

Transportation Information for NJ Day Students for the 2023-2024 School Year

New Jersey law states that if a school district provides bus transportation for public school students, it must also provide this service to independent school students if the home to school distance is at least two (2) miles and not more than twenty (20) miles. The school district may opt to make direct compensatory payments to a family in lieu of providing transportation.

In order to apply for transportation or reimbursement:

- You must be a New Jersey resident, and your child must be enrolled as a day student at The Hun School.
- To ensure bussing for all students who need it, and even if you will not require transportation, a B6T Transportation Form must be completed and returned to The Hun School.
- Click here to download the form.
- Be sure to print, complete, and return the B6T form no later than March 6th for returning students and April 11th for new students to:

The Hun School of Princeton
Attention Transportation Coordinator
176 Edgerstoune Road
Princeton, NJ 08540

This procedure must be followed each spring as bus arrangements with your school district are not automatically renewed every year. Late admission students should apply immediately to take advantage of any remaining space on the bus, or to be eligible for reimbursement.

Parents must submit one application for each child enrolled at Hun with the name of your local school district (the township to which you pay your taxes) indicated at the top of the form.

The townships of Monroe and Trenton require proof of residency, so please include a copy of a bill with your name and address on it when submitting your completed B6T form.

School districts will notify families over the summer to advise if bus transportation or reimbursement in lieu of transportation will be provided for your child. It is recommended that parents contact your local school district to verify receipt of your application if notification is not received by August 1st. If the B6T for your child is not submitted in a timely manner, it is possible that you may be denied aide in lieu.

Occasionally, parents may use a private transportation company to transport students from districts that do not bus students to The Hun School. Although the School is unable to make transportation arrangements directly with private companies, we are happy to direct you to companies that may be able to assist you.

If you have transportation questions, contact Adrienne Marchioni 609-921-7600 ext 2269.
