TELECOMMUTING

Definition

Telecommuting is a work arrangement that allows employees to work at home or at some other off-site location for all or some of their regularly scheduled work hours. Telecommuting may be a temporary or long term arrangement. Although not all jobs can be performed satisfactorily from other locations, CABE recognizes that, in some cases, telecommuting arrangements can provide a mutually beneficial option for both CABE and employees.

Employee Eligibility

Candidates for telecommuting arrangements must:

- possess good time-management and organizational skills, and
- be self-motivated, self-reliant and disciplined.

Telecommuting plans must be approved by the employee's supervisor and the CABE Executive Director.

Periodic requests to work from home for a few days may be approved by the employee's supervisor.

Types of Arrangements

While employees and supervisors have the freedom to develop arrangements tailored to employee and departmental needs, the following basic requirements must be met:

- Employees must be able to carry out the same duties, assignments and other work obligations at their home office as they do when working on CABE's premises.
- The workweek for all full-time regular employees is 35 hours, divided into five days, Monday through Friday, with employees expected to work seven hours per day.
- Employees must be available to attend scheduled meetings and participate in other required office activities at the home office as needed.
- The employees at home work hours will conform to a schedule agreed upon by the employee and his or her supervisor.
- Employees shall submit weekly time sheets as required by CABE policy.

Equipment and Office Supplies

CABE may provide telecommuting employees with computer hardware and software, connectivity to host applications and other applicable equipment as CABE deems necessary. Employees are responsible for equipping and maintaining their home offices so that they can accomplish their work in an efficient and expeditious manner.

CABE will provide common office supplies such as paper, pens and paper clips for employees to use in their home offices.

Request Process

Telecommuting arrangements are approved by the supervisor and Executive Director on a case by case basis. Telecommuting might not be feasible within some departments, for certain positions within a department, or at certain times of the year.

CABE has the right to cancel or suspend employee telecommuting privileges at any time, for any reason or for no reason.
