGillicuddy '39, and in 1991 Bryan became the third varsity baseball coach in Canisius history. His teams won 12 Georgetown Cups over a span of 27 years before Bryan retired from coaching in 2018.

When asked to pitch in with fundraising for the new diamonds, Bryan did not hesitate. “Needless to say, I have an affinity for Canisius baseball and anything we can do for our players is nothing but a plus for the program,” he says.

Canisius swept St. Joe’s in the 2021 playoffs to capture the Georgetown Cup. It is the first Georgetown Cup title for the Crusaders since 2016.

Tim Short '01 played third base as a Crusader under Coach Tenney and agrees there was no such thing as a routine grounder in Delaware Park. Tim was called up to varsity as a sophomore and was a starter his junior and senior years when the team won the Georgetown Cup. He was team captain his senior year.

“It was an impressive baseball program with high expectations to live up to,” Tim recalls. “Coach Tenney fostered the right mix of intense competition but also a lot of fun and great memories.”

Tim also stepped up to the plate to help with fundraising for the new diamonds and made phone calls to his fellow Crusaders to talk about the project and gain support.

“There is just something to be said about calling a diamond your home field,” Tim concludes. “The new diamonds are sure to instill an added sense of pride and motivation for future Crusaders.”

“People on and off the field have long shown tremendous support for Canisius baseball,” adds Bryan. “It’s exciting to see that same support come together to advance the new diamonds to the next phase.”

PREPARATION + OPPORTUNITY = SUCCESS

BY STEVEN CZARNECKI '21

For the last four years, Steven Czarnecki '21 has served on the school's Press Corps as the dedicated writer of the "Crusaders Roundup" – an online weekly report on Canisius' athletic teams. He also played baseball and volleyball for Canisius. Steve is headed to Notre Dame where he plans to study business analytics.

Canisius has earned a reputation for developing college student-athletes. While the national average of high school seniors who go on to compete in college sports is less than two percent, Canisius averages between 8-12 percent annually. This year, Canisius had 21 graduating seniors committed to college sports programs – that's 11%.

So, what is Canisius' secret?

Niagara University baseball commit Vincent Mauro '21 helps shed some light on the subject. The pandemic created some bumps in the road of his recruitment process when his junior season was canceled. He feels fortunate that he had a support system in his Canisius coaches that he could go to for guidance.

"I asked Coach (Justin) Santonocito, 'Do you think I'll be able to play Division I baseball someday?'" recalls Vincent. "He replied with, 'Just go out and keep working like you have been and you will end up in the best place for you.'" Vincent followed that advice and wound up receiving a Division I offer.

Connections are also important in the recruiting process. Ethan Weislo '21 and Noah Weislo '21, commits to Division III volleyball powerhouse Springfield College, did not know much about their future school, but their coach and father, Tom Weislo, was familiar with the program.

"Coach Weislo knew [the Springfield coach], [and] he reached out to my dad to have us visit," explains Ethan. Eventually, each of the twins decided that the program was a great fit for his future. Personal links such as this through the Canisius network can be advantageous to student-athletes trying to decide on a college.

Aside from recruitment, Canisius prepares student-athletes to succeed in college. Ethan, the reigning All-Western New York Volleyball Player of the Year, attributes much of his success to competing "at a high level for multiple years," and playing varsity against seniors when he was a sophomore. The setter is not exaggerating, as the volleyball team has even traveled to Puerto Rico to face elite opponents.

Similarly, Vincent says Canisius has prepared him for balancing his future collegiate life.

"Having good time management skills as a college athlete is huge because your days are filled with practices and workouts," Vincent states. Many student-athletes may struggle to adjust to a heavy workload in college, but Vincent feels prepared for the academic rigor thanks to Canisius.

Playing a sport in college is difficult, but preparations during the high school years can put a student-athlete on the road to success at the next level. Whether it is athletically or academically, Canisius prepares students for life.

Track Titles

Derek Baker '21 won the 200 and 400 at the All-Catholics track meet and was the only individual dual medalist in the boys meet. Derek is headed to Duquesne University on a full 4-year academic scholarship to study forensic science in a dual pre-med pre-law program.

National Champions

Winning Streak

Championship Repeat

Canisius defeated St. Francis in the title game of the shortened 2020-2021 football season this spring to capture the Monsignor Martin championship for the fourth time in the last five seasons. Following the season, Head Coach Rich Robbins stepped down after ten seasons in order to move with his family to Florida. Bryan Gorman was named the interim head coach of the varsity team for the fall 2021 season following nine successful seasons leading the Crusaders JV team.

MENTORS AND MENTEES

BY SCOTT WALTERS, JOGUES HOUSE

When the House System launched at Canisius two years ago – pre-pandemic – with a major goal being to build stronger interpersonal relationships, no one could foresee the COVID-related challenges we'd face. My questions at the time were: How will this work? Are we getting in over our heads? And, most importantly, will the kids buy in?

I signed up to be a House mentor which is basically a homeroom advisor with 20 students from all grade levels – freshmen to seniors. Once a student is assigned a mentor group, he stays with that group all four years to help build bonds and foster mentoring relationships, both teacher-to-student and peer-to-peer. Two years later, despite COVID's curveballs, the success of the program is evident.

Most Tuesday and Thursday mornings you can find me in the first floor Montante hallway playing bean bag toss with my mentees, or anyone bold enough to take on the champ (ask the kids if you don't believe me). The first year of the program was certainly an adjustment. One of those adjustments was the relocation of teachers to different parts of the campus so they could physically be with their Houses. Over the years I had come to count on seeing certain colleagues in certain locations, and now those locations have changed. I remember the boys on their first day with the House System asking me where this teacher or that teacher was, and I still find myself answering those same questions when alumni come to visit. It felt a bit like the building had been turned upside down. We had grown comfortable in our ways.

"It is a big decision to implement this type of change, but it's something we needed."

At a school such as Canisius with 150 years of success, it is a big decision to implement this type of change, but it's something we needed. In this digital age with screens all around us (including classrooms) we had disconnected from each other. I believe the House System has changed that. For me, it has been a natural fit with my approach as a teacher: Get to know the boys, then try to get their attention in class; focus on "why" before "how." These things fit perfectly within the House System. Mentor group time in the mornings has an open campus feel to it. The mix of all grade levels within each House has empowered our upperclassmen to embolden the underclassmen. People are talking to each other. I'm not only referring to the last-minute efforts to complete homework (we have all been there), but that student who before would have had his eyes attached to the screen is now up and having conversations in many cases.

Of course, nothing is perfect and we will continue to adjust. Like anything of value, the House System is an evolving entity and I am excited to see where it takes us as a school.

Scott Walters' Canisius journey began when he was a junior in college and Eric Amodeo '94 recruited him to coach football. After earning his mechanical engineering degree, grad school, and working for a boarding school, Scott returned to Canisius as a teacher in 2007. He currently teaches Physics and Game Design.

HOMETOWN: Tonawanda

WHAT'S NEXT: RIT

COURSE OF STUDY: Computational Mathematics

Math has always been my best subject and I'm interested in computers and technology, so I'm combining those two for my major at Rochester Institute of Technology. It's a world-renowned school for computer science and technology majors and offers many opportunities through networking and a co-op program.

One of the ways Canisius has helped me on my academic journey is through some of the classes I was able to take here. For example, I took AP Computer Science Principles which helped me dive into the CS field; then throughout my four years here I learned two programming languages, JavaScript and Swift. I have gained an immense amount of knowledge in the CS field because of the opportunity to take enriching classes.

Something I'll definitely miss is hanging out with everybody on Stage Crew. I only got involved with Stage Crew because I was recruited by a close friend who was very persistent and kept on asking me to join. I eventually caved in and I am glad I made that decision. Working the soundboard and being in charge of the sound was an immense pleasure. Learning the mechanics of speakers, audio, and soundboards was a great experience. Memories of spending time with my friends every day after school will always stay with me.

HOMETOWN: Buffalo

COURSE OF STUDY: Economics or Business

My dad is a portfolio manager, and I'd like to follow somewhat in his footsteps and help people manage their investments and guide them in their financial decisions. I plan to study either economics or business at Loyola University Chicago which I chose because I liked the campus and everyone I talked to had nothing but great things to say about the school.

It feels like Canisius has given me an advantage over students who may have picked a different high school because the expectation at Canisius was that I would learn to be both a better student and a better member of the community. I've gained numerous learning skills and developed an understanding of what it means to be a "man for others" in school and in the surrounding community.

What I will miss most about Canisius is the brotherhood. Playing hockey, lacrosse, and soccer at Canisius helped strengthen my friendships and created new ones. I've also noticed a closeness that forms within school that spans across grade levels. Whenever someone is in need of help there is always someone willing and able to assist, and that has been a blessing.

ROBERT BASIL '21

HOMETOWN: Orchard Park

WHAT'S NEXT: St. Bonaventure

COURSE OF STUDY: Business Management

Because of my desire to get into the car business, and hopefully run my family's business someday, I plan to study business management at St. Bonaventure University. The other school I seriously considered was Duquesne. Both have good business programs and it ultimately came down to whether I wanted to be in the city or the country. I'm not really much of a city person so St. Bonaventure appealed to me, and it's just over an hour drive from home which is another plus.

I'm getting a start on my career goal this summer by working as a sales associate at Robert Basil Buick GMC in Orchard Park. The car business is not something I want to do just because it's in my family. It truly interests me.

Canisius has definitely prepared me for my next chapter in life in the sense that I feel well-prepared for the workload of college. I am going to miss the support that the teachers at Canisius have given me throughout my past four years. Mr. (John) Anderson in particular played a key role for me when I was struggling during my junior year. He pushed me out of my comfort zone and helped me to dig deeper and realize I was capable of more. The teachers truly make the effort to connect with their students as individuals and that makes the learning environment so much better.

ETHAN DOWNING '21

HOMETOWN: Orchard Park

WHAT'S NEXT: Duquesne

COURSE OF STUDY: Sports Communications

"Down to Talk" is the name of the sports podcast I started recently. It focuses on current sports topics and it's available on Spotify, Apple, and Google podcasts. I've always been interested in sports and enjoyed getting into sports broadcasting for Canisius games, so it seemed natural to me to start podcasting, and I'm planning on studying sports communications at Duquesne University. I like Duquesne's city campus, and that I can be away from home without being too far.

Canisius has taught me to not only think about myself but to think about others in all situations, and has given me the chance to expand my horizons through service. One service project that meant a lot to me was with Friends of the Night People. We provided toothbrushes and other everyday supplies to people who in many cases don't have homes. My mom joined me on that service project and I'm grateful that we were able to do it together.

I love Canisius not for the academics, sports, or any of the other things it's known for. I love it for the simple day-to-day interactions with friends or teachers. On gloomy days when things weren't going my way I could always find happiness through goofing around with friends or having conversations with teachers. Teachers treat students like young adults, with respect, and that means a lot to students.

THE WALK FOR CANISIUS took on a different format for fall 2020 with students encouraged to walk with their families in their own neighborhoods. Students raised more than $ 6 0 , 0 0 0 for Canisius families with financial need and to support the school's House System. The Walkathon is the traditional Canisius student fundraiser, and it exemplifies the community spirit of the school.

 GAMBIT XLVI • MARCH 20, 2021

GAMBIT XLVI

The virtual GAMBIT gala on March 20 was a joyful celebration of our community's commitment to Jesuit education.

Over the past two years GAMBIT raised more than $500,000. During this year's event our benefactors contributed more than $80,000 to the Jesuit Founders Scholarship to help fund the future for Canisius students with financial need. Thank you!

FACULTY RETIREMENT

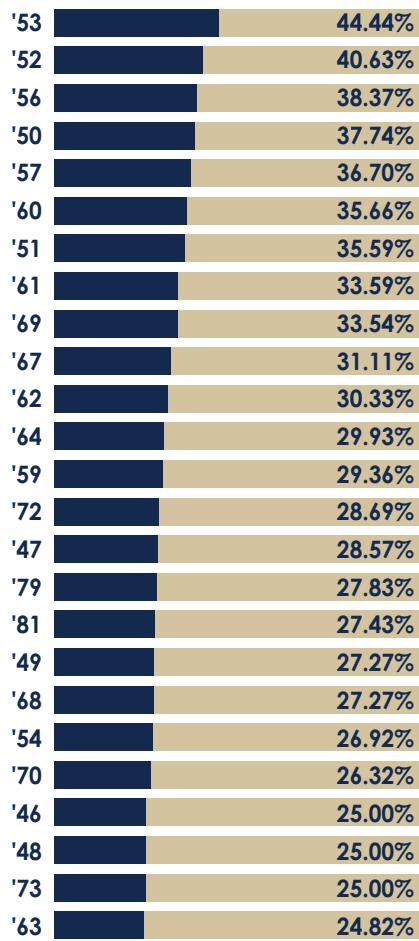

"'Creativity takes courage' -Matisse. It also takes persistence. I hope I have fostered these traits in the young men of Canisius through the art making process. I go forth filled with gratitude for all I have learned from this experience.'"

Visual arts instructor Catherine Pitek P'00 retired this spring after 28 years of teaching, including the last ten at Canisius. Thank you and best wishes, Cathy!

THE POWER OF ALUMNI GIFTS

17% of alumni made gifts to Canisius High School in the 2020-21 fiscal year. If each of the 8,049 alumni who did not give last year made a $25 contribution this year, the result would be an additional $201,225 of support for educating students.

OWEN QUINLIVAN '21

HOMETOWN: Hamburg

WHAT'S NEXT: Michigan State

COURSE OF STUDY: Finance

My brother (John Quinlivan '16) graduated from Michigan State last year and he had an incredible experience at the school, so that helped sway me towards going there. The main reason I chose Michigan State though is because the business school appealed to me. I've been interested in economics ever since middle school, and learning about economics in my AP Government course at Canisius made me even more inclined to study finance. I want to gain a better understanding of how money moves in the economy so I can eventually work in this field.

Canisius has helped prepare me for the future by developing a strong work ethic in me. I took multiple honors courses each year at Canisius and basically had to have a strong work ethic or I wouldn't have made it through those courses. Canisius has also taught me to think outside of the box, and helped deepen my religious conviction. The way Canisius incorporates religion into school life makes it very appealing.

I will remember most the tough times at Canisius. Whether it's a loss in an important game or getting through a seemingly impossible exam, I will miss the brotherhood of Canisius coming together during difficult times.

EVAN RUBINO '21

HOMETOWN: Williamsville

WHAT'S NEXT: St. Bonaventure

COURSE OF STUDY: Public Health

Epidemiology is a subject I've been interested in for a number of years, and over the course of the pandemic my interest in all things health-related, and especially epidemiology, has been further heightened. I plan to major in public health at St. Bonaventure because it is a field where I can use my skills to help people and that is important to me. One of the reasons I chose St. Bonaventure is because it will allow me to be away from home, but it's also a convenient distance so if I need to be home for any reason it isn't very far.

Canisius has prepared me academically for college and given me a good idea of what to expect at the next level, and I feel that the school also has prepared me well for life. I can recall many good conversations in my English class that opened me up to differing viewpoints on a variety of topics. Those discussions have been a good preparation for life.

What I'll remember most about Canisius is simply hanging out with my friends and the fun we had. I'll also remember meeting them all for the first time. It really does feel like it was just yesterday when I walked through the blue doors on my first day of freshman year.

HOMETOWN: Williamsville

WHAT'S NEXT: Alabama

COURSE OF STUDY: Accounting/Business

Ever since I was a kid I have loved the South and wanted to go somewhere down there for college. Plus, I'm big into sports and love the atmosphere of big college games. So, when I visited the University of Alabama it felt right for me, and finding out it had a top business and accounting school was the icing on the cake. Accounting is something I have always had an interest in because it's what my dad does. There are many career paths I could follow with an accounting degree or a business degree.

The last four years have opened my eyes to the fact that we have to work hard to succeed. I found myself countless times slipping off for a bit and my grades would plummet. In college it's all going to be on me; nobody else is going to push me to go to class, do my homework, etc. I will have to find the motivation within myself, and I think Canisius has prepared me for that.

The thing I will miss most about Canisius is the brotherhood. Freshman and sophomore year whenever I heard the "brotherhood" line, I didn't really believe it. Junior and senior year though – especially this year – I truly felt the brotherhood in this school. Every single kid talks to every other kid in a positive way and you don't hear any fighting or bickering at our school. We all get along and help each other because we all like each other and have formed bonds that are indescribable.

COURSE OF STUDY: Political Science

Going all the way back to elementary school I've been curious about government and the way American presidents go about their jobs. That's why I plan to study political science at Binghamton University. I chose Binghamton because it's a leading university for political science, and it's far enough from home to start an independent lifestyle, but also close enough to enjoy the beautiful Finger Lakes region.

As a Jewish student, coming to a private, Jesuit high school when I was a freshman was extremely intimidating. I was unsure how others would react to my religious differences or how I would react to my new environment. However, the experience has pushed me from my comfort zone and helped me become more confident in trying new things.

As I leave Canisius, I will most fondly look back on the friendships and lifelong relationships that I have made here. It may seem like a cliché when we call it a "brotherhood," but it couldn't be more true. These are my brothers for life – something I never thought I would say four years ago. Additionally, I will miss the simple moments of my Canisius experience: hanging out with my teammates after school in the locker room before practice, going on road trips to Houghton and Poughkeepsie for track and cross country meets, and celebrating the annual football game against the school on Kenmore Avenue. These moments made the past four years truly special and unforgettable.

WHAT'S NEXT: Cornell

COURSE OF STUDY: Computer Science

"Any person, any study" is the motto at Cornell University. That appealed to me because I want to challenge myself in the next four years, and knowing an institution will support me regardless of my experience inspires me to be adventurous and daring.

I've always had a thing for computers, from games to any moment I've spent in front of a monitor. I've pursued every course I could to learn more about computers and the amazing things they do, and now I plan to major in computer science at Cornell.

As a sophomore I transferred from the Charter School of Applied Technology to Canisius because I wanted to experience a Catholic community at school. I don't think I would be as much of a man as I am today if I had not walked through those blue doors. It was initially tough being the new guy, but as soon as I jumped in with two feet I felt the passion and drive for excellence ingrained at Canisius. The spiritual formation that Canisius provided was particularly monumental for me. Each retreat I engaged in gave me a new perspective and induced a personal rebirth of what I believed was important to me. I will miss the Blue Crew, my teachers, and classmates. 1180 Delaware will always have a place in my heart.

HOMETOWN: Buffalo

WHAT'S NEXT: Fordham

COURSE OF STUDY: Chemistry

Over the past four years, my family and Canisius have been major influences on my love for helping others. Through service work with Canisius as well as my personal service trip in 2019 to the Galápagos Islands, Ecuador, I have gained a better understanding of why we need to work together and help other people all over the world. I feel I can make the biggest impact through the medical field, so I will be studying chemistry on a pre-med track at Fordham University. I hope to become a dermatological surgeon or a plastic surgeon and use my skills as a "man for others."

I'm excited to continue my Jesuit education for the next four years and I'm looking forward to Fordham not only because of its outstanding reputation and academics, but also because of its New York City location.

The Canisius experiences I will miss most are the sporting events with the Blue Crew cheering on our teams. While these were a lot of fun (especially when we won), they also served the purpose of bringing everyone together as part of a welcoming community. My time at Canisius has also helped me understand my life aspirations. I want to live a life where I can serve others for a better world. From service opportunities to establishing new connections that will last a lifetime, my Canisius experience has changed me in a positive way.

WANT TO LEAVE A CHARITABLE LEGACY?

A charitable bequest can make a difference for future generations of Crusaders while taking into account your charitable wishes and values.

- A charitable bequest is a distribution from your estate to Canisius High School through your last will and testament.
- There are different kinds of charitable bequests with specific language to indicate the precise direction of your assets.
- A bequest to Canisius High School made by will can have substantial estate tax savings.
- As part of your overall estate planning, a charitable bequest can create a legacy for you and your family at Canisius High School.

For further information and to request "Planning Your Legacy", a guide to providing for your family and supporting Canisius High School, please visit www.canisiuslegacy.org or contact Paul Zablocki '01, Development Gifts Officer at 716.200.0262.
